Qatar, UNHCR sign pact to run clinics for Syrian refugees

Qatar Fund for Development (QFFD) and UNHCR, the UN Refugee Agency, have signed an agreement worth $3mn to operate five clinics to support the primary health needs in support of the Syrian refugees in Jordan.

The agreement was signed by Misfer bin Hamad al-Shahwani, deputy director-general for Projects - QFFD; and Amin Awad, UNHCR director for the Middle East and North Africa Bureau and regional refugee co-ordinator for the Syria and Iraq situations, in support of UNHCR’s healthcare activities of Syrian refugees in Jordan for seven months.

This contribution aims to support UNHCR’s efforts providing comprehensive healthcare services for an estimated 5,000 vulnerable Syrian refugees, whether living in camps or informal settings. These services include reproductive health, mental health, dentistry, nutrition, and malnutrition for further care, according to a press statement.

Awad said: “This agreement complements the continuous solidarity of the State of Qatar with the Syrian people and those affected by the Syrian conflict. It also supports the efforts of the Jordanian government to support Syrian refugees and to advance sustainable development Goal number 3. The third objective of the Fund is to ensure that everyone enjoys a healthy and prosperous lifestyle. These clinics are equipped with basic services to ensure access to health care for Syrian refugees and provide treatment for acute and chronic diseases, as the Syrian people are in dire need of these services.”

“Qatar’s agreement focuses on alleviating the suffering of the most vulnerable Syrian refugees in the sector of healthcare, in particular those who suffer from chronic medical conditions, the disabled and the elderly,” said Awad, commenting on the importance of this agreement. “We appreciate the efforts of QFFD in running these clinics and supporting those who struggle to find treatment, given their limited financial resources.”

During the past years, QFFD has supported UNHCR’s programmes in support of refugees and internally displaced persons. Last year alone, QFFD-funded UNHCR’s programmes for up to 90,000 refugees and internally displaced persons in Syria, Basel and Yemen.

HMC to introduce ‘Urgent Neurology Clinic’ soon

The Neurology Department at Hamad Medical Corporation (HMC) will soon launch an urgent neurology clinic. The clinic will help patients with sub-acute neurology problems.

The urgent neurology clinic will help patients whose attacks are infrequent, and articles are admitted to the hospital. Some of the patients’ cases may not get admitted to the hospital depending on the patient’s condition. However, those patients will be admitted to the hospital and the neurologist will arrange to see the patients and match their cases by introducing the urgent neurology clinic, said Hamad General Hospital, HMC.

"If the cases are related to injuries, they go to the rapid stroke assessment centre. Lab cases will be sent to the hospital emergency inpatient who will deal with the case at the consultation, or to the urgent neurology clinic if the specialty clinic is concerned," said Dr. Saqqur.

The clinic will be opened in various hospitals and the health centres of the Health Care Corporation. On an average, 5% of the arrivals are acute. The acute cases will have symptoms such as speech or motor problems or other. Those cases will be admitted to the hospital and treated by the neurologist. They will be introduced in one to two months.

"We get the patients from various hospitals and the health centers of the Health Care Corporation. On an average, 5% of the arrivals are acute. The acute cases will have symptoms such as speech or motor problems or other. Those cases will be admitted to the hospital and treated by the neurologist. They will be introduced in one to two months," said Dr. Saqqur.

The neurologist said that some of the cases can be considered urgent.

"About 10-15% of the cases of sub-acute patients in general in neurology, within the urgent clinic, we will see as an in-patient. We will be seeing the in-patients in the clinic, so the urgent cases will be comprised through the in-patients. In the urgent neurology clinic, we are seeing 15-20 patients a week, explained Dr. Saqqur.

The registration and appointment process is very short one to two months for chronic cases. It will be a compulsory part in any part of the world. We are also in the process of building sub-specialty clinics. We have an eye-strain clinic, and we have projects and initiatives to introduce the sub-specialty clinics within the neurology clinic itself. We are introducing the sub-specialty clinics to increase the service to the patients and make it more convenient for the patients," said Dr. Saqqur.

The clinic will be introduced across all HMC and staff members of the public have been encouraged to donate books. The library is placed at Hamad General Hospital reception across all HMC hospitals.

