Our Say

By Faisal Abdulhameed
Editor-in-Chief

Gulf crisis, beating around the bush!

At the Gulf crisis drama on Qatar, the blockaders have reached a phase where a sense of loss is prevailing among them, being the last card that they have. The blockaders have reached a phase where they have run out of options to end their crisis. They could have availed of the opportunity of the end of the Gulf crisis and worked together to mend ties and work together against extremism.

The parties to the dispute are still not showing any desire to get involved in dialogue and work together on solutions to save the GCC. Tillerson confirmed that Qatar is so far fulfilling its commitment to the United States, but that he had met several US diplomats to push for progress in the dispute.

"I’ve also addressed retained General Anthony Zinni to us with Tim so that we can make a constant pressure on the ground because Qatar is stuck. Tillerson told a senior US diplomat to our efforts with the parties and the need to de-escalate the dispute on the ground. Tillerson asserted that the United States is committed to resolving the dispute and restoring the unity of the GCC, because America “believes it is extremely important for the United States and the region.”

"There’s only so much you can do with telephone conversations,” Zinni, now 75, was a Marine general who once commanded US forces in the Middle East. After the military he served as special envoy for the Palestinian Authority.

UAE competed to host Taliban office: NYT

The United Arab Emirates (UAE), the United States, and Qatar are working with the Taliban to try to end the Gulf crisis and save the GCC. The parties must to sit for a dialogue to reach a solution.

This is a quick recall: On June 5, the Manama meeting was the injection of the Gulf crisis and is concerned about it now working with the parties concerned. Tillerson confirmed that Qatar is so far fulfilling its commitment to the United States, but that he had met several US diplomats to push for progress in the dispute.

Qatar is hopeful the Manama meeting will succeed. The QNA mentioned that even if the siege countries maintain their unwillingness to lift the siege on Qatar, they will be able to maintain stability in the Gulf region and undermine unity among the GCC countries, which the US Secretary of State Rex Tillerson said he has asked two officials, including special envoy to Israel and the Palestinian Authority, to solve the dispute.

Dialogue the only way to save GCC, says minister

HE the Minister of State for Defence Affairs, Dr Khalid bin Mohammed Al Attiyah, said there is no need to complicate the situation in the Middle East, saying that the dialogue is the only way to save the GCC. The QNA mentioned that even if the siege countries maintain their unwillingness to lift the siege on Qatar, they will be able to maintain stability in the Gulf region and undermine unity among the GCC countries, which the US Secretary of State Rex Tillerson said he has asked two officials, including special envoy to Israel and the Palestinian Authority, to solve the dispute.

No political prisoner in Qatar; siege nations have no case: UAE

Omar Sharif is a political prisoner while he is being held in the middle of the siege, and he is expected to be released any time soon. Sharif is expected to be released any time soon, and he is expected to be released any time soon. Sharif is expected to be released any time soon.

Fair distribution of wealth is behind Qatar’s success

The Fair Distribution of Wealth is behind Qatar’s success. Qatar is one of the most successful economies in the world, and it has managed to distribute wealth among its citizens. Qatar has one of the highest standards of living in the world, and it has managed to distribute wealth among its citizens.
Qatar reiterated its firm stance rejecting the Ministry of Foreign Affairs embassy in the Afghan capital Kabul. Qatar has strongly condemned and deplored the Afghan government's and its source and whatever its constitutional objections of its legal sources, the statistics bulletin revealed. Visitor arrivals from Europe witnessed the highest growth of 2.6% year-on-year, while arrivals from America increased by 2.5% and Africa rose by 1.5% in comparison with May figures. The total number of tourists from European countries registered a monthly increase of 1.5% in comparison with May figures. In addition, the MME is studying the fight against traffic violations, as the number of arrivals in Doha remained high. The country on the rise

FM holds talks with German counterpart

H.E. Dr. Hamad bin Abdulaziz al-Kuwari, Minister of State for Foreign Affairs, met with German Foreign Minister Ziegmar Gabriel. During their meeting, they exchanged views on regional and international issues. The two ministers reviewed bilateral relations and discussed ways to address issues of mutual interest.

Al-Kuwari meets Lungu

H.E. Dr. Hamad bin Abdulaziz al-Kuwari, Minister of State for Foreign Affairs, met with Zambian President Edgar Lungu in Lusaka. During their meeting, they exchanged views on regional and international issues. The two ministers reviewed bilateral relations and discussed ways to address issues of mutual interest.

ZAMBIAN VISIT

In regard to traffic cases, a fine of QR200 was imposed on the driver of the abandoned boat from the Wakra beach. Moreover, the MME is studying the fight against traffic violations, as the number of arrivals in Doha remained high. The country on the rise

SAMPSON MAFUMA

Business Reporter

N |

---

Number of visitors to country on the rise

The population of Qatar grew by 7.5% year-on-year, reaching 2.3 million. The yield of five-star hotels in comparison with May figures registered QR271 (QR241 in the previous year period). Deluxe hotel apartments registered a monthly increase of 1.5% in comparison with May figures. Moreover, the MME is studying the fight against traffic violations, as the number of arrivals in Doha remained high.

HMC expert advises keeping adequate level of vitamin D

HMC expert, Dr. Hamad bin Abdulaziz al-Kuwari, met with Zambian President Edgar Lungu in Lusaka. During their meeting, they exchanged views on regional and international issues. The two ministers reviewed bilateral relations and discussed ways to address issues of mutual interest.

Swiss rights body calls on Saudi to lift curbs on religious rights

H.H. Sheikh Abdullah bin Nasser bin Khalifa Al-Thani, the Prime Minister and Minister of Interior, held a meeting with Benin President Patrice Talon. During their meeting, they exchanged views on regional and international issues. The two ministers reviewed bilateral relations and discussed ways to address issues of mutual interest.

Swiss rights body calls on Saudi to lift curbs on religious rights

H.H. Sheikh Abdullah bin Nasser bin Khalifa Al-Thani, the Prime Minister and Minister of Interior, held a meeting with Benin President Patrice Talon. During their meeting, they exchanged views on regional and international issues. The two ministers reviewed bilateral relations and discussed ways to address issues of mutual interest.

Swiss rights body calls on Saudi to lift curbs on religious rights

H.H. Sheikh Abdullah bin Nasser bin Khalifa Al-Thani, the Prime Minister and Minister of Interior, held a meeting with Benin President Patrice Talon. During their meeting, they exchanged views on regional and international issues. The two ministers reviewed bilateral relations and discussed ways to address issues of mutual interest.

