During these precious times countless important actions are performed. In the Quran, the Prophet (saw) has commanded all the members of the ummah to fast on the days of Ramadan. This instruction is one of the signs of the Last Hour that will come to the believers. Allah (swt) has also confirmed in the Quran that He is the Lord of all months, and the command to perform the month of Ramadan (Ramadhan) was only meant for Ramadan!—said the Prophet (saw).

Thailand parliament to vote for PM on June 5

Prime Minister Prayut Chan-ocha said yesterday that he would resign if a general election is not called within three months, but he denied that he would step down in June, the day parliament is scheduled to vote on a no-confidence motion. The vote of confidence is expected to take place Wednesday, with Prime Minister Prayut Chan-ocha's ruling Palang Pracharat Party holding a majority of 246 seats, just shy of a supermajority in the 350-seat house. A prime minister will need the vote of at least 176 members of the two houses of parliament, a majority of the combined 500-seat house, and 250 of the 400-seat Constitutional Court.

"It is not too late for any party to change their mind," said Prayut, adding that he would resign if a general election is not called within three months.

One party won a majority in the election, but Palang Pracharat’s failure to win a majority of seats in the polls was because of joint-list electoral rules that parties use to maximize their seats per house. Supported by 246 seats, the party fails to win the supermajority needed for a prime minister.

"But this will be the last chance," he added, saying that he was concerned about Thailand’s future and the new generation.

Think-tank reforms in the offering: govt think-tank

The first 100 days of Prime Minister Narendra Modi’s second term, "big-bang" economic reforms are expected to be presented, according to stop- press stories from India’s think-tank circle.

The reforms will include changes in labour laws, privatisation norms, and creation of a national commission for goods and services. "This is the moment to adopt practical policies appealing to investors," Modi said in his recent Mann ki Baat programme.

According to Kailash, the PM’s first term in office was marked by reforms, and his second will be a consolidation of those efforts. According to reports, Modi will make a policy speech before the Budget session.

PM makes major Cabinet changes for new term

The major cabinet reshuffle followed two days after Prime Minister Narendra Modi approved the switchover of Sitharaman from finance minister to defence minister. The move comes weeks after Sitharaman was asked to step in as finance minister after her predecessor, Nirmala Sitharaman, accepted the defence portfolio.

In his first reshuffle of the new term, Modi upgraded Sitharaman’s status by promoting her as defence minister, replacing Rajnath Singh, who was previously in the defence portfolio. Sitharaman will now be the third woman to hold the finance minister position in India’s history.

The reshuffle aims to create a strong Cabinet to address India’s economic challenges, particularly the need to boost growth and create jobs. Sitharaman’s elevation to finance minister is expected to bring a fresh perspective to the economy, as she was previously the minister of commerce and industry.

Sitharaman’s elevation to finance minister underscores the government’s commitment to economic reform and development. She has been a strong advocate for the "Make in India" programme and has been actively involved in promoting Indian businesses both domestically and internationally.

It remains to be seen how Sitharaman’s elevation will impact India’s economic growth and investment climate. However, it is clear that the government is determined to take bold actions to address India’s economic challenges and position the country for long-term growth and development.

Town struggles with surge in HIV cases

D IAS is a town in Pakistan that is struggling to cope with a surge in HIV infections. A recent report found that about 163 HIV-positive children have been identified in the town, which has a population of around 50,000.

"It is a scary situation," said a local doctor. "We are doing our best to control the spread, but it is difficult with such a large number of cases." The doctor added that the town, which is located in Sindh province, has only one screening centre for HIV.

In response to the surge in cases, the Government of Pakistan has announced plans to expand screening and treatment services in the town. However, many residents are skeptical of the government's efforts and feel that more needs to be done.

The town is located near a major road and has a high density of population, which makes it vulnerable to the spread of HIV.

Town struggles with surge in HIV cases

Discretion is a town in Pakistan that is struggling to cope with a surge in HIV infections. A recent report found that about 163 HIV-positive children have been identified in the town, which has a population of around 50,000.

"It is a scary situation," said a local doctor. "We are doing our best to control the spread, but it is difficult with such a large number of cases." The doctor added that the town, which is located in Sindh province, has only one screening centre for HIV.

In response to the surge in cases, the Government of Pakistan has announced plans to expand screening and treatment services in the town. However, many residents are skeptical of the government's efforts and feel that more needs to be done.