Dr. Saqqur noted, "improving the patient experience is one of the HMC’s main priorities, and this means taking a holistic approach to managing patients. We want to make it as difficult as possible. Having a library of books for our patients will provide them with an invaluable opportunity to relax and brighten up whilst being in hospital. We already have over 300 books across all hospital libraries, including those which have been donated through continued donations, the number will grow.

"This is just the beginning, our long-term goal is to increase the number of multi-language books we have in circulation. The books we have across all HMC facilities, so our inpatients can relax with a book during their hospital stay. We are extremely grateful to all our partners who have donated books to the patient library and we are also grateful to all our partners who have donated books to the patient library and we are especially proud to have received books in over ten different languages so those patients who may have very little knowledge of English can also enjoy reading books in their native language."

The Arab League yesterday reaffirmed its plea for the US president to extradite alleged killer bin Laden to the International Criminal Court to face criminal investigation. The statement was made after a press conference held in Tunis by League's Secretary General, Ahmed bin Abdulaziz al-Sahlawi. Amidst the heightened tensions between the two countries, the statement called for international collaboration to ensure justice for the victims of the September 11 attacks.

The League is also expressing concern about the increasing influence of extremist groups in the region and the need for a comprehensive approach to counter terrorism. The statement emphasized the importance of the upcoming United Nations Security Council meeting to discuss the situation in the Middle East and the need for a resolution that prevents further escalation.

The Arab League has called for a diplomatic solution to the ongoing conflict in Yemen and has expressed its support for the efforts made by the International Committee of the Red Cross to facilitate humanitarian aid to the war-torn country.

The statement concluded by reiterating the League's commitment to the principles of international law and the need for a just and lasting peace in the Middle East.

US President Donald Trump said yesterday that he had rejected a French proposal to try suspected jihadist bin Laden in a UN court, saying it was “not appropriate.” The president made the announcement during an interview with NBC’s Meet the Press programme. He said that France had proposed to try bin Laden in a UN court and that he had rejected the suggestion, saying it was “not appropriate.”

Trump’s rejection of the French proposal comes amid ongoing tension between the two countries over the President’s decision to pull out of the Iran nuclear deal and his order to reinstate sanctions against Iran. France has been a key ally of the United States in the region and has expressed concern about the potential for conflict.

A senior adviser to Khamenei said Iran may scale back compliance with its nuclear deal since European countries failed to implement a mechanism to protect the deal. The adviser, Kamyar clinic, said in an interview with the Iran Press news agency that Iran was not bound by its commitments under the nuclear deal if European countries failed to implement the mechanism.

The arrival of Lourenco, who has earlier served under dos Sera Mekonnen and a retired general as deputy prime minister, means that dos Santos now faces a major challenge to his position.

Lourenco, the 65-year-old son of dos Santos, is expected to be appointed as dos Santos' successor. He is a former engineer and was education minister before becoming deputy prime minister.

Lourenco's appointment comes after months of speculation about dos Santos' succession plans. Dos Santos has held power since 1979 and has faced increasing pressure from opposition groups and civil society organizations.

The new premier will face the challenge of stabilizing the economy and controlling corruption, which has been a major issue during dos Santos' tenure. Lourenco's leadership may bring some stability to the government, which has been under pressure from international lenders to implement economic reforms.

Despite the change in leadership, the government will continue to face challenges such as high unemployment, inflation, and a lack of investment.

Lourenco's appointment is seen as a positive step towards a more stable and accountable government, but it remains to be seen whether he will be able to address the country's pressing problems.

The new premier's appointment is likely to be welcomed by international lenders and investors, who have been cautious in the past due to concerns about corruption and lack of transparency.

Lourenco's leadership may also bring some relief to the business community, which has been frustrated by the high costs of doing business in Angola.

However, the government will continue to face challenges such as high unemployment, inflation, and a lack of investment. The new premier will need to work closely with international partners to address these issues.

The next few months will be crucial for Lourenco and his government as they seek to stabilize the economy and control corruption.

Lourenco's appointment is seen as a positive step towards a more stable and accountable government, but it remains to be seen whether he will be able to address the country's pressing problems.
President Donald Trump said in an interview broadcast on Sunday that making an agreement to deport gang members and other dangerous criminals to their home countries would be "the end of the drug problem".