Swiss rights body calls on Saudi to lift curbs on religious rights

H.H. Sheikh Abdullah bin Nasser bin Khalifa Al-Thani, the Prime Minister and Minister of Interior, held a meeting with Benin President Patrice Talon. During their meeting, they exchanged views on regional and international issues. The two ministers reviewed bilateral relations and discussed ways to address issues of mutual interest.
Qatar girls embrace technology to tackle obesity

Young girls in Qatar appear more likely to use new technologies in programmes to tackle childhood obesity than boys, a new study has found. Furthermore, their mothers are more likely to use social media to learn about a healthy lifestyle than their fathers, the research found.

The joint study was conducted on the use of digital health for obesity, with the clinical study led by Qatar University’s Prof Mohamed Ahmedna using technology designed by the Qatar Computing Research Institute (QCRI), part of Hamad Bin Khalifa University.

More than 50 children aged between nine and 12 years and their parents used wearable sensors, mobile and social media to collect data related to physical activity and food. The data was integrated with physiological data to gain insights into health habits.

QCRI’s Dr Luis Luque, who designed the digital technology, said it was encouraging that overwhelmingly, the mothers and daughters were found to be more proactive in using technology to improve health habits in the future.

“Gender should be taken into account when designing digital health solutions in Qatar. Women can become leaders in using technology to improve health in the future,” Dr Luque said.

The research was funded by the Qatar National Research Fund (QNRF), called ICAN, meaning “I can.”

WISH organises fun summer activities for autistic children

The World Innovation Summit for Health (WISH), with the support of Qatar Foundation Recreation Services and Al Shaqab equestrian centre, organised a summer activity programme for autistic children from the Qatar Autism Families Association (QAF A).

The programme, in line with Qatar’s National Autism Plan, enables children with autism to take part in a range of fun and healthy activities in Doha during the summer months and includes swimming classes and horse riding lessons.

The six-week swimming programme, which commenced on July 13, is the first time WISH and QF Recreation Services have collaborated on such a community programme. The horse riding programme will run throughout August with the support of the Equine Education division at Al Shaqab.

The WISH programme of activities is mindful that Qatar’s National Autism Plan focuses on the need to engage autistic children outside of the classroom. Since it was established in 2012, WISH has made autism one of its priority areas for evidence-based research, and has produced reports, held expert panels, and led initiatives in this area of healthcare.

Through events, such as its summer programme, WISH is ensuring that Qatari society benefits from the global research work it conducts. The most recent WISH research report on autism, published in 2016, highlighted ways of establishing better support for children with autism and the need to tackle the societal and cultural barriers that autistic children and their families face.

“Our research and the Qatar National Autism Plan have highlighted the need to provide activities for children with autism. We hope our summer programme will begin to address that need and benefit both families of children with autism and the children themselves.”

An autistic child learning to swim.
Nearly 24mn people in 36 countries around the world have benefited from Qatar Charity’s devolution, humanitarian and social projects during the first half of 2017. In a press release yesterday, Qatar Charity said that in the past six months it had implemented 10,703 projects in a number of sustainable development areas such as economic empowerment, education, and healthcare, benefiting 14,467,599 people in 36 countries around the world.

In the field of humanitarian and relief projects, including shelter and non-food items, education, food security, water and sanitation, the foundation carried out 148 projectes during the same period, benefiting 9,182,502 people.

In addition, more than 100,000 benefited from social projects, such as scholarships, seasonal projects such as Ramadan Iftar, Zakat al-Fitr, orphanages, people with special needs, families and teachers.

Belgium’s ambassador to Qatar Christophe Payot has lauded the continuous efforts of Katara – the Cultural Village Foundation to partner with various embassies in Doha with the objective of shed-ing light on various cultures and civilisations.
Payot met with Katara general manager Dr
Khalid bin Ibrahim al-Sulaiti yesterday to present a proposal on holding an exhibition at Katara in November.

The event will highlight different elements from the history of Belgian comics. Dr al-Sulaiti presented a memento to the Belgian envoy on the conclusion of his diplomatic mission in Doha.

Meanwhile, Dr al-Sulaiti also met with Ethiopian ambassador Mesganu Arga Moach with the aim of enhancing cultural ties between the countries.
This includes co-operation among cultural entities in the respective countries in addition and enhancing co-operation between Katara and cultural organisations in Ethiopia.

The ambassador thanked Katara for its keenness to host various activities and events throughout the year.

Our foundation’s Pre-
University Education (PUE) has concluded its first Education City Summer Camp. The camp, which took place from July 2 to 27, was held at Awsaj Academy in Education City and brought together nearly 150 schoolchildren from across the country.

Learners took part in a range of fun academic, vocational, and recretional activities. The Education City Summer Camp was sponsored by the Supreme Committee for Delivery & Legacy, Qatar Petroleum, and Wo-do.

PUE president Buthaina Ali alnuaimi said: “We strive to deliver unique learning experiences that are specially designed to equip young people with the knowledge, confidence and skills they need to excel personally and academically.”

“Our inaugural summer camp was a tangible demonstration of this commitment, and we are delighted with the incredible success and impart that it had on reach and every one of the participants.”

Activities included language courses by Hamad Bin Khalifa University’s Translation and Interpreting Institute, equestrian activities by Al Shaqab, and an introduction to falconry by the Al-Gannas Society.

Sheikh Fahad Al-Thani, a panet of one of the participants, noted: “As parents, we are thrilled to see our children taking part in the Education City Summer Camp. It’s very diverse and has many engaging activities.”

Ten-year-old camp participant Mira al-Jufairi added: “This was the best summer camp I have ever been
to. There were so many activities, and I particularly enjoyed playing football as I got to learn new skills.”

The Education City Summer
Camp was organised in partnership with a number of local institutions, including the Supreme Committee for Delivery & Legacy; Weill Cornell Medcine – Qatar; Texas A&M University at Qatar; Msheireb Museums; Mad Science; the Visual Art Center; QSports, and the Adventure Rooms.

HOT SUMMER OFFERS
NOW WITH FLEXIBLE PAYMENT OPTIONS

GRAND CHEROKEE
JL 141956
FROM: 159,900
NOW: QR 129,900

RENASSAC FROM: 79,900
NOW: QR 77,900

COMPASS FROM: 89,829
NOW:QR 82,900

CHEROKEE FROM: 159,198
NOW:QR 111,900

5 YEARS 100,000 KM WARRANTY

United Cars – Almana

Save up to QR 30,000

Pay 50% now and balance over 36 months at 0% rate

© 2017 Gulf Times. All rights reserved.

Our reach is unmatched...
so can be yours.

www.gulf-times.com

Gulf Times Wednesday, August 2, 2017

24mn benefit from QC projects in first half of 2017

QF’s first summer camp concludes Participates of the Education City Summer Camp.

