Houthis strike Aramco facilities

---

ATTACKS ON ARAMCO FACILITIES

Aerial strikes by the Houthis hit Aramco oil facilities in Saudi Arabia, causing significant disruptions to oil production and exports. The attacks occurred as Aramco was already at full capacity, which could push the world's largest oil exporter to unhealthy levels for the first time in decades.

---

Reuter's Timothy Boersma reports

Yemen's Houthi group yesterday attacked two plants in the heart of Saudi Arabia's oil industry, causing significant disruptions to the world's largest oil exporter. The Houthis say the attack was in response to Saudi-led air strikes in Yemen.

---

SAUDI LEADERShip Reaction

The Saudi-led coalition launched a no-fly zone, warning that Aramco facilities would be attacked if the Houthis persisted. The Houthis confirmed the attack, but said it was a response to US-led air strikes in Yemen.

---

Environmental Impact

Smoke is seen following a fire at an Aramco facility in Abqaiq, Saudi Arabia, yesterday. Smoke has large capacity in oil refinery. The Houthis' military spokesman, the Spokesman of the People's Republic of Yemen (Huthi), said that the Houthis had launched a massive attack on Aramco facilities in Saudi Arabia. The Houthis say the attack was in response to Saudi-led air strikes in Yemen.

---

Safety Measures

Aramco, the world's largest oil exporter, said it had activated its emergency response plan and was working to contain the situation. Aramco said it had lost access to some of its oil facilities, but that it was working to restore production.

---

Global Repercussions

The attacks have caused significant disruptions to global oil markets, with oil prices rising. Saudi Arabia, the world's largest oil exporter, said it had lost access to some of its oil facilities, but that it was working to restore production. Aramco said it had activated its emergency response plan and was working to contain the situation.

---

Qatarisation Rates

The QNB Group has announced that its Qatarisation rates have increased significantly in recent years, with over 77% of the bank's workforce being Qatari. The bank has set a goal to reach 82% by 2021, highlighting its commitment to localising its workforce.

---

Qatarisation Plans

The QNB Group has announced that it will be giving new Qatari cadres the opportunity to join the bank's workforce, with a focus on increasing localisation rates and creating job opportunities for local talent. The bank has also announced plans to increase its investments in local universities and training institutes, with a focus on developing Qatari talent.
Our new head office

al khaliji tower, Lusail
is open for business.

We look forward to welcoming you to our luxurious brand new Private and Premium Branches.

Our new location is:
al khaliji tower
69 Al Add Al Sharqi St, Lusail

Our phone numbers and postal code will remain the same

📞 4494 0000 redhead www.alkhaliji.com

next generation banking
Mr. Jean-Frédéric Dufour, Chief Executive Officer of Rolex S.A., presented Mr. Bader Al-Darwish, Chairman and Managing Director of Fifty One East, with an appreciation award at Rolex’s headquarters in Geneva last week, in the presence of Mr. Éric Pirson, Managing Director of Montres TUDOR S.A., and Mr. Yann Du Pasquier, Deputy Director.

The prestigious award recognizes Fifty One East’s exceptional contribution to the outstanding growth of TUDOR in the Qatari market.
US diplomat visits Msheireb Museums

The annual Trafficking in Persons Report by the US Department of State highlights the importance of combating human trafficking. "The US stands by its efforts to raise public awareness and taking action to stop the crime. Ending human trafficking requires a coordinated approach between the public and private sectors in all countries, and an important part of this strategy is combating modern forms of human exploitation," Ambassador Richmond stated. Msheireb Museums Library, Msheireb House, and Bin Jelmood House will discuss efforts to combat human trafficking, and Qatar’s efforts to end it.

Msheireb Museums' Modern Slavery Exhibit

As an educational platform, the museum has been raising awareness, and gaining attention. "The museum has been raised by visitors to make the connection between the public awareness and tangible action to stop the crime. Msheireb Museums’ Modern Slavery Exhibit is one of the goals of the museum. The museum is a personal commitment to joining the fight against all forms of human trafficking. The US delegation learns about the NHRC's role in spreading human rights culture in Qatar. "The shelter opening for men and women in Qatar is just one of several goals of our memorandum of understanding."

United States ambassador to Qatar visits Msheireb Museums

The US and Qatar signed a memorandum of understanding on anti-trafficking efforts. "The shelter opening for men and women in Qatar is just one of several goals of our memorandum of understanding."

Outstanding IGCSE and A Level results at Newton International Academy (NIA) Barwa City – summer 2019

Dr. Teresa Woolgar, Head of Secondary with the Best Achievers

In total, 95% of NIA Year 11 students achieved A* - C or better at least 5 of their examinations, which is 9% above the UK and international IGCSE average worldwide, and 65% of our students achieved A* - B or A. In A Level, 95% of NIA Year 11 students achieved A* - B grades, 63% of these students achieved A grades, 11% of these students achieved A - B grades, and 88% of NIA Year 11 students achieved A - B or more full A Level qualifications. This extraordinary result particularly is one of our teachers’ most rewarding and most enjoyable experiences, for which I have to thank all of our students for their hard work and dedication.