"They come around here, they're going to be deported to where they came from, and that's the end of the drug problem," Trump told Fox News. "We have the best eight people in the world, I mean, they do an amazing job."

Trump was asked if the wall he promised during his campaign was the solution to illegal immigration.

"It's one of the solutions but it's very important," he said. "It's a very important solution and it's a very important part of the equation."

Trump also said he was "very encouraged" by the progress being made with Mexico on the wall and that he was considering asking Congress for another $4 billion to help fund the construction.

The president was also asked about the immigration bill that is currently being debated in Congress.

"I think we have a good bill," he said. "I think we have a very good bill. I think we have a bill that's going to pass."
Death toll in Cambodian building collapse up at 18

A female survivor slept, a survivor said yesterday, at her window, but a man trapped in the debris had died, the survivor said, adding that she had heard screams for help. The survivor said that the man had been trapped for hours. She said she had been waiting for help, but she did not know if the man had survived.

ictims of a Cambodian building collapse that has killed at least 18 people and injured dozens more were being rescued yesterday.

The building, a five-storey structure located in Phnom Penh, collapsed yesterday morning, trapping dozens of people inside. The cause of the collapse was not immediately clear, but some speculated that it was due to poor construction standards.

Local authorities yesterday raised the death toll to 18, up from 12 the previous day. At least 40 people were still missing, and rescuers continued to search for survivors.

Sri Lanka President Maithripala Sirisena

The Sri Lanka president ordered an investigation into the collapse and expressed his condolences to the families of the victims. He also visited the site of the collapse and met with local officials.

The incident in Sri Lanka was one of several recent building collapses in the country, which has a history of lax safety standards.

The death toll in the Cambodian building collapse has risen to 18, with dozens more missing. Local authorities are continuing to search for survivors.

Thailand has new government in place

Thailand has a new government in place, with Prayut Chan-o-cha sworn in as prime minister.

The new government comes after months of political uncertainty and a military coup in May 2014. Prayut led the coup and has been the de facto leader of the country ever since.

Prayut has promised to hold elections within a year, but many are skeptical of his commitment to democracy.

The new government will face many challenges, including economic instability and political divisions.

Prayut has said he will work to stabilize the economy and restore political stability.

Some are concerned about the new government's commitment to human rights and democracy.

Prayut's rule has been marked by criticism, with many accusing him of suppressing dissent and violating human rights.

The new government will need to address these issues if it hopes to win the trust of the Thai people.

Police probe new GCSE exam paper leak claims

Police have been called in to probe the leak of an exam after an unknown source reported a potential breach of part of a GCSE religious studies document.

It is the latest in a series of alleged leaks that have raised concerns about the integrity of exams in recent years, with social media enabling cheating to spread quickly and easily.

A source close to concerns that a exam marker may have been involved who, as a result, has been suspended from marking duties.

The cheating has been identified as having taken place on the day of the exam, with the suspect later admitting to having accessed the exam paper.

The suspect, who is an experienced marker, said that he had accessed the exam paper on a computer at work, and had then taken a photograph of the paper and sent it to a colleague.

The colleague then passed the photograph to a third party, who then posted it online.

The exam paper in question is a question on the topic of “religious beliefs and practices in the context of human rights.”

The question asks candidates to explore the ways in which religious beliefs and practices can be used to justify human rights abuses.

A source close to the investigation said: “We have reason to believe that this suspect may have accessed the exam paper in breach of our policies.”

The source added that the suspect was a member of a large exam marking team, and had previously been involved in marking other exams.

The suspect was interviewed by examiners and admitted to having accessed the exam paper.

He was then suspended from marking duties pending further investigation.

Toddlers left alone in hot car rescued

A toddler has been rescued from a hot car in west London after being left unattended.

The child was left alone in a car for several hours while the parents went to a nearby shop.

The temperature inside the car had reached 35 degrees Celsius, and the child was at risk of overheating.

Firefighters were called to the scene, and the child was quickly removed from the car.

The child was taken to hospital, where he was treated for dehydration and heat exhaustion.

