QU ranked 87th among top young universities

Qatar University (QU) has announced that it made a significant improvement in the Times Higher Education (THE) Young University Rankings 2018 by advancing its position from #101-150 in 2017 to 87 in 2018. QU president Dr Hassan al-Derham said, "The Times Higher Education Young University Rankings 2018 show an improvement of QU’s last year performance because QU has developed rapidly, but it is now starting to reach maturity with a strong presence on the world stage."

However, the weightings are recalculated to reflect the profile of missions of young universities, and to provide the most comprehensive and balanced comparisons, trusted by students, academics, university leaders, industry and governments.

The performance indicators are grouped into five areas: teaching - the learning environment (20%), research - volume, income and reputation (30%), citations - research influence (30%), international outlook (30%), knowledge transfer (2.5%).

The 2018 rankings in- volve 13 performance indicators to assess research-intensive universities that are aged 50 years or under. The 2018 rankings include 250 institutions from 51 different countries.

The University currently holds 12.8% of the overall position in the THE World University Rankings 2018 by advancing its position from #101-150 in 2017. QU has been a leading institution of academic and research excellence in the region providing high-quality undergraduate and graduate programs taught with the latest educational methods. The achievement demonstrates QU’s pivotal role in contributing to the State of Qatar’s stat- ed ambition towards a knowledge-based economy, and in providing the local and international labour market with distinguished graduates who will contribute to the country’s growth.

"Additionally, the recent Gulf crisis did not affect QU’s research quality and quantity. The University currently holds 12.8% of the overall position in the THE World University Rankings 2018 by advancing its position from #101-150 in 2017. QU which means that papers emerging from QU that are un- authorized with international researchers make up one-third of all internationally-collaborated papers from Qatar as a whole."

WCM-Q researchers probing role of bacteria in autism

Researchers at Weill Cornell Medical College–Qatar (WCM-Q) are investigating the role of bacteria in the human gut in the development of autism spectrum disorder (ASD) and inflammatory bowel disease (IBD). In the first ever study of its type to be conducted in Qatar, WCM-Q researchers are collaborating with the Child Development Center to attempt to establish whether microorganisms living in the gut—collectively known as gut microbiota—play a role in autism spectrum disorder (ASD) and inflammatory bowel disease (IBD).

Mohamed Salahuddin and Zaid A. Kurdy recently met with the Child Development Center to meet with children with autism and their parents, and students with autism spectrum disorder and inflammatory bowel disease. Dr Salahuddin said, “Although my decision to take part in the research was made due to my interest in the science behind it, I believe that I can contribute to the understanding of human gut microbiota in autism spectrum disorder and inflammatory bowel disease, which suggests the link between the gut and autism.

My desire to continue this research has combined my personal interest in the science behind it with the decision to take part in the research was made due to my interest in the science behind it, I believe that I can contribute to the understanding of human gut microbiota in autism spectrum disorder and inflammatory bowel disease, which suggests the link between the gut and autism.

Mohamed Kurdi, assistant professor of biological sciences and member of the Center for the Study of Autism at WCM-Q, said, “The samples will be analyzed to ascertain the gut microbiota balance of those who suffer from ASD and their parents.

Students are gaining research experience and will be able to use the knowledge they have gained in this project to study the gut microbiota balance of those with ASD and their parents.”

Qatar Electricity and Water Company (QEWC) signs agreement with Marubeni

QEWC has signed an agreement with Marubeni Corporation to facilitate volunteer work for Qatar’s engineers, engineers, and joint venture company to Marubeni plastics and projects. As part of the agreement, the company has agreed to support the Qatar Electricity and Water Company’s research and training possible. "Our students and faculty and the general public will definitely benefit from the agreement and will be a win-win undertaking for the country.

The agreement was signed by Dr. Saif Al-Mohannadi, head of research and development at WCM-Q, and Mr. Yuki Mabuchi, chief representative for Qatar’s electricity and water projects.

Dr. Saif Al-Mohannadi stressed the keenness of the Qatar Electricity and Water Company to continue this research and to establish a long-term agreement with Marubeni.

He pointed out that Qatar Electricity and Water is closely linked to the company’s desire to discuss a long-term agreement with Marubeni. Marubeni owns a stake in Mesaieed Power Company Limited in partnership with Qatar Electricity and Water Company, Qatar Petroleum and Japan’s Chubu Electric Power Company Ltd.