Best achievements in Year 12.

Best achievements in Year 13.

Best achievements in Year 11.

Best achievements in Year 10.

Best achievements in Year 9.

Best achievements in Year 8.

Best achievements in Year 7.

Best achievements in Year 6.

Best achievements in Year 5.

Best achievements in Year 4.

Best achievements in Year 3.

Best achievements in Year 2.

Best achievements in Year 1.

Best achievements in Year 0.
Qatar reiterates pledge to implement UN programme on culture of peace

Qatar supports efforts in upholding the values of tolerance and promoting social cohesion, and is committed to continue to implement the UN Declaration and Programme of Action on a Culture of Peace, as part of its ongoing efforts to build a culture of peace and capacity building for dialogue and tolerance. Qatar voiced its firm belief that nation-building begins with building human beings, co-operation for building a society based on mutual respect and coexistence in harmony and cohesion, and reasserted its commitment to continue to implement the UN Declaration and Programme of Action on a Culture of Peace.

Qatar’s Permanent Representative to the UN, Ambassador HE Sheikha Alya Ahmed bin Saif al-Thani, delivered her statement at the “High-Level Forum on the Culture of Peace” held recently by the UN General Assembly. The Qatari ambassador posed the question of how to understand and accept differences, to focus on shared noble values, to advance efforts to combat extremism, and to build bridges of co-operation and understanding among peoples. The ambassador added that Qatar’s commitment to combating extremism, especially among young people, is reflected in its participation in co-operation with international partners to combat radicalism and terrorism. She also praised Qatar’s efforts at the international level to support the UN Alliance of Civilisations and the Global Alliance for measuring progress in achieving SDG 16 dedicated to promoting peaceful and inclusive societies.

She stated that Qatar is working in co-operation with the International Centre for Penitentiary Administration and the UN Group of Friends of Education for Global Citizenship, out of their belief in the importance of establishing values, attitudes and behaviours in supporting peaceful and inclusive global citizenship. She also referred to Qatar’s efforts at the international level to support the role of mediation and preventive diplomacy in preventing armed conflicts and aiding them through peaceful means. She added that Qatar is working in co-operation with the UN Alliance of Civilisations in different parts of the world, which have been and continue to be appreciated by the international community due to its positive and satisfactory results for all parties concerned.

HE Sheikha Alya reiterated Qatar’s commitment to continue implementing the UN Declaration and Programme of Action on a Culture of Peace, promoting active participation by all parties concerned in promoting a culture of peace, promoting human rights and upholding the principles unanimously agreed upon by the international community in promoting a culture of peace.
baric oxygen therapy is required to complete a safety healthcare professionals, " said Dr Osama. Oxygen therapy is generally very safe, there are risks of treatment isn’t right for everyone.

For more than a hundred years, he stresses that the treatment requires varies depending on the condition or illness being treated, with each treatment plan being tailored to the individual needs of the patient.

"It is a well-established emergency medical treatment for conditions such as decompression sickness, a hazard associated with reduced oxygen levels, such as stroke and traumatic brain injury, and neurodegenerative disorders such as Alzheimer's and Parkinson's disease, " said Dr Osama.

"Oxygen is a highly combustible gas, due to the high atmospheric pressure and oxygen levels inside the chamber, certain flammable items, such as metallic objects, oil and grease, including makeup and cosmetics, and electronics, fire anything with a battery are among the prohibited items", added Dr Osama.

The Hyperbaric Medicine Centre (HMHC) of Hamad Medical Corporation (HMC) last week opened the doors of its new 18-person hyperbaric oxygen therapy chamber at the Emergency Center at Hamad General Hospital. The opening of the new centre was attended by Dr Kokash Osama, senior consultant, Anaesthesia, and spearhead of HMC’s Hyperbaric Oxygen Therapy Programme, and Dr Mohammad Al Sharshani, director of the Emergency Department at Hamad General Hospital. The opening of the new centre was attended by Dr Kokash Osama, senior consultant, Anaesthesia, and spearhead of HMC’s Hyperbaric Oxygen Therapy Programme, and Dr Mohammad Al Sharshani, director of the Emergency Department at Hamad General Hospital.

The opening of the new centre was attended by Dr Kokash Osama, senior consultant, Anaesthesia, and spearhead of HMC’s Hyperbaric Oxygen Therapy Programme, and Dr Mohammad Al Sharshani, director of the Emergency Department at Hamad General Hospital.

The new hyperbaric oxygen therapy chamber has been designed to accommodate VIP and standard seating and can also accommodate up to 16 persons at the same time. Previously, we had a monoplace chamber. Our new chamber, which is a multi-place chamber, allows several patients to be treated at the same time. It also lowers space for a health professional to be inside the chamber when caring for patients," said Dr Osama.

"The therapy is painless and non-invasive. The therapy requires patients to spend an extended period inside the therapy chamber – usually two to a half hours per session, with most patients undergoing up to 40 sessions. While we want our patients to be contented and we treat great care in selecting a chamber with comprehensive seats and the comfort, we are one number one priority," said Dr Osama.