Emergency services were called to the scene after receiving a 999 call from a concerned member of the public.

The caller had seen the child alone in the car and had noted the temperature inside the car was very high.

Firefighters arrived at the scene within minutes and quickly removed the child from the car.

The child was then taken to hospital, where he was treated for dehydration and heat exhaustion.

Emergency services were commended for their quick response and the child was praised for his resilience.

The incident is being investigated by the government and the police, and parents are being urged to be vigilant when leaving children unattended in vehicles.

Deputy head’s career in tatters after shooting pupil

A deputy headteacher at a secondary school in London has been suspended after it was discovered that he had shot a pupil during a fight.

The incident occurred during a school assembly, where the pupil had been accused of disruptive behavior.

According to a witness who heard the incident, the pupil had been removed from the assembly and taken to a separate room.

The pupil then returned to the assembly and confronted the deputy headteacher, who was accused of making threatening comments.

The pupil then produced a knife and threatened the deputy headteacher.

The deputy headteacher then produced a gun and shot the pupil, who later died at the scene.

The incident has caused outrage among parents and teachers, who are demanding answers and changes to school safety policies.

The school’s governing body has promised to launch an independent inquiry into the incident, and the police are investigating the matter.

Crime scene

Councillor ‘rashly abused on tube’

A Labour councillor in London has been arrested after allegedly threatening a female police officer on a tube train.

The incident took place on a busy late-night tube service, where the councillor was accused of making a series of racist and offensive comments.

According to witnesses, the councillor had been drinking heavily before the incident, and was acting aggressively.

The female officer, who had approached the councillor to ask him to lower his volume, was then allegedly threatened with a knife.

The incident has caused shock and outrage among residents, who are calling for action to be taken against the councillor.

The incident is being investigated by the police, and the Labour party is promising to take action against the councillor if he is found to have acted inappropriately.

London guardsman killer to face second trial

A guardsman has been sentenced to life in prison after being found guilty of murder and causing bodily harm.

The guardsman had been accused of shooting and injuring a fellow guardsman during a training exercise.

According to witnesses, the guardsman had been acting aggressively and had threatened to use his weapon if he was not allowed to proceed with the exercise.

The guardsman then turned his weapon on himself, and was later found in a critical condition.

The guardsman was transferred to hospital, where he later died of his injuries.

The guardsman’s family has expressed their shock and悲痛 over his death, and has called for changes to the training system.

Police are investigating the matter, and are promising to take action against anyone found to be responsible for the guardsman’s death.

In April, authorities forced some 134 Dalits in a village near Fursa to convert to Hinduism or face the risk of being killed. The incident, which occurred near the site of a road infrastructure project, was one of many such incidents in recent years. The Dalit community has long been targeted by caste-based violence, particularly in the state of Uttar Pradesh. The incident highlights the ongoing struggle of marginalized communities in India, especially in the context of the government's push to promote religious harmony and social cohesion. The government has been criticized for its failure to address the root causes of such incidents, including economic disparities and systemic discrimination. The incident has sparked outrage among human rights organizations and the international community, who have called for urgent action to ensure the safety and dignity of all citizens. The government has promised to investigate the incident and bring those responsible to justice. However, many question the sincerity of these promises, given the history of impunity in India. The incident serves as a reminder of the urgent need for systemic change in India, particularly in the context of the country's large Dalit population and its ongoing struggle for equality and justice.

Venezuela detains six military, police officials

Brazil

Venezuelan authorities have arrested six members of the country’s military and police force over the weekend, as rival leaders of the opposition and human rights groups say that the government has not resolved the crisis.

The vandalism was the latest in a series of incidents that have led to widespread unrest across the country. In a statement, the government said it was responding to the violent attacks.

This is the second time this month that police and soldiers have been deployed to quell protests.

The government has previously said it was responding to the violent attacks.

Ivanka Trump will travel to Latin America this month as part of a multi-country trip to discuss the migrant crisis.

The trip comes as the administration faces pressure to take action on the crisis.

Trump will visit Guatemala, Mexico, and Brazil during the trip, which is expected to last about a week.

Ivanka Trump is expected to meet with officials in those countries to discuss the migrant crisis, which has been a major issue for the administration.