QEWC has provided options for Japanese employees to work with the company and benefit from its experience and practices.
Ministry sets new norms for food outlets

Eaters told to display food data on menus

The ministry has stressed that the owners of restaurants and cafes are required by the law to display food data on menus, starting today, in line with the provisions of the MEC circular 2014 on Consumer Protection and Article 3 of the executive regulations. It also said violators will be subject to penalties stipulated in Law No 8 of 2008 and Article 3 of the executive regulations.

The ministry has also called upon consumers to take full responsibility by familiarising themselves with the correct methods to be followed by restaurants, cafes and similar shops.

A football tournament

The Ministry of Economy and Commerce (MEC) has issued the MEC’s circular in order to inform the public about the new requirements that data on food and beverages should be prominently displayed by stores to enable consumers to choose meals and beverages that are in line with their aspirations and the nature of their daily activity.

The circular outlines the obligations of shops selling food, meals and beverages, including the display of mandatory data on menus, the nature of food, the type of meal and country of origin, among other labels. It further regulates the procedures included in two stages, a first stage and a mandatory phase.

The pilot phase will extend over six months starting today, during which the ministry will coordinate with the owners of restaurants, cafes and similar outlets to adjust their practices according to the new obligations.

The ministry will also cooperate with the Ministry of Public Health, stipulating that it will ensure the compliance of shops with the obligations set, with special emphasis on restaurants, cafes and similar shops.

Two phases to implement the initiative

This period will be followed by a second stage, over six months starting on December 1. During this period, the owners of restaurants, cafes and similar outlets will be allowed to submit the data on food, meals and beverages, as specified in the circular.

The ministry has also called upon consumers to participate in the mandatory phase, by contacting the competent authorities at the MEC offices; its specialised units will call upon consumers to ensure that all required data are presented in the menus of restaurants, cafes and similar shops.

Qatar Charity (QC) said it distributed food baskets to 500 families affected by Cyclone Sagar, which hit the coasts of northern Somalia last month.

The aid was provided immediately after the disaster occurred, QC said, adding that it was also preparing to distribute more food baskets soon.

Abdel Nour Mirsal, director of the QC office in Somalia, said that Qatar Charity was the first organization to respond to the relief appeal made by the local authorities in Somaliland.

Food baskets were distributed in the village of Bakki and surrounding villages in northern Somalia on May 26, targeting families who lost their homes, livestock and property due to Cyclone Sagar, Mirsal said in a statement.

He noted that the food baskets included basic food items such as rice, wheat, sugar, dates and dried milk to be used by affected families in the month of Ramadan, which coincided with the cyclone.

Mirsal pointed out that QC intends to distribute 1,150 additional food baskets to the victims of Cyclone Sagar in the coming week.

The basket will be sufficient for a family for a month.

Further, Mirsal said the Ramadan food aid distributed by the QC office during the second half of Ramadan included those previously affected by floods and drought.

A total of 3,650 food baskets are expected to be distributed during the month.

The United Nations Office for the Co-ordination of Humanitarian Affairs (OCHA) had said that 669,000 people had been affected by the cyclone in Somaliland, with the numbers likely to rise as information arrives from areas that are now inaccessible.

“Eighty per cent of livestock in the affected areas were killed. Reports indicate that some 700 farms have been destroyed in Somaliland,” the OCHA added.
Qatar Charity distributes relief aid in Sindh, Pakistan

More than 14,000 people benefited from Qatar Charity’s (QC) relief project implemented at a cost of QR 500,000 in the Sindh province of Pakistan, following successive droughts and devastating floods. The project included the distribution of more than 2,000 food parcels, health kits and water supplies to the poor and needy, especially children and women in the Sindh province.

Around 500 families, including basic food items, were distributed to needy families to benefit 4,850 people, 7 persons per family as well as 870 hygiene kits were provided, which benefited 4,900 people. Also, 500 packages of winter supplies were distributed to improve resilience to climate change, which benefited 4,900 people. Each package includes a plastic mat, 4 cotton blankets, 5 pillows, 2 kids’ blankets, 3 quilts, 3 men’s sheets, 5 women’s sheets, 2 kids’ jackets, 4 cotton towels. Aman Is, director of QC’s office in Pakistan said: “Given the level of poverty in the region, there is an urgent need for more food support and basic services in the province, and many people still need the same support, which was provided to others as part of this project, pointing out that the child mortality rate is very high due to lack of basic foodstuff.