Ambassador Payot receives a mementos from Dr al-Sulaiti.
LG SIGNATURE OLED TV W marks its entry in Qatar with World’s-first wallpaper design

The world’s most premium and globally acclaimed OLED TV features an unmatched ultra-slim, “Picture-on-Wall” design

As the world’s most premium and globally acclaimed OLED TV, LG SIGNATURE OLED TV W marks its entry in Qatar with World’s-first wallpaper design. LG’s continually driving commitment to innovation is evident in every aspect of LG SIGNATURE OLED TV W. The novel Picture-on-Wall design seamlessly integrates the TV with the living space—its ultra-slim profile draws the eye upward, creating a sense of belonging, harmony and beauty. The LG SIGNATURE OLED TV W’s 65-inch screen provides a vast and immersive viewing experience even in the brightest of rooms.

LG SIGNATURE OLED TV W is not only the world’s thinnest TV, but also the first to offer the LG’s proprietary wallpaper design. LG’s engineers have managed to achieve the ultimate in thinness and elegance, making the TV appear as if it is floating on the wall. The seamless integration of the TV with the wall creates a unique visual effect, making it an ideal choice for those looking to enhance the aesthetic appeal of their living space.

The LG SIGNATURE OLED TV W is the epitome of luxury and sophistication, offering an unparalleled viewing experience. Its thinness and design make it the ideal choice for those who seek to make a bold statement with their home entertainment system. The LG SIGNATURE OLED TV W is available in two sizes, 55-inch and 65-inch, and can be customized to fit any living space. Whether you are a connoisseur of high-end technology or simply looking to add a touch of luxury to your home, the LG SIGNATURE OLED TV W is the perfect choice.

The LG SIGNATURE OLED TV W is available at selected LG Dealers and authorized retailers in Qatar. For more information, visit the LG website or contact your local LG representative.

Simplicity. Perfection. #WallpaperTV

- Picture-on-Wall Design
- Perfect Color on Perfect Black
- Dolby Atmos Sound

From brilliant brightness to deepest darks, users can enjoy the ultimate experience of high dynamic range (HDR). Unlike some other HDR technologies, the W series and all LG 2017 OLED TVs feature Active HDR for a far more natural representation of real-world scenes. From vibrant highlights to deep blacks, the LG SIGNATURE OLED TV W creates a stunning new viewing experience.

The LG SIGNATURE OLED TV W is the perfect choice for those who seek a luxurious and immersive viewing experience. With its state-of-the-art technology and premium design, the LG SIGNATURE OLED TV W is sure to impress and leave a lasting impression on anyone who beholds it.
Qatar Airways launches 26 new destinations

Qatar Airways, a Gulf airline based in Qatar, has announced the launch of 26 new destinations, starting from November 2017. The new destinations will enhance the airline's global network and offer passengers more travel options. Qatar Airways' destination list now includes the following cities:

- Antalya (Turkey)
- Amman (Jordan)
- Athens (Greece)
- Barcelona (Spain)
- Belgrade (Serbia)
- Bologna (Italy)
- Brussels (Belgium)
- Buenos Aires (Argentina)
- Cali (Colombia)
- Caracas (Venezuela)
- Cebu (Philippines)
- Christchurch (New Zealand)
- Copenhagen (Denmark)
- Davos (Switzerland)
- Dresden (Germany)
- Hong Kong (China)
- Istanbul (Turkey)
- Jinzhou (China)
- Kuala Lumpur (Malaysia)
- Ljubljana (Slovenia)
- London (UK)
- Long Beach (USA)
- Madrid (Spain)
- Montevideo (Uruguay)
- Munich (Germany)
- Muscat (Oman)
- Naha (Japan)
- Nantes (France)
- Oklahoma City (USA)
- Santiago (Chile)
- Shenzhen (China)
- Singapore (Singapore)
- Sydney (Australia)
- Tbilisi (Georgia)
- Trujillo (Peru)
- Vienna (Austria)
- Zurich (Switzerland)

These new destinations will be served with Qatar Airways' signature service, featuring award-winning in-flight entertainment, complimentary Wi-Fi, and a comfortable travel experience. The airline has also announced plans to expand its network further, with additional destinations to be added in the future.

The expansion of Qatar Airways' route network is part of the airline's ongoing strategy to strengthen its global presence and provide passengers with more travel options. The new destinations will offer passengers increased connectivity to major cities around the world, making it easier for them to reach their travel destinations.

Qatar Airways is committed to providing a high-quality travel experience for its passengers, and the addition of these new destinations is a testament to the airline's dedication to meeting the needs of its customers. With the expansion of its network, Qatar Airways will continue to connect passengers to some of the world's most fascinating destinations, offering them unique travel experiences and opportunities to explore new cultures and countries.

For more information on Qatar Airways' new destinations and flight schedules, please visit the airline's official website.
Jordan scraps controversial rape law

Middle East researcher at Human Rights Watch Adam Coogle said last week that parliamentarians in Jordan’s lead. “I think it is a really a positive step forward towards ending impunity for sexual assault from nooses on Beiruti rooftops,” he said.

Middle East consultant for Equality Now Salome Nahoum said of the new law: “I am pleased to see such a radical change in Jordanian law.”

The official, referring to Islamic State and the state of law in the country, said: “We are seeing a less coherent ISIS in Raqqa compared to Mosul. ISIS is still using small bomb, improvised explosive devices and civilians to hide behind, but they are not going to the full extent to the minimum of the city. The government of Eastern Province has not acted on a close energy cooperation venture to pipe Israeli gas to Turkey. It accused Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu of “neither being committed to peace nor interested in reconciliation deal.”

Hundreds of families have been given temporary accommodations in nearby town. Local activists accuse security forces of abusing hundreds of residents out of J作文fs by firing randomly towards homes and cars as they confronted armed men in the area.

Jordanian lawmakers have noted in a number of Middle Eastern countries, contain girls to a lifetime of sexual violence and diminish their chances of the hands of their captor.

“A Jordanian official threatened by a group linked to the Islamic State in Syria (ISIS) has been arrested in Jordan after threats to kill him,” the state-run Jordanian news agency Petra said.

Jordanian forces were firing randomly towards homes and cars as they confronted armed men in the area.

World Health Organization on Monday described the situation in Raqqa as “particularly worrying.”

“Worse and electricity are available, but not always,” it said, adding that civilians were unable to move freely due to travel and security restrictions imposed by IS. Modest food from remaining residents has helped some to avoid killing and wounded people trapped inside “cages” with 700 to 1,000 residents and little chance of escaping the city.
Kenyans for rapid inquiry into murder of poll official

Protestors yesterday marched on the offices of Kenya's election commission, demanding a speedy investigation into the murder of the country's former elections commissioner. The protest was led by the Kenya National Union of Teachers (KNUT) and the Kenya National Union of Clerical, Technical and Allied Workers (KeNUCA).

