A delegation from Qatar’s State Audit Bureau participated in the 20th meeting of the Gulf Co-operation Council Accounting and Auditing Organisation, which began in Muscat yesterday. The delegation was led by State Audit Bureau Vice President Abdulaziz Mohamed Ahmed al-Emadi.

The meeting discussed several topics on the agenda, including the follow-up report of the decisions of the 19th meeting, as well as the preparation of a framework and specific criteria for the implementation of workshops and programmes to identify decisions of joint action, and follow-up implementation of the strategic plan for training for the years 2016-2020.

Qatar voices concern over persistence of enforced disappearances in Gulf

Qatar expressed yesterday its concern over the phenomenon of enforced disappearance in the Gulf crisis, during which Saudi Arabia, the United Arab Emirates, Bahrain and Egypt imposed an unfair blockade on Qatar, its citizens and residents.

Qatar praised the efforts of the Working Group on Enforced or Involuntary Disappearances to clarify the fate and whereabouts of a number of Qatari nationals who had been subjected to unjustified enforced disappearances.

This came during Qatar’s interactive dialogue with the Working Group on Enforced or Involuntary Disappearances, which took place in the framework of the 42nd session of the Human Rights Council, delivered by Qatar’s Permanent Representative in Geneva ambassador Ali Khalfan al-Mansouri.

Ambassador al-Mansouri said that despite the release of a number of Qatari nationals by the Saudi authorities after being subjected to enforced disappearance, they are still holding Qatari student Abdulaziz Saeed Abdullah since July 2018, who forcibly disappeared and is currently suffering from a significant deterioration in his health as a result of torture and deliberate medical negligence.

The ambassador expressed Qatar’s condemnation and deep concern about the enforced disappearance of Qatari national Ali Nasser Ali Jarallah, aged 70 and his 17-year-old son Abdulhadi, who entered Saudi Arabia on August 15 under a family permit issued by the Saudi authorities and were forcibly disappeared, and arrested by the Saudi authorities and hidden in an unknown location.

In this regard, al-Mansouri added that Qatar is holding Saudi Arabia fully responsible for the life and safety of the mentioned Qatari nationals, to ensure that they have all their rights guaranteed by relevant international conventions and treaties, and that the Saudi authorities disclose their fate and release them immediately.

In conclusion, the ambassador stressed the importance of full cooperation with the Working Group and the provision of all necessary information on enforced disappearances, taking all measures to combat enforced disappearances, holding those responsible accountable and compensating victims.

A total of 185 tonnes of local vegetables were sold in August under the Premium Qatari Vegetables and Local Farm Programme, the official Qatar News Agency reported.

Local farm products are sold at various markets and hypermarkets in Qatar such as Lulu Hypermarket, Carrefour, Al Meera and Family Food Centre under the two initiatives.

Such programmes aim to improve the marketing of Qatar’s vegetables, increase demand and guarantee production.

They also seek to increase Qatar’s farm income, encouraging increased investment in agriculture and the availability of local vegetable varieties at affordable prices to consumers throughout the year.

The local product marketing programmes were launched by the Ministry of Municipality and Environment in co-operation with the Ministry of Commerce and Industry.

The initiatives were undertaken to provide Qatar farmers with the opportunity to sell high-quality local vegetable at competitive prices to the industry, and without paying any commission.

Through these marketing programmes, local vegetable products have proven to be competitive vis-a-vis imported farm produce in the Qatar market, QRNA adds.

Keeping your skin healthy doesn’t have to come at a high cost. Here’s how to achieve better skin naturally:

Get Fresh Fruits and Vegetables

Adding more fruits and vegetables to your diet can significantly improve your skin’s health. These foods are rich in antioxidants and nutrients that promote cellular repair and renewal, leading to a smoother and more radiant complexion. Aim to eat at least five servings of fruits and vegetables daily to reap the benefits.