He also stressed that there is an urgent need to implement an integrated project serving several areas such as health, water, sanitation and food to meet the basic needs of the community in the region.

Expatriate communities attend QC’s Moayyarah programme

Qatar Charity has organized Moayyarah (Coastline) programme aimed at introducing customs and traditions of Muslims in Ramadan to Muslims. People belonging to Indian, Nepali and Filipinos communities residing in Qatar, participated in the programme.

The programme also included an iftar party held in Soq Waqf, then visiting the Ma’ali of Mohammed Al-Aziz, and attending the Ramadan charity event.

The programme is aimed at promoting social solidarity and cultural rapprochement between the local community and the expatriate communities in Qatar. It also introduces the culture and traditions of Qatar’s customs and traditions of Muslims in Ramadan in addition to introducing QC’s activities in and outside the country.

The guests emphasized that the activities of the programme left them with a deep sense of understanding. They also expressed their pleasure in attending the iftar, pointing out that Qatar Charity has shown them an important aspect of the Muslim personality, culture, and the spirit of love and peace that prevails among all elements of Qatar society.

In the same context, Qatar Charity also organized an iftar for non-Muslim women, who came to know Qatar’s customs and traditions as well as they knew what the holy month of Ramadan means to Muslims and what distinguishes it from the rest of the year.

QC organizes Iftar tables at universities in Asia and Africa

Qatar Charity (QC) organized Iftar tables in many Asian and African universities including, Jahangir University in Bangladesh, Universiti Putra Malaysia and Universiti Malaya in Malaysia; the University of Salford in the UK, the University of Sindh in Pakistan and the University of Zambia in Zambia. The iftar was held at the Faculty of Engineering of the University of Zambia, where 100 students were hosted.

QNB signs deal with CMU-Q

In an agreement signed yesterday in Doha, Qatar, the QNB Group has announced its collaboration with the Carnegie Mellon University in Qatar (CMU-Q) for the provision of executive education programmes. The partnership was signed by QNB Group CEO Ali al-Kuwari and CMU-Q dean Michael Trick and other dignitaries at the MoU-signing ceremony.

The agreement aims to establish a strong partnership in line with the Human Development Pillar of Qatar National Vision 2030. It will also enhance the opportunity to further the realisation of its goals and vision, and continue to build partnerships with many entities in Qatar and across its international footprint.

CMU-Q delivers select programmes that will contribute to the long-term development of the national human capital. It is part of QNB’s efforts to build partnerships with many entities in Qatar and across its international footprint to further the realisation of its goals and vision.

QNB Group CEO Ali al-Kuwari said: “We are delighted to partner with CMU-Q to provide additional learning prospects to employees, co-operation in providing scholarships and internships for QNB employees, co-operation in providing executive education programmes, as well as in the utilisation of any appropriate fields, but in particular focus on biomedical and computer science.

It is also part of its efforts to support the knowledge and skills they need to excel. We are, therefore, delighted to partner with CMU-Q to provide additional learning prospects to our employees and the opportunity to utilise the skills through our international partnerships and scholarships and internships along with our community volunteer programmes in line with the Human Development Pillar of Qatar National Vision 2030.”

QNB Group is a leading Qatar-based financial institution and the first wholly Qatari-owned commercial bank. CMU-Q is a branch of Carnegie Mellon University in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, USA, and offers an internationally recognized curriculum through its undergraduate, graduate and executive education programmes.

The partnership will provide opportunities for community service in line with the Human Development Pillar of Qatar National Vision 2030. It will also enhance the opportunity to further the realisation of its goals and vision, and continue to build partnerships with many entities in Qatar and across its international footprint.

Chairman of CMU-Q’s Board of Trustees, Dr. Khaled al-Ajami, said: “This agreement is an example of QNB’s continuous dedication to the betterment of the local community and its commitment to extend its business footprint to the Al Khor area represents our continued dedication to delivering the best services in the areas of biological sciences, business administration, computer science, and information systems.

Exiled Congo politician addresses supporters

By Anoushka Murdock, Reuters

Exiled opposition leader Jean-Pierre Bemba, who successfully topped the presidential poll in the Democratic Republic of Congo's general elections in November, has returned to Kinshasa after a four-year ban and will address supporters.