The incident follows the murder of Christopher Msando, the election board's information technology manager, who was found shot in the head and whose body was burned and whose body was later found in a sugarcane field near the Nairobi National Park.

Msando had been working on a massive data clean-up project for the 2017 election, which was marred by allegations of vote rigging and electoral fraud.

The KNUT and KeNUCA called for a rapid and thorough investigation into Msando's murder, saying that the government must take immediate action to prevent further violence and to ensure that justice is served.

“The killing of Msando and the murder of his colleagues is a clear indication that the election is not safe for anyone who wants to serve the nation,” KNUT General Secretary Wilson Sossion said.

The government has promised to conduct a full and fair investigation into Msando's murder, but the unions said that the government must take immediate action to prevent further violence and to ensure that justice is served.

The protest was held on the same day that the Independent Electoral and Boundaries Commission (IEBC) announced that it would be conducting a rapid review of the 2017 election results.

The review was announced in response to concerns that the election was rigged, and it is expected to be completed within the next few weeks.

The KNUT and KeNUCA said that the rapid review is not enough, and that the government must take immediate action to prevent further violence and to ensure that justice is served.

The unions also called for the government to ensure that the new election commission is independent and that it is free from political interference.

The government has promised to appoint a new election commission, but the unions said that the commission must be independent and that it is free from political interference.

The unions also called for the government to ensure that the new election commission is independent and that it is free from political interference.

The government has promised to appoint a new election commission, but the unions said that the commission must be independent and that it is free from political interference.

The unions also called for the government to ensure that the new election commission is independent and that it is free from political interference.
A

A de

A

A

A

A

A

A

A

A
Korea can hit US mainland: officials

North Korea’s latest test of an intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM) has raised the stakes in a dangerous game of rocket science and military muscle, with experts warning that the country’s nuclear programme is now too advanced to be reversed.

With its latest missile launch, North Korea has demonstrated that it is capable of targeting the United States with a nuclear weapon. The missile is believed to be capable of reaching the US mainland, although the exact range is uncertain.

The test comes after a series of provocative actions by North Korea, including its first test of an ICBM in July last year, which raised concerns about the country’s missile capabilities.

The test was not only a demonstration of power, but also a form of psychological warfare, as North Korea seeks to exert influence over its neighbours and the international community.

The US and South Korea have responded to the test by increasing their own military exercises and by deploying advanced missile systems to the region. The test has also led to a surge in political rhetoric and a heightened sense of urgency among leaders in the region.

The test also raises questions about the future of the Korean Peninsula. The peninsula is divided between the two Koreas, with North Korea remaining a nuclear-armed state.

The test has also led to a diplomatic crisis between the US and North Korea, with the US imposing new sanctions on North Korea and threatening military action.

The test is a reminder of the ongoing nuclear threat posed by North Korea and the need for continued pressure on the country to denuclearize.

The test also highlights the importance of multilateral efforts to resolve the Korean Peninsula issue, including the Six-Party Talks, which include the US, South Korea, North Korea, Japan, China, and Russia.

The test is also a reminder of the need for continued dialogue and engagement with North Korea, including human rights issues.

The test has also raised questions about the future of the Korean Peninsula and the role of the United Nations Security Council in resolving the issue.

The test is a reminder of the ongoing nuclear threat posed by North Korea and the need for continued pressure on the country to denuclearize.

The test also highlights the importance of multilateral efforts to resolve the Korean Peninsula issue, including the Six-Party Talks, which include the US, South Korea, North Korea, Japan, China, and Russia.

The test is also a reminder of the need for continued dialogue and engagement with North Korea, including human rights issues.

The test has also raised questions about the future of the Korean Peninsula and the role of the United Nations Security Council in resolving the issue.
British government asked to give EU more time on immigration

The British government has been asked to give the European Union more time to negotiate the immigration section of its divorce deal, the FT has learned.

A "very significant" number of EU citizens have written to EU leaders asking them to extend by six months the deadline for the negotiations on the future relationship.

The EU has already said it is unlikely to agree to such a demand, but a letter by a group of EU leaders, led by Germany’s Angela Merkel, could pressure them to do so.

The request was made by EU leaders in a letter to Michel Barnier, the EU’s chief Brexit negotiator, in February.

The leaders said the current negotiations had "missed the boat" and needed more time to tackle the complex issue of immigration.

They said the negotiations had not made progress in "a satisfactory manner" and that the UK’s approach to immigration had been "risky".

The letter also said that the UK’s approach to immigration had been "risky" and that the EU needed to "take a much stronger position" on the issue.

The leaders said they were concerned that the UK might not be able to agree to a solution on immigration that would be acceptable to the EU.

The UK has already said it wants to leave the EU’s free movement of people rules, which are a key part of the EU’s single market.

The EU has also said it wants to limit the number of EU citizens who can come to the UK to work, study or live permanently.

The leaders said they were concerned that the UK might not be able to agree to a solution on immigration that would be acceptable to the EU.

The letter also said that the UK’s approach to immigration had been "risky" and that the EU needed to "take a much stronger position" on the issue.

The leaders said they were concerned that the UK might not be able to agree to a solution on immigration that would be acceptable to the EU.

The letter also said that the UK’s approach to immigration had been "risky" and that the EU needed to "take a much stronger position" on the issue.
EUROPE

Three shot dead in Russian court

A total of 461 suspects jailed for crimes that include attempted to kill President Erdogan, and another 18 have been charged for charges of directing the coup and attempting to kill President Erdogan. A total of 461 suspects were accused of directing the coup and attempted to kill President Erdogan. If convicted, many of the defendants face life sentences in prison. In total, 863 suspects were accused of directing the coup and attempted to kill President Erdogan.

Defendants at the court in a town some 20km outside Ankara were denied bail on Wednesday.

The court in a town some 20km outside Ankara was denied bail on Wednesday.

Bulgaria, Macedonia agree to improve relations

The result of the 2017 resource 'budget' spent by next week: report

Earth's 2017 resource 'budget' spent by next week: report

Nearby 70 migrants enter Spanish enclave

Migrantsopr population hit record 18.6mn in Germany

Migrants over population hit record 18.6mn in Germany

The number of people with an immigrant background in Germany in 2017 rose to 18.6 million, according to official figures. The number of migrants in Germany has increased by more than 500,000 compared to 2016, when the number was 18.1 million.

Germany took in more than 1mn migrants in 2015 and 2016. The number of migrants in Germany has increased by more than 500,000 compared to 2016, when the number was 18.1 million.

Turkey opens trial of 464 defendants

Four of the defendants who were accused of attempting to kill President Erdogan were charged with attempting to kill President Erdogan. The defendants were accused of attempting to kill President Erdogan.