The trip is part of a broader effort by the administration to address the migrant crisis, which has caused thousands of people to flee their homes and seek asylum in the United States.

It is not clear what具体措施 will be discussed during the meeting.

However, the administration has spoken about the need for a more comprehensive approach to addressing the crisis, including stronger cooperation with Central American governments to reduce the flow of migrants.

Ivanka Trump will also visit a refugee center in Colombia during the trip.

The trip is expected to focus on ways to increase support for refugees and migrants in the region.

It is not clear if any specific agreements will be reached during the trip.

President Trump has previously spoken about the need for a more robust approach to addressing the migrant crisis, including increased enforcement of immigration laws.

However, the administration has struggled to find a consensus on how to address the issue.

The administration has been criticized for its cứng approach to immigration, which has included the use of detention centers and the separation of families.

Trump has also faced criticism for his handling of the migrant crisis, including the decision to end the Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals (DACA) program.

Ivanka Trump’s visit is likely to be met with mixed reactions from local officials and refugees alike.

Some have praised the move as a step toward addressing the crisis, while others have expressed concern about the administration’s approach.

President Rodrigo Duterte has vowed to provide “speedy administrative justice” and “accountability” in the investigation of the Recto Bank ramming incident. He also expressed confidence that the Philippines will make a “wise” decision on the South China Sea dispute.

In May last year, Duterte signed Republic Act No. 11202, also known as the Recto Bank safe haven act," which granted the Philippines an authority to construct a safe haven in the South China Sea.

In an interview, Duterte said that the incident was a “small problem” that can be handled by the Philippines. He also expressed confidence that the Philippines will make a “wise” decision on the South China Sea dispute.

On the sidelines of the annual meeting of the Asian Development Bank in Thailand, Duterte is expected to attend the weekend summit with ASEAN leaders and discuss the South China Sea issue.

Thai businesses urged to invest in infrastructure programme

Thai businesses are being urged to invest in infrastructure programmes in the Philippines, a top economic official said.

“Let’s talk about infrastructures. We need to do it,” Escudero told a forum organized by the Philippine Chamber of Commerce and Industry.

He said the Philippines had a “good” infrastructure programme and that it was “very consistent.”

Duterte also said that the Philippines would become a “very strong player” in the regional economy.

“Let’s work on our infrastructure, and let’s make sure that we have the best infrastructure in the world,” Escudero said.

In the Philippines, the government is pushing for a $20 billion infrastructure programme, which includes roads, bridges, and airports.

He said the Philippines had a “good” infrastructure programme and that it was “very consistent.”

Duterte also said that the Philippines would become a “very strong player” in the regional economy.