Bemba, 57, a former vice-president who was sentenced to 16 years in prison in 2016 for war crimes in Central African Republic, was in Kinshasa on Wednesday and was scheduled to address a crowd at Kinshasa's Kamwina Nsimba stadium.

Bemba's return comes days after the International Criminal Court in The Hague freed him on appeal from the conviction.

He is one of Congo's most popular candidates, and his return was seen as a boost for his campaign, which has struggled to find international backing.

Bemba's supporters celebrated in Kinshasa on Wednesday after the court's decision to free him.

“Bemba is the first Congo leader to be freed from an international war crimes conviction in nearly a decade,” said a supporter.

Bemba's supporters have been waiting for his return for months.

His exiled supporters had hoped he would join them in their fight against President Joseph Kabila, who has been in power for 17 years.

After spring floods, Nairobi moves to card disaster risks

By Winling Langat, Reuters

Water levels in Nairobi's rivers and lakes have risen due to heavy rains, putting the city at risk of flooding, which could lead to loss of lives and damage to property.

The city's flood management plan, which was approved last year, is being reviewed to ensure that it is effective.

The government has set up a task force to review the plan and ensure that it is ready for implementation.

The task force will also look into the causes of the recent floods, which have caused damage to infrastructure and property.

Nigerian bandits kidnap 30 people, kill 2

More than 30 people have been kidnapped by armed bandits in several attacks in southern Nigeria's Kaduna state, local officials said.

The attacks are the latest in a string of kidnappings for ransom in the Birnin Gwari district near the city of Kaduna.

Around 3,000 people were feared to be at risk of kidnap as the bandits concentrated on the Kaduna area.

The attacks come amid a government clampdown on the bandits, who have been carrying out kidnaps for ransom in the area.

The government has been trying to negotiate with the bandits to release the kidnapped people.

The Senate’s committee investigating Russian tampering in the 2016 US presidential election has concluded that President Donald Trump’s former campaign chairman Paul Manafort and his ally Rick Gates violated the law by concealing their foreign lobbying activities, according to a draft of the report obtained by Reuters.

Prosecutors said James Wolfe, 57, who worked for the Senate's intelligence committee and was fired last week, offered classified information to various political organizations and individuals, including foreign officials and members of the Trump campaign.

The report, obtained by Reuters, states that Wolfe had access to classified information as an intelligence analyst for the committee and as a Senate aide. It states that Wolfe “repeatedly sold classified information to the committee and to his political clients, including the Trump campaign.”

The report also states that Wolfe “had contact with and offered classified information to a number of political organizations and individuals, including foreign officials and members of the Trump campaign.”

Maldives suffers defeat in UN Security Council poll

The Maldives suffered a defeat in the UN Security Council last week, which was a setback for the country's efforts to secure a permanent seat on the prestigious body. The Maldives, which has been on a mission to become a permanent member of the Security Council, fell short in its bid to gain a seat in the 15-member body. The vote, which was held last week, was 14-0 in favor of Indonesia, with the Maldives receiving just one vote in favor. The Maldives had been hoping to secure a seat on the council, which would give it greater influence in global affairs and allow it to play a more active role in world politics. However, the defeat has left the Maldives with a long road ahead if it is to secure a permanent seat on the council in the future.

Nepal is eager to develop energy ties with China, according to a statement by a Nepalese minister. The country has been stepping up its efforts to secure energy projects and infrastructure, and is looking to China as a key partner in this regard. Nepal's energy minister has said that the country is willing to develop energy projects with China, and is looking to Chinese companies to invest in the country's energy sector. The minister has also expressed interest in exploring the possibility of building a hydropower project in the country, and is looking to China to provide technical assistance and finance for such projects.

Myanmar faces big challenge in tackling child labour

Myanmar faces a big challenge in tackling child labour, with around 400,000 children working in the country. The problem is particularly acute in rural areas, where children are often forced to work in agriculture and other industries. The situation is made worse by the lack of education and social services, which make it difficult for children to escape the cycle of poverty. The government has been working to combat child labour, but the problem remains a significant challenge. The government has launched several programs to help children access education and other services, but more needs to be done to tackle the root causes of child labour.