Four of the defendants who were accused of attempting to kill President Erdogan were charged with attempting to kill President Erdogan. The defendants were accused of attempting to kill President Erdogan.

The Turkish court in Ankara sentenced 461 defendants to life imprisonment for attempting to kill President Erdogan. The court also sentenced 18 more defendants to life imprisonment for attempting to kill President Erdogan.

The Turkish court in Ankara sentenced 461 defendants to life imprisonment for attempting to kill President Erdogan. The court also sentenced 18 more defendants to life imprisonment for attempting to kill President Erdogan.
JJaitely vows to take action in Panama Papers cases

Panagariya quits Niti Aayog, to return to US

Opposition parties demand rollback of LPG price rise

Promotional event

Molecular scientist P M Bhargava dead

Court questions delay in probe into Surandana’s death

A woman with her child walks through a flooded road to collect relief materials at a village in Hinsotn district in West Bengal yesterday. The full tide floods rose to 44, with fresh reports of several deaths, official said. More than 2.7 million people have been affected in the state.

Panagariya quits Niti Aayog, to return to US

Niti Aayog vice chairman Arvind Panagariya yesterday resigned as the Niti Aayog vice chairman. The governmen...
Clashes erupt as militant leader killed in Kashmir

Agencies

Indian forces killed a top militant leader in Kashmir on Wednesday, Aug. 2, 2017, in a gun battle near the Line of Control, the de facto border with Pakistan. The killing came amid an uptick in violence in the region, where dozens of civilians and security personnel have been killed this year.

The Indian army said the militant, Abu Dujana, was killed in a gunbattle near the Line of Control in the Budgam district of Jammu and Kashmir. The army said Dujana was among the longest surviving fighters in the region and had been involved in multiple attacks since 2002.

The Indian government has been stepping up its efforts to combat militancy in Kashmir, where more than 150,000 people have been killed since the conflict began in 1989. The government has banned several militant groups and is working to isolate them from their support networks.

The killing of Abu Dujana is a blow to the separatist movement in Kashmir, which has been fighting for a separate state for many years. The Indian government has been trying to persuade separatists to abandon their armed struggle and engage in political negotiations.

INDIA

Modi-Nitish combine spells disaster for Lalu

The Modi-Nitish combine spells disaster for Lalu Prasad Yadvad, who ruled Bihar for 15 years and is currently serving a life sentence for corruption. The two leaders are rivals and have been fighting against each other for years.

The Modi-Nitish combine is expected to win a majority in the upcoming Bihar assembly elections, which will be held in October. The victory will be a setback for Lalu, who is trying to make a political comeback after serving several years in jail.

The Modi-Nitish combine's victory will also be a boost for Prime Minister Narendra Modi, who is currently facing a challenge from his rival, Rahul Gandhi. The Modi-Nitish combine is expected to use its victory to strengthen its position in the country and to continue its anti-corruption campaign.

The Modi-Nitish combine's victory will also be a blow to the Congress party, which has been trying to make a comeback in Bihar. The Congress party has lost several elections in the state in recent years, and its leaders are hoping for a better performance in the upcoming elections.

The Modi-Nitish combine's victory will also be a boost for Prime Minister Narendra Modi, who is currently facing a challenge from his rival, Rahul Gandhi. The Modi-Nitish combine is expected to use its victory to strengthen its position in the country and to continue its anti-corruption campaign.

The Modi-Nitish combine's victory will also be a blow to the Congress party, which has been trying to make a comeback in Bihar. The Congress party has lost several elections in the state in recent years, and its leaders are hoping for a better performance in the upcoming elections.

The Modi-Nitish combine's victory will also be a boost for Prime Minister Narendra Modi, who is currently facing a challenge from his rival, Rahul Gandhi. The Modi-Nitish combine is expected to use its victory to strengthen its position in the country and to continue its anti-corruption campaign.

The Modi-Nitish combine's victory will also be a blow to the Congress party, which has been trying to make a comeback in Bihar. The Congress party has lost several elections in the state in recent years, and its leaders are hoping for a better performance in the upcoming elections.

The Modi-Nitish combine's victory will also be a boost for Prime Minister Narendra Modi, who is currently facing a challenge from his rival, Rahul Gandhi. The Modi-Nitish combine is expected to use its victory to strengthen its position in the country and to continue its anti-corruption campaign.
WhatsApp enforcer to bring new style

Author and contributing editor

Shahid Masood

Politics is a familys business in Pakistan and Nawaz Sharifs has looked no further than his brother for a political successor. Correction: his brother Shahbaz Sharif (he has been convicted on corruption charges and is currently serving a prison sentence)

Shahbaz Sharif, 65, has been the Peoples Movement, as party leader since he took over from his brother, Shahbaz Sharif (he has been convicted on corruption charges and is currently serving a prison sentence) in 2008. Shahbaz Sharif went into exile in Saudi Arabia along with Nawaz after being removed from power by the military in 2013.

A电信

Nawaz Sharif was arrested after the 2018 conviction of corruption allegations against him and was imprisoned for two years while being released.

Prime Minister Imran Khan departed Ukraine on Tuesday after a meeting with Nawaz Sharif, who continued his global tour.

A tough administrator with a reputation for passionate outbursts, he has since dampened the media storm over his and Imran Khans military, which plays an outsized role in Pakistan politics and is generally seen as the arbiter of national policy, with relations with the West and their nuclear programme;

Atfah Durrani, her fifth wife, in 2003.

Nawaz Sharif won his third term in power in 2017, beating his challenger and former Finance Minister Ishaq Durrani, who had sought to capitalize on growing discontent with Sharifs rule.

Shahbaz Sharif was born in the southern port city of Karachi, where he spent most of his childhood before moving to London to study.

He was the chairman of national assembly, and was a member of the National Assembly for Faisalabad in the 1980s, before joining the ruling Pakistan Muslim League in 1987.

He was arrested after the 2018 conviction of corruption allegations against him and was imprisoned for two years while being released.

Shahbaz Sharif departed Ukraine on Tuesday after a meeting with Nawaz Sharif, who continued his global tour.

A tough administrator with a reputation for passionate outbursts, he has since dampened the media storm over his and Imran Khans military, which plays an outsized role in Pakistan politics and is generally seen as the arbiter of national policy, with relations with the West and their nuclear programme;

Atfah Durrani, her fifth wife, in 2003.

Nawaz Sharif won his third term in power in 2017, beating his challenger and former Finance Minister Ishaq Durrani, who had sought to capitalize on growing discontent with Sharifs rule.

Shahbaz Sharif was born in the southern port city of Karachi, where he spent most of his childhood before moving to London to study.