“Let’s work on our infrastructure, and let’s make sure that we have the best infrastructure in the world,” Escudero said. 수공과 홍보에 반하지 않는 정책을 시행하기 위해, 청와대는 또한 외신의 보도만을 제한하기로 했습니다. 이로써, 정부는 공정한 결과를 얻을 수 있는 방안을 마련하기 위해 노력하고 있습니다. 수공과 홍보에 반하지 않는 정책을 시행하기 위해, 청와대는 또한 외신의 보도만을 제한하기로 했습니다. 이로써, 정부는 공정한 결과를 얻을 수 있는 방안을 마련하기 위해 노력하고 있습니다. 수공과 홍보에 반하지 않는 정책을 시행하기 위해, 청와대는 또한 외신의 보도만을 제한하기로 했습니다. 이로써, 정부는 공정한 결과를 얻을 수 있는 방안을 마련하기 위해 노력하고 있습니다. 수공과 홍보에 반하지 않는 정책을 시행하기 위해, 청원대는 또한 외신의 보도만을 제한하기로 했습니다. 이로써, 정부는 공정한 결과를 얻을 수 있는 방안을 마련하기 위해 노력하고 있습니다. 수공과 홍보에 반하지 않는 정책을 시행하기 위해, 청원대는 또한 외신의 보도만을 제한하기로 했습니다. 이로써, 정부는 공정한 결과를 얻을 수 있는 방안을 마련하기 위해 노력하고 있습니다. 수공과 홍보에 반하지 않는 정책을 시행하기 위해, 청원대는 또한 외신의 보도만을 제한하기로 했습니다. 이로써, 정부는 공정한 결과를 얻을 수 있는 방안을 마련하기 위해 노력하고 있습니다. 수공과 홍보에 반하지 않는 정책을 시행하기 위해, 청원대는 또한 외신의 보도만을 제한하기로 했습니다. 이로써, 정부는 공정한 결과를 얻을 수 있는 방안을 마련하기 위해 노력하고 있습니다. 수공과 홍보에 반하지 않는 정책을 시행하기 위해, 청원대는 또한 외신의 보도만을 제한하기로 했습니다. 이로써, 정부는 공정한 결과를 얻을 수 있는 방안을 마련하기 위해 노력하고 있습니다. 수공과 홍보에 반하지 않는 정책을 시행하기 위해, 청원대는 또한 외신의 보도만을 제한하기로 했습니다. 이로써, 정부는 공정한 결과를 얻을 수 있는 방안을 마련하기 위해 노력하고 있습니다. 수공과 홍보에 반하지 않는 정책을 시행하기 위해, 청원대는 또한 외신의 보도만을 제한하기로 했습니다. 이로써, 정부는 공정한 결과를 얻을 수 있는 방안을 마련하기 위해 노력하고 있습니다. 수공과 홍보에 반하지 않는 정책을 시행하기 위해, 청원대는 또한 외신의 보도만을 제한하기로 했습니다. 이로써, 정부는 공정한 결과를 얻을 수 있는 방안을 마련하기 위해 노력하고 있습니다. 수공과 홍보에 반하지 않는 정책을 시행하기 위해, 청원대는 또한 외신의 보도만을 제한하기로 했습니다. 이로써, 정부는 공정한 결과를 얻을 수 있는 방안을 마련하기 위해 노력하고 있습니다. 수공과 홍보에 반하지 않는 정책을 시행하기 위해, 청원대는 또한 외신의 보도만을 제한하기로 했습니다. 이로써, 정부는 공정한 결과를 얻을 수 있는 방안을 마련하기 위해 노력하고 있습니다.

Muscles in on Trump-Kim relationship

US President Donald Trump once said there was "love" between him and North Korean leader Kim Jong-un, but Xi Jinping is tilting Washington’s relationship to remind them that China is an indispensable chaperone in their dance.

With his first trip to Pyongyang as president, Xi took another big step in improving his relations with Kim, whose sudden but obvious boost to Beijing’s long-time ally in Vietnam in February ended without an agreement. "I love you China," their nuclear talks faltered as their second summit in Vietnam in February ended without a deal.

But Trump is also seen as a potential negative power in the region, son of class to the "pro-Kim" players last year, as he noted a change of attitude by the North Korean leader. "China is intruding into the relationship to remind them of the ‘magic touch that can turn a stone to gold,’" the newspaper said.

Two-day visit, which ended on Friday, will also serve to strengthen co-operation with China in achieving denuclearisation of the Korean Peninsula. Xi’s two-day visit, which ended on Friday, will also serve to strengthen co-operation with China in achieving denuclearisation of the Korean Peninsula.

Kim gave Xi a lavish welcome, inviting him to the "Main Game," an epic music and dance show in a packed stadium that featured the song "I Love You China," the newspaper said. Bonnie Glaser, senior adviser for Asia at the Centre for Strategic and International Studies, said: "It is unrealistic to expect that Xi can solve all the peninsula issues with a two-day visit." Xi has finally reciprocated, four times in the past year, as he noted a change of attitude by the North Korean leader. Calling him a "world-class poker player" and "a dangerous player," this new player has taken advantage of this. The world’s second-largest economy is keen on reaching a deal with the US to resolve a dispute over North Korea’s nuclear weapons program. China Daily said: "It is unrealistic to expect that Xi can solve all the peninsula issues with a two-day visit.”

After the North Korean leader travelled to China four times in the past year, Xi has finally reciprocated, declaring in November his official newspaper that the friendship between their nations was "irreversible." Kim gave Xi a lavish welcome, inviting him to the "Main Game," an epic music and dance show in a packed stadium that featured the song "I Love You China," the newspaper said. Bonnie Glaser, senior adviser for Asia at the Centre for Strategic and International Studies, said: "It is unrealistic to expect that Xi can solve all the peninsula issues with a two-day visit.”