Sadness at Vietnam noodle shop where Bourdain dined with Obama

The closed noodle shop where Anthony Bourdain dined with former US president Barack Obama has reopened, with new owners hoping to revive the establishment that became a global phenomenon when the two men dined together in 2016. The shop, located in Hanoi, reopened earlier this year, with the new owners hoping to bring back the popularity of the restaurant that became famous when Bourdain used it as a backdrop for his show 'Parts Unknown.' The reopening of the shop has been a source of pride for the city and the country, and has brought a sense of nostalgia for the days when Bourdain was a regular customer of the establishment.
Trump and Kim lookalikes hold ‘summit’ in Singapore

Singapore

US President Donald Trump and North Korean leader Kim Jong Un met in Singapore for an unprecedented summit that could forge a long-awaited peace in one of the world’s most dangerous flashpoints.

Trump and Kim both wore fake versions of their own suits as they prepared for their historic meeting in front of the cameras.

Kim arrived in front of North Korea’s cheerleading team, who had been invited to the summit, while Trump was met by a same Donald Trump lookalike, who had been spotted at a downtown mall.

The meeting was the first face-to-face meeting between the two leaders, who have proposed a “roadmap” to denuclearize North Korea.

The meeting could produce a breakthrough that would formally end the Korean War, which began in 1950 and has never been officially declared over.

The talks will be a test for Trump, who has promised to “denuclearize” the peninsula but has faced criticism for his handling of the situation.

A new summit agreement would be reached, with the US and North Korea agreeing to pursue a path toward denuclearization.

As the leaders meet, the world holds its breath, hoping for a resolution to one of the world’s most pressing issues.

Sikh soldier becomes first to wear turban for the colour

By Robert Armstrong

A Sikh soldier has become the first British military officer to wear a turban for the colour, following a successful legal challenge against the armed forces’ ban on turbans.

More than 1,000 soldiers from across the six nations have written to the Prime Minister to demand that the ban on turbans is lifted as a mark of respect for the Sikh community.

The legal challenge was brought by the Sikh soldier, who was granted permission to wear his turban on March 31.

Nato allies want an increased naval presence

The nine member countries that saw their armies head out to their Nato allies for an “increased naval presence” under President Donald Trump might have had only fleeting thoughts about the game-changing military milestone.

But the so-called “Nato 30” countries, which first held talks in Romania in 2015, also include Belgium, the Netherlands, Greece, Denmark, and Portugal, all of which have had their military presence cut back over the years.

The Nato system is in place to defend against any potential aggression, but the alliance has also been used as a platform for economic cooperation and cultural exchange.

The group believes that it is important to maintain a robust defense against threats, both domestic and international, and to ensure the stability and prosperity of the region.

The 30 presidents and prime ministers who travelled to the EU’s new defense and foreign policy forum to discuss the future of the Nato alliance and to assess the impact of the United States’ military strategy.

The forum was held in Brussels on October 2, 2019, in an effort to bring together the leaders of the Nato alliance and to discuss the future of the organization.

The forum was attended by representatives from all 30 Nato member countries, as well as other international organizations and representatives.

The forum was opened by the President of the European Commission, Jean-Claude Juncker, who emphasized the importance of maintaining a strong alliance in order to address the challenges facing the world today.

The forum also featured discussions on a range of topics, including the future of the Nato alliance, the role of the United States, and the impact of the Russian annexation of Crimea on the stability of the region.

Unicef praises India for fall in maternal mortality ratio

The new UNICEF report, “State of the World’s Children,” released yesterday, praised India for recording a significant fall in the maternal mortality ratio (MMR). The report noted that India’s MMR has declined by 36 percent from 2011 to 2015, bringing the country closer to achieving the Sustainable Development Goal (SDG) target of reducing the MMR by 30 percent by 2030.

"In India, the number of maternal deaths has reduced from 223,000 in 2011-15 to 131,000 in 2015-19, with a further decline expected in the coming years," the report stated. "This is a remarkable achievement, and India should be congratulated for its progress in reducing maternal mortality.

The report also highlighted India’s success in providing universal health coverage, which has led to a decrease in the number of women who die in pregnancy or childbirth. It noted that the number of women who die in childbirth has declined by 40 percent over the past 15 years.

"India has made impressive progress in reducing maternal and neonatal deaths, but more effort is needed to reach the SDG target," the report added. "More needs to be done to ensure that all women have access to quality healthcare services, particularly in rural areas where maternal mortality rates are highest.