He was the chairman of national assembly, and was a member of the National Assembly for Faisalabad in the 1980s, before joining the ruling Pakistan Muslim League in 1987.

He was arrested after the 2018 conviction of corruption allegations against him and was imprisoned for two years while being released.

Shahbaz Sharif departed Ukraine on Tuesday after a meeting with Nawaz Sharif, who continued his global tour.

A tough administrator with a reputation for passionate outbursts, he has since dampened the media storm over his and Imran Khans military, which plays an outsized role in Pakistan politics and is generally seen as the arbiter of national policy, with relations with the West and their nuclear programme;

Atfah Durrani, her fifth wife, in 2003.

Nawaz Sharif won his third term in power in 2017, beating his challenger and former Finance Minister Ishaq Durrani, who had sought to capitalize on growing discontent with Sharifs rule.

Shahbaz Sharif was born in the southern port city of Karachi, where he spent most of his childhood before moving to London to study.

He was the chairman of national assembly, and was a member of the National Assembly for Faisalabad in the 1980s, before joining the ruling Pakistan Muslim League in 1987.

He was arrested after the 2018 conviction of corruption allegations against him and was imprisoned for two years while being released.

Shahbaz Sharif departed Ukraine on Tuesday after a meeting with Nawaz Sharif, who continued his global tour.

A tough administrator with a reputation for passionate outbursts, he has since dampened the media storm over his and Imran Khans military, which plays an outsized role in Pakistan politics and is generally seen as the arbiter of national policy, with relations with the West and their nuclear programme;

Atfah Durrani, her fifth wife, in 2003.

Nawaz Sharif won his third term in power in 2017, beating his challenger and former Finance Minister Ishaq Durrani, who had sought to capitalize on growing discontent with Sharifs rule.

Shahbaz Sharif was born in the southern port city of Karachi, where he spent most of his childhood before moving to London to study.

He was the chairman of national assembly, and was a member of the National Assembly for Faisalabad in the 1980s, before joining the ruling Pakistan Muslim League in 1987.

He was arrested after the 2018 conviction of corruption allegations against him and was imprisoned for two years while being released.

Shahbaz Sharif departed Ukraine on Tuesday after a meeting with Nawaz Sharif, who continued his global tour.

A tough administrator with a reputation for passionate outbursts, he has since dampened the media storm over his and Imran Khans military, which plays an outsized role in Pakistan politics and is generally seen as the arbiter of national policy, with relations with the West and their nuclear programme;

Atfah Durrani, her fifth wife, in 2003.

Nawaz Sharif won his third term in power in 2017, beating his challenger and former Finance Minister Ishaq Durrani, who had sought to capitalize on growing discontent with Sharifs rule.
A man picks up a garbage strewn methane in Marawi Bay.
Bangladesh conjoined twins separated in marathon surgery

The girls were called pygopagus twins, a particularly rare form of conjoined twins, in which the bodies are joined from above, from the waist down and then again from the chest down, said the senior surgeon at the Dhaka Medical College Hospital, said last month.

The multi-hour operation started yesterday morning at about 6am local time (0900GMT).

They were called pygopagus twins, a particularly rare form of conjoined twins, in which the bodies are joined from above, from the waist down and then again from the chest down, said the senior surgeon at the Dhaka Medical College Hospital.

The girls were called pygopagus twins, a particularly rare form of conjoined twins, in which the bodies are joined from above, from the waist down and then again from the chest down, said the senior surgeon at the Dhaka Medical College Hospital.

Dhaka Medical College and Hospital surgeons operate on conjoined twins in Dhaka yesterday.

Dr Abdul Latif Morol, a reporter for the government's chief forest division, said the government's chief forest division has been working for months on a plan for their separation.

Dr Abdul Latif Morol, a reporter for the government's chief forest division, said the government's chief forest division has been working for months on a plan for their separation.

Environment

Bangladesh police yesterday arrested a journalist in the country's south for allegedly defaming a minister in a Facebook post about a dead goat.

Bangladesh police yesterday arrested a journalist in the country's south for allegedly defaming a minister in a Facebook post about a dead goat.

Dr Abdul Latif Morol, a reporter for the government's chief forest division, said the government's chief forest division has been working for months on a plan for their separation.

The government's chief forest division has been working for months on a plan for their separation.

In a Facebook post, the plaintiff said he filed a case under a controversial section after several newspapers defamed a minister for fisheries and livestock.

In a Facebook post, the plaintiff said he filed a case under a controversial section after several newspapers defamed a minister for fisheries and livestock.

A 2015 survey found a dramatic decline in the numbers of the Bengal tiger in 2015-2016.

A 2015 survey found a dramatic decline in the numbers of the Bengal tiger in 2015-2016.

In the capital Dhaka yesterday, a newspaper led a case under a controversial section after several newspapers defamed a minister for fisheries and livestock.

In the capital Dhaka yesterday, a newspaper led a case under a controversial section after several newspapers defamed a minister for fisheries and livestock.

Security beefed up in Jaffna after three of police officers were admitted in a hospital

Three of police officers were admitted in a hospital after three of police officers were admitted in a hospital.

General

The current government has tabled a new constitution amendment bill in the parliament.

The current government has tabled a new constitution amendment bill in the parliament.

General

Nepal police group gear up for third phase of local elections

Nepal police group gear up for third phase of local elections

Nepal police group gear up for third phase of local elections

Nepal police group gear up for third phase of local elections

The government's chief forest division said they were pygopagus twins, a particularly rare form of conjoined twins, in which the bodies are joined from above, from the waist down and then again from the chest down.

The government's chief forest division said they were pygopagus twins, a particularly rare form of conjoined twins, in which the bodies are joined from above, from the waist down and then again from the chest down.

UML and CPN (Maoist Centre) for the third phase of local elections in the disputed Madhesi province next month.

UML and CPN (Maoist Centre) for the third phase of local elections in the disputed Madhesi province next month.

Bagladesh police yesterday arrested a journalist in the country's south for allegedly defaming a minister in a Facebook post about a dead goat.

Bagladesh police yesterday arrested a journalist in the country's south for allegedly defaming a minister in a Facebook post about a dead goat.

The government's chief forest division has been working for months on a plan for their separation.

The government's chief forest division has been working for months on a plan for their separation.

Environment

Bangladesh police yesterday arrested a journalist in the country's south for allegedly defaming a minister in a Facebook post about a dead goat.

Bangladesh police yesterday arrested a journalist in the country's south for allegedly defaming a minister in a Facebook post about a dead goat.
'Kodak moment' looms for banks as fintech makes inroads

Banks, especially those built on the traditional "fear of the future" and now facing a "kodak moment," no matter what the benefits of the "human touch" are.

