In brief

The Permanent Representative of Qatar to the United Nations, ambassador Sheikha Al-Arya Ahmed bin Ali al-Thani, chaired, in her capacity as Vice-President of the 73rd session of the UN General Assembly, a high-level debate on the role of regional organisations in preventing and implementing crime prevention initiatives.

Sheikha Al-Arya said that she was pleased to welcome representatives of regional organisations in the debate, with the goal of enhancing partnerships in this field, noting that the General Assembly highlights the importance of strengthening regional and cultural industries and markets through the preparation and organization of the activities of the Commission at the national level, such as increasing access to fair judicial practices, enabling participation in discourse forums on the challenges facing the international community, and helping international efforts in the field of crime prevention and criminal justice.

Sheikha Al-Arya represented Qatar in the second interactive panel discussion titled "Outstanding support of regional organisations in matters of crime prevention and criminal justice in the context of the implementation of the Doha Declaration on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice", addressing the role of law on a national, regional, and international level.

The local community usually likes to spend the Eid holiday with their relatives, friends, and other family members. But surprisingly, we still managed to attract a large footfall and a very good response.

SEC opened its doors to the public on August 5, and received around 1,600 people, as we can safely say that we could cross the 12,000 or 14,000 mark by the end of Eid,” Yousri said.

The official also explained that the “impressive” public response was because of the SEC’s variety of performances and attractions. Qazi said that the amusement rides and digital games that offer many exciting prizes; there are around 90 activities and around 24 food-machines to entertain visitors.

The SEC is made up of two halls, the VR and gaming area. Aside from its huge list of food options, the VR and gaming area is well-prepared to receive visitors with a number of cafeterias, hallways, and roaming shows, including performances from the popular Qatar Philharmonic Orchestra.

Qazi said that SEC held its first event in Qatar, that the “impressive” public response.

Qazi Yousri also appreciated the efforts of QSports, in collaboration with the Qatar National Tourism Council (QNTC), for the launch of the SEC.

Johnson wins Brexit case hounding leadership bid

Reuters

Prime Minister Theresa May stepped down as leader of the governing Conservatives yesterday, officially triggering a contest to replace her that will decide Britain’s future in office and the trajectory of a divided country struggling to come to terms with leaving the EU.

Mrs May announced she would stand down on June 7 after failing to deliver Britain’s departure from the European Union on time, deepening a political crisis in a divided country struggling to move on from a 2016 referendum in which most of its voters voted to leave.

She continued to work as prime minister until her party elected a new leader, a crowded field that will define Brexit and competing approaches on how to deliver Britain’s biggest foreign policy shift in more than 40 years.

“For the remainder of her time in office, she will be holding the domestic agenda that she has put at the heart of her premiership,” her spokesman told reporters.

The decision left Marcus Ball, a former minister, to become the third member of parliament to contest the election, which would occur no later than June 7, the government said.

The former minister succeeded in common law precedent in a private prosecution was “poorly run” and “an abuse of the legal process”, the court ruled.

Mrs May’s spokesperson yesterday said: “Vouched from the Home Office, will be set aside as evidence. The government will continue to work as prime minister until her party elected a new leader, a crowded field that will define Brexit and competing approaches on how to deliver Britain’s biggest foreign policy shift in more than 40 years.”

At the core of the case was the government’s decision to charge Browning with a serious of pollution offences.

The government had argued that Browning had committed the crime when he used the company’s waste to pollute the air and water. But the court ruled that the government had failed to prove beyond reasonable doubt that Browning had committed the offences.

The ruling was a blow to the government’s efforts to tackle pollution and environmental crime.

The government had already announced plans to introduce new laws to tackle environmental crime, but the ruling could make it more difficult for the government to act.

The court also ruled that the government had actedul to “serious environmental damage” to Browning’s health and community.

The government had argued that Browning’s health and community had been “seriously damaged” by the pollution, but the court ruled that the government had failed to prove that Browning had been “seriously damaged” by the pollution.
UN slams EU for lack of leadership on migration

By BY MELVIN LEON, AFP

The UN slammed the European Union for its lack of action on the migrant crisis, saying that the EU's agreement with Turkey to return asylum seekers to Syria was falling apart. UN High Commissioner for Refugees Filippo Grandi said the agreement was a “political fix” and that it was not working.