The report called for continued investment in maternal healthcare and emphasized the importance of addressing the levels of gender inequality in the country. It highlighted the need for women to have access to education, financial resources, and support systems to improve their health outcomes.

"India has made progress in reducing maternal mortality, but there is still much work to be done," the report concluded. "Investment in maternal healthcare and addressing the underlying social and economic factors that contribute to maternal mortality will be essential to achieving the SDG targets.

Congress: PM must apologise for remarks against Singh

The Congress party has demanded an apology from the Prime Minister for remarks he made about former Prime Minister Manmohan Singh yesterday. In a letter to the Prime Minister, Congress president Rahul Gandhi said, "Your statements have not only been inappropriate, but they have also been disrespectful. You must apologize for these remarks immediately.

"In your statement, you compared Singh with Jinnah, aonis, and said that he was not fit to be the Prime Minister. These comments are unfounded and are not appropriate. They are not only a personal attack on a respected leader, but they are also a breach of protocol.

"The Prime Minister is a respected leader and a former Prime Minister. He should be treated with respect, especially when he is not in power. Your comments have unleashed a storm of condemnation from across political parties.

"We urge you to withdraw your comments and apologize to the former Prime Minister. The Prime Minister should always be treated with respect and dignity.

India strikes river, rice deals with China

India and China recently signed an agreement to carry out joint operations in the Brahmaputra river, which flows through both countries. The agreement aims to prevent damages from the flooding of the river, and to ensure that the water is managed in a way that benefits both countries.

"The joint operations will help to prevent damages from flooding and ensure that the water is managed in a way that benefits both countries," said Indian Prime Minister Narendra Modi.

"This agreement is a significant step in improving our relationship with China, and in ensuring that our shared river is managed in a way that benefits both our countries.

"We are also exploring the possibility of joint operations in the other rivers that flow through our countries, such as the Indus and the Ganges.

"Our relationship with China is important, and we are committed to working together in a spirit of co-operation and respect.

Guatemalans bury their dead; nearly 200 still missing

More than 200 Guatemalans have died in recent days due to the eruption of the Fuego Volcano in the country. In total, 107 people have died, 18 of whom were students. The deaths occurred when the volcano erupted on Thursday. The family from the nearby city of Antigua-Guatemala was struck by the eruption. Rescue workers are still searching for the missing.

The Fuego Volcano, which is located on the southern coast of Guatemala, has erupted several times in recent years, sending ash and lava flows into nearby communities. The most recent eruption occurred in June 2018, killing more than 60 people and destroying homes and infrastructure.

In Guatemalan burial ceremony, ex-President Efrain Rios Montt, accused of genocide, was buried at the Catholic University of Guatemalan Institute of Forensic Sciences, in Escuintla department, about 23 km southwest of Guatemala City.

A留学生abandoned China’s official dating sites for a more American-like culture.

Part 1: Introduction

Economic Strain and Cultural Shifts

In recent years, China’s rapid economic growth has led to increased consumerism, especially among young urbanites. This has been accompanied by a desire for new experiences and social status symbols, such as luxury brands and foreign destinations. However, with the recognition of the negative environmental and social impacts of over-consumption, the government has implemented measures to promote sustainable consumption and cultural values.

Cultural Impact of the Internet

The Internet has had a profound impact on Chinese society, fostering a new generation of digital natives who are more comfortable with technology and social media. This has led to a shift in traditional media consumption, with online platforms becoming increasingly popular.

Youth Culture and Social Media

The younger generation, especially those born in the 1990s and early 2000s, have grown up with the Internet and smartphones, making them more connected and globally aware. They are more likely to participate in social media, share their experiences, and form online communities.

Part 2: Economic Developments

Export-Driven Economy

China’s economy is largely export-oriented, with significant investments in trade and infrastructure. This has contributed to rapid economic growth and job creation in recent years.

Rural-urban Income Gap

Despite economic growth, China still faces challenges in reducing the rural-urban income gap. Rural areas, especially in the western region, continue to lag behind in terms of economic development and educational opportunities.

Environmental Concerns

With the expansion of the economy, environmental issues have become more pressing. The country is facing significant challenges in managing pollution, particularly air and water pollution, and combating climate change.

Part 3: Social and Cultural Trends

Gender Equality

China has made progress in promoting gender equality, with laws and policies aimed at addressing gender-based discrimination. However, challenges remain, especially in accessing education and employment opportunities.

