The container traffic through Qatar ports more than doubled year-on-year to 2mn tonnes in July 2019, which registered more than 26% growth compared to the previous month. The net tonnage through the port was 6.16mn, accounting for more than 5% of the total container traffic in the country’s ports.

Mitsui O.S.K. Lines Ltd, one of the world’s largest shipping companies, has signed a new multi-year agreement with Qatar’s Hamad Port to secure additional capacity. The newly signed contract will be valid from 2021 through to 2025, covering a wide range of services, including regular liner service on a monthly basis, handling of project cargo, and the use of other vessels.

The new agreement will enable Mitsui O.S.K. Lines to expand its operations in Qatar, where the company has a long-standing relationship with Hamad Port. The port, which has seen the world’s largest shipping companies seek entry and growth, is one of the most important ports in the Middle East and a key hub for trade with Asia and Europe.

Qatar’s Hamad Port has been designated as the world’s most efficient terminal, with a capacity of 15mn TEUs per year. The port is home to the world’s largest container cranes and boasts the latest technology and facilities. The port has been developed by Qatar Petroleum and is operated by the Qatar Ports Authority.

The new agreement is in line with the Qatar National Vision 2030, which aims to diversify the country’s economy and reduce dependence on hydrocarbons. The maritime sector is a key component of this vision, with the government investing heavily in the development of ports and infrastructure to attract more trade and investment.

The new agreement will also benefit Mitsui O.S.K. Lines, which operates one of the world’s largest fleets of container ships. The company is a leading player in the global shipping industry and is committed to providing high-quality services to its customers worldwide.

Ranee’s average daily output in August exceeded 6mn bpd for the first time since April as the impact of the country’s sanctions continues.

The country pumped 4.1mn tonnes of crude and condensate last month, according to preliminary data from the Energy Ministry.

The increase came after Opec+ producers agreed to increase output by 1.5mn bpd at their July meeting.

Sanctions choke Iran crude sales, but oil product exports booming

While US sanctions on Iran’s oil industry have dented the country’s crude oil exports by more than 80%, oil product sales from the Islamic Republic remain strong at around 720,000 bpd per month, shipping data and Reuters calculations show.

Sanctions have heavily affected Iran’s exports of products that are not considered as crude oil. These include gasoline, diesel, lubricants as well as asphalt and petroleum coke used as feed.

IRGC missions and a variety of envoys have been sent to countries around the world to offset the impact of sanctions.

The country reduced oil production by around 720,000 bpd and also cut its exports.

According to Opec+ producers, Iran is usinghoe its Opec+ target, Bloomberg data intelligence firm Kpler says Iran imported around 720,000 bpd in June.

Opec output rises for first time since start of ’19 cuts

The OPEC+ production cut made last month, the first increase since the group and its allies started a new round of output cuts at the start of the year to shore up a weak global market. Nigeria and Saudi Arabia led the boost by the Organisation of Petroleum Exporting Countries, its allies and Russia as their daily output surged by 300,000 to 400,000 barrels a day in the second half of June, according to Bloomberg calculations. The increase was estimated by analysts, ship-tracking data and consultants including Interfax Energy and S&P Global Platts.

Opec and its partners, a 24-nation coalition known as Opec+, agreed to reduce output by 1.2mn barrels a day at the beginning of 2019 as a global economic and booming US shale-oil production weighed on prices.

That deal failed a previous round of cuts that began in January 2018. The strategy has struggled to shore up prices amid a deteriorating outlook for global growth and a worsening trade war between the US and China. US-China trade disputes have been blamed for a steep drop in demand and production that Opec and its partners said could lead to a global supply glut.

A full-blown survey published exclusively yesterday showed that 17 of Opec’s 18 members and Russia, the biggest producer outside Opec in the Middle East’s largest economy, were in compliance with their output targets.

The government also made revisions to GDP data going back to early 2018, to reflect a slightly weaker annual output growth.

Opec+ the third quarter of 2018—which generally showed a bit stronger performance.

Gold now rose yesterday after the United States and China imposed new tariffs on each other's goods but a former dollar later limited the precious metal's upside.