The UN has been critical of the EU's handling of the migrant crisis, saying that it was not doing enough to protect the rights of refugees and asylum seekers. The EU has been accused of failing to provide adequate asylum seekers with safe and legal routes to Europe, and of not doing enough to stem the flow of migrants and refugees.

Grandi said that the EU should be doing more to ensure that refugees and asylum seekers are treated fairly and with respect. He also called on the EU to provide more resources to support refugees and asylum seekers, and to work with other countries to find solutions to the migrant crisis.

The EU has been accused of not doing enough to address the root causes of the migrant crisis, and of not providing enough resources to support refugees and asylum seekers. The EU has been criticized for its lack of action on the issue of detention and deportation, and for not doing enough to tackle the root causes of migration.

Grandi said that the EU should be doing more to address the root causes of the migrant crisis, and to work with other countries to find solutions to the issue. He also called on the EU to provide more resources to support refugees and asylum seekers, and to work with other countries to find solutions to the migrant crisis.

A two-and-a-half-year-old girl was brutally killed in Uttar Pradesh’s Aligarh district on Tuesday, sparking a massive outpouring of grief and condemnation across the country. The girl’s family denounced the inhumane act, as Congress president Rahul Gandhi tweeted his anguish over the brutal killing.

As news of the killing spread on social media, the Union government said it had constituted a high-level crisis management team to look into the case. Nearly 50,000 tweets expressing shock, anger and condemnation had been posted since the brutal killing.

The Congress president, while condemning the inhumane act, had also alleged that the support had diminished significantly.

The Uttar Pradesh government has decided to book the two accused under the National Security Act (NSA) and filed a case to a fast track court.

A government spokesman said that the government had not yet been able to determine the motive of the killing.

“Who are proceeding with it? It is a murder, which is a heinous crime. But we are not in a position to say what motivated the two accused,” he said.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi deplored the killing. “The brutal murder in Uttar Pradesh is yet another horrific example of inhumanity by people and those responsible should be made to face what has become of them,” he wrote.

Arvind Kejriwal, chief minister of Delhi, said that the murder should be watched over by the police and the government.

There is no mention of the victim’s name in the police report. Five police officials have been suspended on the basis of the report.

Earlier, several families had been working on social media to find the family of the girl.

Draft for IT board set-up in Sindh in final stages

The minister for information, science and technology of Sindh province has approved the draft for the formation of the Sindh IT Board, with the focus on automation of Sindh government activities into e-governance.

Information Technology (IT) Department director general Muhammad Usman said that automation of the government activities, establishment of an IT university, formation of an IT Policy, and IT placement for junior executives and IT specialists are the major objectives of the board.

The board would work under one managing director, whose post has been proposed as its chairman and the managing director as the managerial head of the board.

Previously, the Sindh IT board was formed in 2002 during the Musharraf government, which was later transformed into the IT ministry, and the board ceased to exist.

Usman said that the major purpose of the board is to create a paved environment in Sindh government, along with its 50 departments.

"The board will be the centre of all IT activities of the province and its departments," he said. "It will also look for common citizen facilitation as well."

The director general said that initially, the IT department is seeking a budget of Rs500mn to get the space for preparation of the draft bill.

Earlier, Sindh Information Science and Technology Advisory Committee, hoped that the Sindh government would become a model in e-governance, in accordance with modern IT, and would surpass other provinces of the country.

Punjab moves to fix weekly offs, wages for brick kiln labourers

The Punjab province government has decided to introduce regulations for the protection of the rights of brick kiln labourers, the petitioner submitted in the Lahore High Court (LHC) representing the provincial government.

Shedding light over the issue of brick kiln labourers, the petitioner submitted that the labourers were not getting weekly offs, and their wages were not being paid.

As the proceedings commenced, the Assistant Advocate-General Ranial Saleem submitted that the registry of the brick kiln labourers had not been prepared by the provincial government.

He informed the court that the government was going to take concrete steps for the survival of the labourers through its legislation.

Saleem told the court that the labourers’ wages would be fixed, and a day will also be notified as their weekly off day, in the draft legislation being prepared by the provincial government.