Photography pioneer Eastman Kodak sold the first consumer cameras in the 19th century. But it struggled to lose the image as the digital wave of a new century swept into oblivion and for filed bankruptcy in 2012. Many are wondering if another industry such as "Kodak moment" or "Uber moment" leading them to obsolescence in 15 years as the industry is being transformed by technology such as smartphones, contactless and biometric, according to former Barclays CEO Antony Jenkins.

Here are some expert predictions on how fintech will bring about an upheaval in the banking industry. Former US Treasury Secretary Henry Summers sees a 30% chance that 10 years from now, there would be a fintech company with the kind of $200m market cap that some big American banks have now.

New technologies are poised to sweep through investment banks and consumer companies on a trajectory of rough a third of their current workload, according to McKinsey & Co. Cognitive technologies -- applications or machines that perform tasks once requiring human thought -- are part of a disruption that could displace 40% of the workforce, according to the bank. But those laggards without the right "culture or mindset" may struggle to transform themselves despite their tech spending large.

An information has been sending shivers down spines across the Wall Street, some bank worry they will be replaced by machine.

For old-fashioned banks and money managers, the "Kodak moment" is an upheaval

On 2002, Jamie Dimon, CEO of JP Morgan Chase and Co says technology crunches opportunities while keeping costs at bay. It is a flip side, though.

Gary Cohn, who last year stepped down as president of Goldman Sachs Group, told investors in 2013 that technology had helped the bank to shrink its equities staff by more than half over the previous decade.

Not so long ago, across the world, homebuyers, entrepreneurs and consumers all had to hand to the bank to apply for a mortgage, small-business credit or a student loan. But that no longer is the case. For old-fashioned banks and money managers, if the customer is a fintech, is a disruptor, and is an upheaval, possibly the most significant change in years.

Summers says that fintech is likely to make a substantial contribution to the economy.

In a new report, the bank warns that fintech, while still in its infancy, is already forcing banks to re-examine their business models.

The bank said that the use of technology and the digitization of the consumer banking industry is outpacing the rate at which new businesses are being created.

The report, "Kodak moment" or "Uber moment" leading them to obsolescence in 15 years as the industry is being transformed by technology such as smartphones, contactless and biometric, according to former Barclays CEO Antony Jenkins.

"The industry is rising up to the challenge? Britain's financial services regulator is causing a dramatic upheaval, possibly the biggest since the dot-com boom of the 1990s.

Here are some expert predictions on how fintech will bring about an upheaval in the banking industry. Former US Treasury Secretary Henry Summers sees a 30% chance that 10 years from now, there would be a fintech company with the kind of $200m market cap that some big American banks have now.

New technologies are poised to sweep through investment banks and consumer companies on a trajectory of rough a third of their current workload, according to McKinsey & Co. Cognitive technologies -- applications or machines that perform tasks once requiring human thought -- are part of a disruption that could displace 40% of the workforce, according to the bank. But those laggards without the right "culture or mindset" may struggle to transform themselves despite their tech spending large.

An information has been sending shivers down spines across the Wall Street, some bank worry they will be replaced by machine.

For old-fashioned banks and money managers, the "Kodak moment" is an upheaval

On 2002, Jamie Dimon, CEO of JP Morgan Chase and Co says technology crunches opportunities while keeping costs at bay. It is a flip side, though.

Gary Cohn, who last year stepped down as president of Goldman Sachs Group, told investors in 2013 that technology had helped the bank to shrink its equities staff by more than half over the previous decade.

Not so long ago, across the world, homebuyers, entrepreneurs and consumers all had to hand to the bank to apply for a mortgage, small-business credit or a student loan. But that no longer is the case. For old-fashioned banks and money managers, if the customer is a fintech, is a disruptor, and is an upheaval, possibly the most significant change in years.

Summers says that fintech is likely to make a substantial contribution to the economy.

In a new report, the bank warns that fintech, while still in its infancy, is already forcing banks to re-examine their business models.

The bank said that the use of technology and the digitization of the consumer banking industry is outpacing the rate at which new businesses are being created.

The report, "Kodak moment" or "Uber moment" leading them to obsolescence in 15 years as the industry is being transformed by technology such as smartphones, contactless and biometric, according to former Barclays CEO Antony Jenkins.

"The industry is rising up to the challenge? Britain's financial services regulator is causing a dramatic upheaval, possibly the biggest since the dot-com boom of the 1990s.

Here are some expert predictions on how fintech will bring about an upheaval in the banking industry. Former US Treasury Secretary Henry Summers sees a 30% chance that 10 years from now, there would be a fintech company with the kind of $200m market cap that some big American banks have now.

New technologies are poised to sweep through investment banks and consumer companies on a trajectory of rough a third of their current workload, according to McKinsey & Co. Cognitive technologies -- applications or machines that perform tasks once requiring human thought -- are part of a disruption that could displace 40% of the workforce, according to the bank. But those laggards without the right "culture or mindset" may struggle to transform themselves despite their tech spending large.

An information has been sending shivers down spines across the Wall Street, some bank worry they will be replaced by machine.

For old-fashioned banks and money managers, the "Kodak moment" is an upheaval

On 2002, Jamie Dimon, CEO of JP Morgan Chase and Co says technology crunches opportunities while keeping costs at bay. It is a flip side, though.

Gary Cohn, who last year stepped down as president of Goldman Sachs Group, told investors in 2013 that technology had helped the bank to shrink its equities staff by more than half over the previous decade.

Not so long ago, across the world, homebuyers, entrepreneurs and consumers all had to hand to the bank to apply for a mortgage, small-business credit or a student loan. But that no longer is the case. For old-fashioned banks and money managers, if the customer is a fintech, is a disruptor, and is an upheaval, possibly the most significant change in years.

Summers says that fintech is likely to make a substantial contribution to the economy.

In a new report, the bank warns that fintech, while still in its infancy, is already forcing banks to re-examine their business models.

The bank said that the use of technology and the digitization of the consumer banking industry is outpacing the rate at which new businesses are being created.

The report, "Kodak moment" or "Uber moment" leading them to obsolescence in 15 years as the industry is being transformed by technology such as smartphones, contactless and biometric, according to former Barclays CEO Antony Jenkins.

"The industry is rising up to the challenge? Britain's financial services regulator is causing a dramatic upheaval, possibly the biggest since the dot-com boom of the 1990s.

Here are some expert predictions on how fintech will bring about an upheaval in the banking industry. Former US Treasury Secretary Henry Summers sees a 30% chance that 10 years from now, there would be a fintech company with the kind of $200m market cap that some big American banks have now.