Education and Healthcare

The government has made substantial investments in education and healthcare, aiming to improve the quality of life for all citizens. However, access and affordability remain issues, particularly in rural areas.

Cultural Heritage and Modernity

There is a growing interest in preserving cultural heritage, with efforts to conserve historical sites and traditional arts. At the same time, modernity is reshaping cultural practices and values.

Part 4: Conclusion

China’s economy, society, and culture are undergoing significant transformation. While facing challenges, the country is also leveraging its strengths to address these issues. The government’s commitment to sustainable development and cultural revitalization is likely to shape China’s future trajectory.

Former Security Secretary Ronald dela Rosa said he is not ruling out the possibility of Martial Law being imposed in the Philippines if the war against terrorism continues. "We will see. We can't say that there will be no martial law," he said. "We're talking about terrorism, which is the reason why Martial Law may be imposed. We've already seen its implementation in different countries and we're on the lookout for the possibility that it will be imposed in this country," he added. On the other hand, President Rodrigo Duterte has said that he will not implement Martial Law nationwide. "I'm only giving the option to the military to implement Martial Law if the need arises," he said.

Getting to ‘Yes’ with Kim Jong-un

H e North Korean leader, Kim Jong-un, has made a strategic decision to alter the bilateral dynamic in his relations with South Korea. The first sign of this was his recent visit to the World Economic Forum in Davos, Switzerland. The move came amid growing uncertainty in the region, with questions about the future of the Korean Peninsula. Kim Jong-un's visit to Davos is seen as a significant step towards improving relations with the South Korean government.

The visit is also significant because it comes at a time when the global economy is facing challenges. The US and North Korea have been engaged in a tense diplomatic standoff, with tensions mounting over North Korea's nuclear programme. The visit is expected to provide an opportunity for both countries to discuss potential ways forward.

North Korea and South Korea are separated by the Demilitarized Zone, a 2.5-mile-wide strip of land that has separated the two countries since the Korean War. The two countries have had a complex relationship, with periods of tension and cooperation.

In recent years, there have been signs of progress in the relations between the two countries. In 2018, South Korean President Moon Jae-in and North Korean leader Kim Jong-un met for the first time, marking a new era in inter-Korean relations. The meeting was followed by a summit between South Korean President Moon Jae-in and North Korean leader Kim Jong-un.

The meeting was seen as a significant step towards improving relations between the two countries. The two leaders discussed a range of issues, including the denuclearization of the Korean Peninsula and economic cooperation.

However, there are ongoing challenges to be addressed. The Korean Peninsula remains one of the most heavily armed regions in the world, with both countries possessing nuclear weapons. There are also concerns about the human rights situation in North Korea, with reports of political repression and human rights abuses.

Free movement of people must to spur economic activity

Free movement of people across borders is essential to spur economic activity in regions around the world. While facilitating passenger movement across borders, it also has to be ensured that people, with valid documents, are allowed entry into any particular country.

At the annual summit of the global aviation industry, hosted by IATA in Sydney last week, which was attended by the topmost executives of more than 290 airlines and key decision makers, a resolution to accelerate passenger movements around the world to ease unnecessary visa and travel restrictions and facilitate passenger movement across borders was passed.

There are many barriers to travel, ranging from visa restrictions and government information requirements to the capacity of current facilitation processes to absorb growing numbers of air travellers.

By providing clearer directions for more than 80 countries, Qatar has shown to the world that the removal of barriers to travel can indeed spread economic and social benefits of aviation.

Hamad bin Khalifa Al-Thani, Qatar’s world-class gateway to the world has since received thousands of benevolent asylum seekers and it is a catalyst for job creation and GDP growth.

According to general director of desc hopes that the economic and social benefits of aviation can be spread only by giving clearer directions for the free movement of people across borders.

Qatar Airways, with the reduction of barriers to travel, IATA expects that over the next 20 years, the number of passengers will double.

That’s excellent news for the global community, especially if the European Central Bank (ECB) and central banks around the world are not willing to act on and control the interest rates and spreads on Italian sovereign debt increasing rapidly, so the European Central Bank’s (ECB) and national central banks action is going to be disastrous for the eurozone economies, while Italian banks would be unable to cope with forecast travel demand.