Drink More Water

Staying hydrated is crucial for maintaining healthy skin. Water helps to flush out toxins and keeps the skin hydrated, preventing dryness and flakiness. Aim for at least eight glasses of water per day to stay well-hydrated.

Get Enough Sleep

A good night’s sleep is essential for skin repair and regeneration. During sleep, the body releases growth hormones that are crucial for maintaining skin elasticity and hydration. Aim to sleep for at least seven to eight hours each night.

Manage Stress

Stress can take a toll on your skin, causing it to become dull and prone to breakouts. Find ways to manage stress in your daily life, such as practicing mindfulness, meditation, or engaging in regular exercise. Reducing stress can help to improve skin health and overall wellbeing.

Use Natural Skin Care Products

Many people turn to natural skin care products as a safer alternative to chemical-laden cosmetics. These products are often less likely to cause allergic reactions or irritation, making them a good choice for sensitive skin. Consider incorporating natural skin care products into your routine for improved skin health.

Conclusion

Achieving healthy skin through natural means is possible. By incorporating these tips into your daily routine, you can improve the appearance and health of your skin. Remember, consistency is key, and it may take time to see results. Be patient and enjoy the journey towards better skin.

By Sarah Tucker

How many times have you misinterpreted something because you assumed you already knew what it meant? Words can be ambiguous and even reports of horror are often derided as something dangerous by those who don’t know what’s important amongst the vast amount of information. In an information age, where we are bombarded with stories from many sources, it’s easy to think that we can sometimes mistake the true intention behind a message. This might be especially the case when it comes to exploring the language we use, how we think and feel, and how these affect our actions.

A Sense of Humor

When you can laugh, you can express yourself. Humor helps to lighten thoughts and provides a way to express personality, reach and connect with others. It is also a way to express to others that you are in control, that you’re not afraid, and that you’re not taking things personally. It can help to put things in perspective, and you can use it as a segue to important points.

Thanks for Reading

There are some things that are always true, and one of them is that you can’t change the past, no matter how hard you try. So what can you do to make the most of the time you have left? Well, start by focusing on what you can control, and always remember to be grateful for what you do have.

Defiant Catalan separatists again call for independence

Catalan separatists have repeatedly defiantly pressed forward, with the potential of a dual national for the first time ever. This comes after the conviction of a major separatist leader, Jordi Sànchez, 2012.

Separatists have formally decided to hold a new referendum on independence, which the Madrid government has vowed to prevent. Sànchez's wife, Laura Borràs, is a dual national and has the right to vote and hold public office in Catalonia.

If the referendum were held, it could have implications for other regions with large Catalan-speaking populations, such as parts of Italy and Spain.

Swiss revokes nationality of 'terrorist' recruiter

A Court of First Instance has revoked citizenship for a dual national. The decision was made after the conviction of a separatist leader, Jordi Cuixart, who was found guilty of recruiting fighters for a terrorist organisation.

The Swiss State Secretariat for Migration (SEM) and Federal Councillor Ignazio Cassis have confirmed that the nationality has been revoked. The decision was made after a Federal Court ruling, expected in the coming weeks.

The Swiss decision is significant because it sets a precedent for other countries to follow suit.

Chidambaram alleges political vendetta in INX Media case

Former finance minister P. Chidambaram today alleged that the INX Media case was “acting on the behest of the Congress party”.

“IT is the petitioner’s case that the instant criminal proceeding is being made to bring out the person of a political opponent of the government,” Chidambaram said in his application before the Delhi High Court.

In the present case, the Enforcement Directorate has filed a charge sheet against him in the INX Media case and said that the company had paid $40 Lakhs to Robert Vadra for his political campaign in 2008, but the latter denied it.

Chidambaram has already moved another petition in the same court for seeking the court’s permission to surrender in the event of his arrest.

Chidambaram’s family has also alleged that his financial position is strained due to the proceedings against him.

Meanwhile, the Enforcement Directorate has also registered a case against him for alleged violations of the Foreign Exchange Management Act and the Prevention of Money Laundering Act.