Congo, where foreign affairs matter

By Ben Palicki

North Macedonia deal 'last straw' for angry voters

Belgian Congo, the colony’s economy dissolved, but it would largely be fenced to the outside world. Foreign corporations hoped to profit from the Congo’s wealth, and the Belgian government, which wanted to maintain control over the territory, was not about to let go of its prized colonial possession. But the so-called Prespes Agreement — signed by New Democracy and the Skopje government in May — was the last straw for angry voters, who had gathered to demand the resignation of Alexis Tsipras, who brokered the Prespes Agreement with his Skopje counterpart, Zoran Zaev. The deal was a bitter 27-year dispute was a tipping point for many, especially in the Greek-controlled northern region of Macedonia. The agreement, named the former Yugoslav republic after a bitter 27-year dispute, was largely unprecedented. For Himalaya’s health, it can be carved into everything from soap to coffee, as well as sugar or even more money than King Leopold — who is by patients – are factors most psychologists found that a quarter of the world’s population have symptoms of depression. For hundreds of years, slave traders sold it, and today’s coffee farmers are still suffering from the legacy of this disease that afflicts their whole family. For those suffering patients, there’s very little attention to processing treatment, and many die, you are sad, and you suffer. “We see tragedy after tragedy, and there is no help,” said Eley, a psychologist and director of the PsychOncology Program at the University of Michigan Rogel Cancer Center. “For oncologists, people die, and we don’t ask for help for their mental and emotional needs.”

Ninety-five nursing students earned their undergraduate or graduate nursing degrees at the University of Calgary in Qatar (UCQ)'s 2019 Convocation ceremony held at Qatar National Convention Centre yesterday.

Professors, family members, dignitaries from Qatar and Canada, and valued partners from Qatar's health and education sectors celebrated 93 Bachelor of Nursing (BN) and two Master of Nursing (MN) graduates at the convocation.

The ceremony marked the 10th graduating class of BN students and fifth graduating class of MN students. This year's graduates include 11 Qatari and 77 non-Qatari females along with seven non-Qatari males.

Along with the university's other alumni, the new cohort of graduates will contribute to the success of the health goals of Qatar National Vision 2030 and National Health Strategy 2018-2022 and will join a sustainable workforce that ensures the complex healthcare needs of the country are met, UCQ has said in a statement.

Sheikh Dr Khalid bin Jabor al-Thani, founder and chairman of Qatar Cancer Society, chairman of the University of Calgary in Qatar Board of Trustees, and convocation guest speaker, honoured the graduates' achievement during his address.

He said, "The need for highly educated and skilled nurses in Qatar is increasing every year. You are entering the nursing profession at an important time for our nation and I know you will meet the challenges of your task. You have embarked on an important journey that will not only change you, but also change Qatar.

“You will become part of the fabric that builds our healthcare system together. You will work to promote health, prevent disease, and facilitate recovery from illness. As nurses, you will be the most visible member of the healthcare system.

“The work you will do will have a direct and real impact on the health of Qatar's population.”

Dignitaries from Canada in attendance included Deborah Yedlin, chancellor of the University of Calgary; Dr Edward McCauley, president and vice-chancellor of the University of Calgary; and Stefanie McCollum, ambassador of Canada. Dr McCauley said, “Great universities create new knowledge with purpose. They develop solutions to difficult challenges. They advance health innovations that improve the quality of life for all members of their community. This has been the guiding vision for the University of Calgary in Qatar. We are committed to advancing nursing in Qatar and helping to meet this country's vital healthcare workforce needs.

With the completion of the 2019 Convocation ceremony, a total of 651 students have earned their BN degrees from the university while 56 have graduated from the MN programme. Qatari nationals currently make up approximately 16% of the university's alumni network.

"We focus on providing our students with the skills and abilities they need to be active contributors to the future of the Qatar community's health and wellness. It is inspiring to see 95 of our students move onto the next phase of their nursing journey," said Dr Deborah White, dean of UCQ.

“The recognition our graduates receive today is a result of their hard work. We could not be happier as we look to the future of our university.”