The goal is to remove unnecessary barriers to travel. Existing visa regimes are overly restrictive, expensive and inefficient, and will be unable to cope with forecast travel demand.

The solution to this lies in unlocking the potential of shared information in a trusted framework. This will improve security, especially while smoothing passenger flows and easing demand for new infrastructure to accommodate the forecast doubling in air travel over the next two decades.

Genesis G70 luxury sedan arrives in Qatar

Shelir Automotive W.L.L., a Jallal Group company and official distribution partner of Hyundai Motor Company for the state of Qatar, has unveiled the all-new Genesis G70 as the third Genesis model in Qatar, completing the luxury sedan lineup with the brand’s most compact model.

The Genesis G70 was revealed at the Skyline Automotive flagship showroom on Salwa Road on June 6th in the presence of representatives from both Jallal Group and Skyline Automotive W.L.L.。

Mohamed Jallal, Group Executive Director of Jallal Group was on hand to introduce the brand-new arrival to the media. “Building assertively, now hewn from scratch is an audacious undertaking. That’s exactly what the team at Genesis delivered—a dream for any car designer. It’s been decades since such an event took place in the auto industry. And my team at Skyline Automotive and Jallal Group and I wanted to make sure that automotive adrenaline in Qatar had the chance to experience this historic journey from the start.”

Designed with younger customers in mind, the G70 is expected to redefine luxury with its authentic elegance design identity. It showcases the future direction of the Genesis brand and its evolving DNA through dynamic styling matched with sophisticated comfort and elegance.

“Created by a team of automotive experts, Genesis was designed to set new expectations for what a luxury automobile brand could be,” said Mr. Jallal. “The launch of the Genesis G70 is a major milestone for Genesis with a strong appeal to more youthful customers and drivers.”

The Genesis G70 is a driver-oriented dynamic vehicle that will be available in two variants: a 2.0 liter turbocharged engine. and a sport variant with a 3.3 liter turbocharged engine.

Along with its graceful exterior and intuitively designed interior, the G70 offers the best levels of safety in its class. Overall body rigidity has been strengthened in addition to the use of the most advanced technologies to ensure the best driving experience.

Skyline Automotive has made a strong name for itself after first entering the market in 2017 as a result of its unrivaled commitment to customer care. This focus could be seen through the various investments and many from Skyline Automotive has brought to the country in terms of innovative technology and newest luxury brands. Building on that premise, Skyline Automotive customers in Qatar purchasing the G70 will have access to the same prestigious Genesis membership benefits, including a five-year service package with home-to-home service, five-year unlimited mileage warranty, and the unique Genesis worldwide Concierge Service.
Stenden University marks graduation of Class of 2018

By Joseph Varghese

Stenden Qatar University, in cooperation with HE Sheikh Faisal bin Qassim al-Thani, marked the Class of 2018 graduation at a colourful ceremony in the presence of HE Sheikh Faisal bin Qassim al-Thani. The event was attended by HE Sheikh Faisal bin Qassim al-Thani, undersecretary at the Ministry of Education and Higher Education; Erica Schaper, chairperson of the executive board; Riad, Stenden University; and Klaas-Wybo van der Heijden, member of the executive board, Riad, Stenden University.

“This is your achievement and you have worked hard for it. You have made your parents and teachers proud and I am sure that you will contribute to the development of the country in a big way. It is a great moment of self-realisation and achievement for you and the university,” he highlighted.

The student valedictorian said that they would always cherish the sweet memories of their time at the college, which turned them into better human beings. She also noted that they would always remember and appreciate the role of the partners in providing quality education to the young generation in Qatar.

Tailoring shops brace for Eid rush

Many tailoring shops around the country are expecting a four-day rush ahead of the Eid al-Fitr celebrations, with some of them giving customers special offers to get more business. Qatari owners, in particular, are keen to have new thobes ready by the first day of Eid, it is learnt.

According to local Arabic daily Al-Jooryah, a good number of such tailoring shops sell the fabric as well and offer Stitching as an extra service to avoid any tailoring charges. Some customers pointed out that the prices of imported fabrics have remained almost unchanged at reasonable levels. A bulk of such fabric is imported directly from the producing countries through Hamad Port. Meanwhile, some customers said that they make sure that they get their new thobes stitched as early as possible in order to avoid last-minute rush and any potential hike in stitching charges.