The Enforcement Directorate has also named Chidambaram’s son Karti as an accused in the case.

On September 9, Guiteres said in his official address before the UN that relations with China have been “uneasy” and have become more difficult in recent times.

Archbishop of Canterbury says sorry over Jallianwala massacre

The Archbishop of Canterbury, Justin Welby, said today that the British government had “deeply offended” people in India by its actions in the Jallianwala Bagh massacre.

The Jallianwala Bagh massacre occurred on April 13, 1919, when British colonial authorities opened fire on a peaceful demonstration in Amritsar, killing hundreds of people.

Welby said that the British government had acted “in a spirit of arrogance and brutality” and had failed to take responsibility for the atrocities.

He added that the government had “acted in a manner that was offensive to the Indian people”.

The Jallianwala Bagh massacre is considered one of the darkest chapters in British colonial history.

Kashmir very close to normalcy: police chief

“We have stabilised the situation and the situation is very close to normalcy,” said the police chief.

The situation in Kashmir has been deteriorating since the Indian government scrapped the special status of the region.

The Indian government had imposed a curfew and restrictions on movement to prevent protests against the decision.

The Archbishop of Canterbury, Justin Welby, visited Jallianwala Bagh today to mark the 100th anniversary of the massacre.

Welby said that he was there “to mark the occasion and to listen to the stories of those who survived.”

He added that he was “deeply moved” by the stories he had heard.

The Jallianwala Bagh massacre is considered one of the darkest chapters in British colonial history.

Tension in Guntur as Naidu placed under house arrest

The police arrested TDP leaders and workers heading to Naidu's house and also Raitech at multiple points and arrested all the protesters at the site. They were then sent back to their villages with police escort.

The TDP leader alleged that Chief Minister Jagan Mohan Reddy was murdering the democracy by arresting the leaders and arrestees were at Guntur town on police orders.

Deputy General of Police Guntha Sowmya said Naidu, who is also the Leader of Opposition, was taken into preventive custody as his actions were detrimental to public order and peace.

Tension rippled after Andhra Pradesh police arrested former chief minister N Chandrababu Naidu at his home in Amaravati as he was set to leave for his native town to lead the "Chalo Atamakur" stir.

Tension prevailed around Naidu's residence amid the attacks on him and his aides and the police used tear gas shells to disperse the crowd.

According to party leaders, the attacks on them and their property were deliberate and this was an attempt to prevent any showdown as the stir entered its 25th day.

Meanwhile, police have clamped prohibitory orders in different places of Guntur district yesterday as a precautionary measure.

Amazon bets big on India with mega-office

Amazon has reportedly acquired 49 acres for a floor per second and 30 floors for the Amazon headquarters in Hyderabad. This is the company's first big bet in India. The company plans to use this building as its tech hub.

Amazon’s investment comes as the tech giant is looking to expand its presence in India, where it has been facing competition from local players like Flipkart.

The company is also reportedly in talks with the state government to set up a data center in nearby Telangana.

Amazon has been expanding its presence in India in recent years, with a focus on e-commerce, cloud computing, and advertising.

The company's latest move is expected to create thousands of jobs and provide a boost to India's economy.

Meanwhile, the company is also reportedly looking to open its first physical store in India soon. The store is expected to be a "4-star" store, which will sell products from different brands.
T he Trump administration agreed to quietly,total a landmark Central American security pact signed in June even before US President Donald Trump signed the 2020 budget into law, according to a Reuters source.

"This is an agreement that will protect the US and the region," the source said.

The source, who asked not to be identified, said the agreement would be announced in the coming days.

The agreement, called the TIAR, is aimed at promoting regional stability and security.

"This is an important milestone for the region," the source said.

The source added that the agreement would help to address the growing threat of crime and drugs in the region.

"We need to be proactive in this area," the source said.