He informed the court that the first time the government is going to take concrete steps for the rights of the brick kiln labourers, which the government would not neglect at any cost.

Saleem submitted that the registration of 7,000 brick kilns has been completed, and the government has a plan to issue weekly security cards to them.

Shedding light over the issue of child labour, the official informed the court that the legislation prohibiting child labour is being implemented strictly.

Saleem said that the labourers who work at brick kilns should be given the status of ‘workman’. He requested the court to order the labour secretary to submit a detailed report on what measures had been taken for the protection of labourers of the brick kilns all over the province.

The petitioner had contended that the brick kiln labourers had been their own, and no one was ready to provide them with necessary facilities to them.

It was further cited in the petition that the labourers were receiving minimum wages as compared with other sectors.

Neither the health nor proper education facilities were being given to them or their children.

On March 28, the LHC’s Justice Rashid Hussain had directed the labour secretary to take appropriate measures to pay the school fees of the children working at brick kilns.

On a petition seeking direction for the Punjab government to pay the fees, as a continuation of a scheme initiated by the provincial Pakistan Muslim League – Nawaz (PML-N) provincial government.

As the proceedings commenced, Advocate Syed Farhad Ali Shah said that with the Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf (PTI) now in power, the children’s school fees were also not being paid.

Local gold import scheme being exploited for smuggling abroad

The authorities in Pakistan have arrested a network of traders and smugglers for exploiting a scheme that permits import of the precious metal and its derivatives, the precious commodity is being smuggled to India and other countries.

An ethical approach to business – and gun sales in the US

Most Americans have likely never heard of Salsword. But in the cloud-based software business, the kind used for customer support and telecommunications services such as Salesforce, San Francisco-based, $22bn Fortune 500 company employing 45,000 people worldwide, it’s a household name. Salesforce.com operates software and services for marketing, sales and customer service products to customers, covering industries from healthcare to financial services.

It’s not hard to find companies that are trying to make money off gun sales, which are legal in the US. The NRA has been one of the most vocal in this effort, promoting its power to lobby politicians and influence public opinion. But what about companies that sell products or services related to firearms? Are they also profiting from gun violence?

In an article for The Guardian, journalist Austin C. Lysy explores this question, focusing on a company called Camping World Holdings Inc. Lysy notes that Camping World is one of the largest providers of recreational vehicle (RV) parts and services in the US, with more than 200 locations in 24 states.

Camping World Holdings Inc. is a publicly-traded company that is part of the S&P 500 index. The company’s shares are traded on the New York Stock Exchange under the symbol CWH.

In 2017, Camping World Holdings Inc. acquired RV accessories retailer Sam’s Club RV Centers and the RV Trader website. The company has a strong presence in the RV industry and is a leading provider of products and services for RV owners and operators.

Camping World Holdings Inc. has been criticized for its ties to the National Rifle Association (NRA). The company has been a major sponsor of the NRA’s annual convention and has been vocal in its support of gun rights. In addition, Camping World Holdings Inc. has been accused of profiting from gun sales through its partnership with the NRA.

The company’s ties to gun rights have been under scrutiny in recent years. In 2018, Camping World Holdings Inc. was sued by the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) for allegedly engaging in deceptive advertising and unfair business practices related to gun sales.

The company settled the lawsuit in 2019, paying $4 million to settle the charges. However, the settlement did not address the company’s ties to the NRA or its role in gun sales.

In an interview with The Guardian, Lysy notes that Camping World Holdings Inc. is just one example of how companies are profiting from gun sales. He points to other companies in the RV industry that have ties to the NRA and gun sales.

Lysy argues that companies like Camping World Holdings Inc. are enabling gun sales by providing a platform for gun sales and by not addressing the role of gun violence in the US.

The Guardian article highlights the ethical dilemma faced by companies in the gun industry. While these companies are legally allowed to sell guns and gun-related products, they are also contributing to an issue that has a significant impact on society. The article calls for greater transparency and accountability from companies in the gun industry.

Lysy’s article is a reminder that the gun industry is not isolated from the larger societal issues surrounding gun violence. As companies continue to profit from gun sales, it is important to consider the ethical implications of their actions and to hold them accountable for their role in the gun debate.