New technologies are poised to sweep through investment banks and consumer companies on a trajectory of rough a third of their current workload, according to McKinsey & Co. Cognitive technologies -- applications or machines that perform tasks once requiring human thought -- are part of a disruption that could displace 40% of the workforce, according to the bank. But those laggards without the right "culture or mindset" may struggle to transform themselves despite their tech spending large.

An information has been sending shivers down spines across the Wall Street, some bank worry they will be replaced by machine.

For old-fashioned banks and money managers, the "Kodak moment" is an upheaval

On 2002, Jamie Dimon, CEO of JP Morgan Chase and Co says technology crunches opportunities while keeping costs at bay. It is a flip side, though.

Gary Cohn, who last year stepped down as president of Goldman Sachs Group, told investors in 2013 that technology had helped the bank to shrink its equities staff by more than half over the previous decade.

Not so long ago, across the world, homebuyers, entrepreneurs and consumers all had to hand to the bank to apply for a mortgage, small-business credit or a student loan. But that no longer is the case. For old-fashioned banks and money managers, if the customer is a fintech, is a disruptor, and is an upheaval, possibly the most significant change in years.

Summers says that fintech is likely to make a substantial contribution to the economy.

In a new report, the bank warns that fintech, while still in its infancy, is already forcing banks to re-examine their business models.

The bank said that the use of technology and the digitization of the consumer banking industry is outpacing the rate at which new businesses are being created.
Where are Indian, African faces in Dunkirk?

By Sunny Singh

Brazil faces less ‘generational lost generation’

By Live News

About 4 million workers aged 18 to 34 have found new education than their parents, were more likely to be women, black, and with disabilities or suffering from memory loss.

The joblessness rate among teenagers and young adults, who are also more likely to devote lots of hours to volunteer work. During the study, about 1.5% of the young people who were not involved in the study.

Feeling lonely? Volunteering may help

By Live News

Feeling lonely? Volunteering may help

Volunteering in particular is an activity that facilitates older adults’ social engagement and the formation of new relationships, and it may also increase older persons’ self-esteem and self-confidence. How and why volunteering benefits older persons can be better understood with the help of evidence from the volunteering benefits of older persons.

Volunteering in particular is an activity that facilitates older adults’ social engagement and the formation of new relationships, and it may also increase older persons’ self-esteem and self-confidence. How and why volunteering benefits older persons can be better understood with the help of evidence from the volunteering benefits of older persons.

Brazil faces less ‘generational lost generation’

By Live News

About 4 million workers aged 18 to 34 have found new education than their parents, were more likely to be women, black, and with disabilities or suffering from memory loss.

The joblessness rate among teenagers and young adults, who are also more likely to devote lots of hours to volunteer work. During the study, about 1.5% of the young people who were not involved in the study.

Feeling lonely? Volunteering may help

By Live News

Feeling lonely? Volunteering may help

Volunteering in particular is an activity that facilitates older adults’ social engagement and the formation of new relationships, and it may also increase older persons’ self-esteem and self-confidence. How and why volunteering benefits older persons can be better understood with the help of evidence from the volunteering benefits of older persons.

Volunteering in particular is an activity that facilitates older adults’ social engagement and the formation of new relationships, and it may also increase older persons’ self-esteem and self-confidence. How and why volunteering benefits older persons can be better understood with the help of evidence from the volunteering benefits of older persons.
Qatar Museums invites contributions to Tamim Al Majd exhibition

Qatar Museums (QM) has invited members of the public to contribute to a crowd-sourced exhibition to celebrate the nation’s history by creating a ‘Tamim Al Majd’ mural for display in a public art space in the coming days. To ensure the event’s success, QM is calling on residents and visitors of all ages, made by residents and visitors of all ages, to contribute a unique, personalized nature of the ‘graffiti’ messages.

Given the mass participation and involvement of the community to take part in a unique, personalized nature of the ‘graffiti’ messages, QM is inviting contributions to the Tamim Al Majd exhibition to celebrate the diversity of shapes and sizes are expected to be on display. Those interested in submitting murals to the venue. Those interested in submitting a contribution should check the requirements necessary to transport the murals to the venue. Those interested in submitting a contribution should check the requirements necessary to transport the murals to the venue.

UAE compels to host Tabtbaa exhibition

From Page 1

The Minister of Transport and Communications Jassim Seif Ahmed Al Sulaiti said that he was open to planes registered in Qatar, experts said. With the ICAO directive issued on July 31, more airspace will be available for Qatari aircraft. The airspace marked in blue and green will be open to planes registered in Qatar, experts said. The airspace marked in blue and green will be open to planes registered in Qatar, experts said.

He also noted that Qatar cannot be accused of interfering in the other sides’ affairs and is participating in the Middle East as it is the last pillar of the Gulf Cooperation Council (GCC). He noted that these remarks were made by the many tens of thousands of people who wrote to him and not a result of Qatar standing in the way of the other sides’ aff airs and is participating in the Middle East as it is the last pillar of the Gulf Cooperation Council (GCC). He noted that these remarks were made by the many tens of thousands of people who wrote to him.

Siege countries violated aviation laws: al-Sulaiti

HE Dr al-Attiyah said in an interview on Sunday that even if the siege countries attempted to violate their aviation laws and the crisis ended, the public opinion will never forget that the legal crisis was the backing of Qatar Airways’ network, making it one of the only major coalitions Qatar is involved in.

He added that the six member states of the coalition are working on the responsibility of managing whatever remains of this unique experience.

HE Dr al-Attiyah said in an interview on Sunday that even if the siege countries attempted to violate their aviation laws and the crisis ended, the public opinion will never forget that the legal crisis was the backing of Qatar Airways’ network, making it one of the only major coalitions Qatar is involved in.

He added that the six member states of the coalition are working on the responsibility of managing whatever remains of this unique experience.

HE Dr al-Attiyah said in an interview on Sunday that even if the siege countries attempted to violate their aviation laws and the crisis ended, the public opinion will never forget that the legal crisis was the backing of Qatar Airways’ network, making it one of the only major coalitions Qatar is involved in.

He added that the six member states of the coalition are working on the responsibility of managing whatever remains of this unique experience.

HE Dr al-Attiyah said in an interview on Sunday that even if the siege countries attempted to violate their aviation laws and the crisis ended, the public opinion will never forget that the legal crisis was the backing of Qatar Airways’ network, making it one of the only major coalitions Qatar is involved in.

He added that the six member states of the coalition are working on the responsibility of managing whatever remains of this unique experience.

HE Dr al-Attiyah said in an interview on Sunday that even if the siege countries attempted to violate their aviation laws and the crisis ended, the public opinion will never forget that the legal crisis was the backing of Qatar Airways’ network, making it one of the only major coalitions Qatar is involved in.

He added that the six member states of the coalition are working on the responsibility of managing whatever remains of this unique experience.