Gold, the world's most-traded commodity, was trading above $1,500 an ounce. The precious metal has surged for the past three months on the back of economic downturn, negative yielding debt around the world and worries about the ongoing US-China trade war.

According to data compiled by Bloomberg, Eskom bonds are held by several institutions. Jinwoo Kim, a credit analyst at Bloomberg, said that even though Eskom isn’t generating enough support, it is for the whole economy. He noted that there are arguments to look through the currency impact. With rates on Chinese notes relatively high, there are arguments to consider the impact of the currency on the economy. 'Too big to fail' makes Eskom debt a good bet in low-yield world

Bloomberg

South Africa’s pledge not to let Eskom holdings SOC Ltd fail is entailing multibillion-dollar bond purchases by the country’s dollar. Bondholders from New York to Seoul are happy to shoulder the peso country’s securities—and some cases add a hold for bonds—because of their extra returns relative to the country’s sovereign debt. The government’s assurance that it won’t let the company default, effectively guaranteeing the debt, allows investors to pay that spread without too much risk even though Eskom isn’t generating enough cash to service its obligations.

The government has said it will retain control of Eskom. “It ultimately comes down to government support,” said James Kiss, a chief strategist at Miller Asset Global Investments Co. in Seoul. “If they don’t have a plan ahead of time, they’ll be in trouble.”

Europe markets gain; pound slides on Brexit uncertainty

The pound slid yesterday as speculation mounted about an early election and data revealed a drop in retail sales, fuelled by Brexit uncertainty, leading a broad sell-off in sterling.

The dollar was little changed on Wednesday, after hitting a six-year high against the pound, "said David Madden, a market analyst at CMC Markets UK.

The dollar fell further after fresh Chinese and US tariffs on goods worth hundreds of billions of dollars kicked in, though Friday’s meeting between Washington’s latest levies on imports from China and Beijing’s retaliatory tariffs will meet most of the market’s expectations.

Market expectations had been for an agreement in advance, but talks on Wednesday fell short of an agreement with the EU.

French pharma giant hands reins to British executive

France's Sanofi, the world's fourth-largest drugmaker, is moving away from traditional research and development to focus on more patient-centered therapies. The French company's chairman, Paul Hudson, 56, will replace Thomas Wisniewski, 55, as Sanofi's new chief executive officer on July 1, before the end of his six-month notice period. Hudson, who had been at Sanofi for 14 years and is currently head of the company's vaccines division, will work closely with Wisniewski to ensure a smooth transition. Hudson, who joined Sanofi in 2008, has been instrumental in the company's vaccine division, which has seen strong growth in recent years. This move is in line with Sanofi's strategy to shift focus from traditional R&D to more personalized and patient-centric treatments, which are expected to be more effective and have fewer side effects. Hudson will need to balance this strategic shift with the company's existing research and development portfolio, which includes a wide range of drugs and therapies. The move is also expected to have implications for Sanofi's partnership with Novartis in the field of cell and gene therapies. Hudson will need to navigate these challenges as he takes on his new role.
US seeks ‘reset’ in transatlantic ties as tariff threats loom

Washington

US Secretary of State Michael Pompeo will seek toput relations with the European Union on a fresh footing when he meets the bloc’s new leadership in Brussels this week,at a time when US tariffs are just months away from ending in the transatlantic trade war. But, for the moment, both sides appear committed to ensuring that the tariff threat is put into a new context.

The European Union is planning to resume talks with the US later this year on a dispute ranging from aircraft subsidies to wine tariffs.

US tariffs on EU goods would hit with retaliatory levies, a US official said.

A trade deal would help out in other areas, such as the diversion of US TV-made American content from Europe.

Italy court gives Vivendi a window to challenge Mediaset merger

Brussels

Vivendi SA got an opportunity to challenge a merger of Mediaset SpA Italian media company that the EU has allowed to proceed after a challenge from Vivendi that the court won’t allow Vivendi to bring.

Vivendi’s opposition to Mediaset’s proposed acquisition of Mediaset by the group headed by media tycoon Silvio Berlusconi was ruled out in a decision after having assessed the project to combine the business of Vivendi and Mediaset.

Mediaset’s controlling Berlusconi family saw it as an attempt to inure its advantage over the time that Vivendi might anticipate to do that, the court said.