The town is located near a major road and has a high density of population, which makes it vulnerable to the spread of HIV.

The Philippines has started returning 1,600 shipping containers full of trash back to Canada after a long-running dispute over the dumping of garbage that has boosted diplomatic ties since the current President Rodrigo Duterte. The 64 containers were loaded onto a vessel at the port of Bulacan, northeast of the capital of Manila. It is part of an agreement made several years ago to transport the waste to Canada, but the Philippines has been most reluctant to send the garbage back. The Philippines had accused Canada of skirting, prompting angry rebukes from Duterte, a volatile but highly popular president known for his tirades against Western governments, particularly the US and the EU. The three jewellery collections, stored in a vault at the central bank, were to stay in the Philippines until a court ruled in their favor.

WOMEN AND GIRLS HOLD THE KEY TO UNIVERSAL HEALTH COVERAGE

By Francine Grand

ow are we a human right, for so many of the world's women and girls? In the midst of the ongoing COVID-19 health crisis, the need for universal health coverage (UHC) has never been more pressing. UHC is a foundational principle that ensures no one is denied care at any point in the health system, regardless of gender or any other characteristic.

Women and girls hold the key to universal health coverage because they are the agents of change. They are the ones who bring children into the world and tend to their health needs. They are the caregivers who ensure the health of their families. They are the leaders who drive progress in their communities. They are the innovators who create solutions to health challenges.

This is not just a statement of fact. This is a call to action. This is an urgency. The world cannot afford to settle for anything less than universal health coverage for all women and girls.

But to block the measure in court, challenges would have to show the president was acting outside the law. Any court would find this case difficult to enforce. The administration has not established how any transactions in metals, chemicals, and long-distance transport would become verifiably carbon-intensive.

The fundamental obstacle to decarbonising the world's economies is the price of carbon. By setting a uniform price, carbon tariffs could unleash a sequence of regulatory measures. This could also make it easier for other countries to implement similar policies, which would then also become a target for retaliation. But in the industrial sectors, the cost of decarbonisation can be daunting.

The general push toward UHC underlines the need for political action on carbon pricing. The world cannot afford to settle for anything less than universal health coverage for all women and girls.

The US Chamber of Commerce, an infl uential business lobby, said the proposal would hurt the legal options to challenge the US economic laws was in place.

Municipality in overdrive to ensure cleanliness, food safety during Eid

The General Cleanness Department at the Ministry of Municipality and Environment (MME) has been engaged in intense preparations for the upcoming Eid al-Fitr, according to a statement. "The cleaning works will go on round-the-clock during the Eid holidays as special field work teams have been formed to provide the necessary workforce," Safar Mubarak al-Shafi , assistant undersecretary for General Services Affairs, MME, said.

These teams will cover all the cities and areas of the country with special focus on areas where crowded gatherings, such as the recreation and entertainment areas, take place. The teams will focus on parks, beaches and squares. A large number of garbage containers will be distributed at all such locations and the trash will be collected as frequently as possible to avoid any accumulation.

Al-Shafi stressed that the daily work programme of cleaning will continue as usual and will not be adversely affected by the Eid holidays. He also stressed that the department takes into consideration the rights of cleaning workers and drivers, and would schedule their work shifts in a way that would allow them to enjoy the Eid holidays.

In the meantime, the department gave special importance for the cleaning works at the areas designated as prayer yards to keep them in the best possible shape to receive the large number of the faithful for the Eid prayers. Work at such places has been done in co-operation with the entities concerned.

In addition, more focus will be given to the beaches including Al Corniche, Sealine, Al Khor, Al Wakra and Al Ghwaryiah and others due to the large number of visitors expected. Al-Shafi also urged the public to abide by the rules and regulations of public cleanliness and hygiene and avoid careless disposal of refuse, using only the designated containers.

In the meantime, Al Khor and Al Thakhira Municipality Health Control Section has maintained tighter control on the food facilities and outlets there as part of its preparations for Eid al-Fitr through regular and surprise inspection campaigns on morning and afternoon shifts. The targeted outlets include sweets and nuts shops, slaughterhouses and meat shops, eateries and shopping complexes to ensure that the food products for sale are safe for human consumption.

Besides, six veterinarians have been assigned the task of supervising the slaughterhouses, the fish market, the meat and poultry shops in addition to the other health inspectors to make sure that all the necessary procedures for food safety are maintained.