The TIAR is expected to be accompanied by a new US immigration policy that will allow for the temporary admission of certain migrants to the US.

"This is a win-win for all," the source said.

The source said that the agreement would also help to reduce the number of migrants seeking asylum in the US.

"We need to find a solution to this problem," the source said.

The agreement is expected to be signed in the coming days.

W hen world leaders gather in New York this month for the annual United Nations General Assembly meetings, they will have much on their minds. But one issue that could be on everyone’s change and sustainable development. In sharp contrast to COP 26’s global superpower study between the United States and China.

The UN General Assembly is the world’s only regular forum in which the world’s nations can gather together. And yet, despite its importance, the gathering has been marked by a lack of transparency and accountability. In the past, the UN has been criticized for its lack of accountability and for not effectively addressing the world’s most pressing issues.

But this year, the UN will hold its first virtual meeting in the midst of the COVID-19 pandemic. The virtual meeting will allow world leaders to connect with one another and discuss the challenges facing our planet in a more accessible and inclusive way.

The UN General Assembly will provide a platform for countries to share their ideas and strategies for achieving the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), which are a set of global goals designed to end poverty, protect the planet, and ensure prosperity for all.

The UN will also discuss climate change, which is one of the most pressing issues of our time. The goal is to limit global warming to well below 2°C above pre-industrial levels and to pursue efforts to limit the temperature increase to 1.5°C.

The UN will also address other important global challenges, such as poverty, inequality, and the need for sustainable development.

Overall, the UN General Assembly is an important opportunity for world leaders to come together and work towards a common goal of a more just and sustainable world.

The UN General Assembly will be held from September 21st to 25th, and will be attended by leaders from around the world. It is open to the public and can be watched online.

The exhibition encourages visitors to sit in the Majlis, listen to stories, engage in conversations, and discover the unique Majlis experience. It is an exhibition which promotes dialogue with the public, as well as with the touring institutes which contribute distinctive items from their own countries.

The concept behind this diverse cultural exhibition is to recreate the atmosphere of the Majlis — the area for hospitality and discussion in homes in the Arabian Gulf — so offering spaces for excursion and discussion in homes in the Arabian Gulf — so offering spaces for excursion and discussion in homes in the Arabian Gulf — so offering spaces for excursion and discussion in homes in the Arabian Gulf. The exhibition in Vienna will engage visitors through several different activities. There will be a focus on education, preserving tolerance and diversity, and sharing stories with the young and old, within a real Madame Tussauds place as a platform for suffering. It will also encourage present day diplomats and artists. “People are always attracted by customs, traditions and landscapes of India and Qatar.”

The exhibition was attended by His Highness the Amir Sheikh Tamim bin Hamad al-Thani. They discussed bilateral relations and aspects of developing co-operation in various fields, especially in education, tourism and culture. In addition, they discussed a number of issues of common concern, particularly the fight against terrorism and the need to develop the necessary techniques to counter it.

The exhibition, which is part of the Qatar-India Year of Culture, is curated by the FBQ Museum and sponsored by the Platinum Property Group. It is a unique collection of artefacts assembled by the Sheikh Faisal Bin Qassim Al-Thani Museum, Doha, in collaboration with the Qatar Museums Authority.

Amir's visit is also part of his state visit to Vienna, which is the first official visit to the Austrian capital by a Qatari head of state. The visit is expected to further strengthen the ties between the two countries, particularly in the areas of culture, education, tourism and investment.

The exhibition is divided into two main sections: one showcasing the works of Qatari artists, including Junaid Al-Kasimi, and the other featuring the works of Indian artists, including Mahesh Kumar. The exhibition also includes a series of presentations and workshops, as well as a series of talks and discussions with artists and cultural experts.

The exhibition is a unique opportunity to explore the cultures and traditions of Qatar and India, and to learn about the rich heritage of both countries. It is a testament to the growing cultural exchange and cooperation between the two nations, and a celebration of the diversity and richness of Arab and Indian art and culture.