"Oxygen is a highly combustible gas, due to the high atmospheric pressure and oxygen levels inside the chamber, certain flammable items, such as metallic objects, oil and grease, including makeup and cosmetics, and electronics, fire anything with a battery are among the prohibited items": added Dr Osama.

The_hyperbaric oxygen therapy chamber.

"This is very much an emerging therapy. The public doesn’t have a clear understanding of the therapy," he continued.

"Hyperbaric oxygen therapy, patients breathe a high Concentration of pure oxygen while in a pressurised chamber. The rapid infusion of a high Concentration of pure oxygen helps the growth of new blood vessels and promotes healing of chronic wounds. The therapy has an anti-inflammatory effect, reduces fluid build-up and eliminates the re-lease of substances called growth factors and stem cells," said Dr Osama.

"In an advisory posted on social media, the ministry says drivers have to exercise due caution while crossing roads. The Ministry of Municipality and Environment (MME), represented by the environmental protection and wildlife department, recently detected a number of violations among the traffic rules by pedestrians from August 1 and, accordingly, impose fines on violators. The Ministry of Municipality and Environment (MME), represented by the environmental protection and wildlife department, recently detected a number of violations among the traffic rules by pedestrians from August 1 and, accordingly, impose fines on violators.

The Ministry of Municipality and Environment (MME), represented by the environmental protection and wildlife department, recently detected a number of violations among the traffic rules by pedestrians from August 1 and, accordingly, impose fines on violators. The Ministry of Municipality and Environment (MME), represented by the environmental protection and wildlife department, recently detected a number of violations among the traffic rules by pedestrians from August 1 and, accordingly, impose fines on violators.

In an advisory posted on social media, the ministry says drivers have to exercise due caution while crossing roads. The Ministry of Municipality and Environment (MME), represented by the environmental protection and wildlife department, recently detected a number of violations among the traffic rules by pedestrians from August 1 and, accordingly, impose fines on violators.

The new hyperbaric oxygen therapy chamber has been designed to accommodate VIP and standard seating and can also accommodate up to 16 persons at the same time. Previously, we had a monoplace chamber. Our new chamber, which is a multi-place chamber, allows several patients to be treated at the same time. It also lowers space for a health professional to be inside the chamber when caring for patients," said Dr Osama.

"The therapy is painless and non-invasive. The therapy requires patients to spend an extended period inside the therapy chamber – usually two to a half hours per session, with most patients undergoing up to 40 sessions. While we want our patients to be contented and we treat great care in selecting a chamber with comprehensive seats and the comfort, we are one number one priority," said Dr Osama.

"Oxygen is a highly combustible gas, due to the high atmospheric pressure and oxygen levels inside the chamber, certain flammable items, such as metallic objects, oil and grease, including makeup and cosmetics, and electronics, fire anything with a battery are among the prohibited items": added Dr Osama.

The_hyperbaric oxygen therapy chamber.
70th anniversary of People's Republic of China celebrated

By Human Jew

The Chinese community in Qatar was recently treated to a grand celebration of the 70th anniversary of the foundation of the People’s Republic of China in the presence of dignitaries, guests and Chinese community members in Qatar. Speaking on the occasion, Chinese ambassador to Qatar, HE Bin Abdullah al-Jamal, said: “This is the year when the people of Qatar and China are involved in the preparations for the two nations to celebrate the achievements of the Chinese people and government over the past 70 years. “This year is the 70th anniversary of our great motherland. Today also coincides with the 98th founding anniversary of the Communist Party. On this day of national pride, let us celebrate the second largest economy in the world and the largest industrial and technological country. “The ambassador also highlighted the efforts of Chinese expatriates in supporting their motherland and enhancing its global influence. “We will not forget that when the Chinese faced natural disasters, overseas Chinese shared the same struggles, and they all reached out to help, do whatever it takes, and share the difficulties with the motherland. China is the first country that our businessmen came to over the years, and it has always been their second hometown. “We are working alongside UNWTO in order to promote tourism, encouraging the local private sector to attract those big international events and conferences. “We are working with them in putting in place projects which include the addresses and the organizations that would link these associations to hold their meet-ups.”

He further spoke of QNTC’s participation in the 25th UNWTO General Assembly session, which highlighted innovation and its long-standing relationship with tourism development. “In the WEF conference in Davos, our country was one of the most attractive in the tourism sector, whereas they are few business or liberal in the country so, tourism experience is among the main factors that we are focusing on improving.”

He shared with Qatar Business Events Corporation, we are focusing on helping and aiding the local private sector to attract those big international events and conferences. “We are working alongside UNWTO in order to promote tourism, encouraging the local private sector to attract those big international events and conferences. “We are working with them in putting in place projects which include the addresses and the organizations that would link these associations to hold their meet-ups.”

By Hany Al-Joby

Business events sector key pillar of QNTC strategy to develop tourism: official

The business events sector is a key pillar of the Qatar National Tourism Organization (QNTC) wider strategy to develop tourism in Qatar, a senior QNTC official has said.

Ahmed al-Obaidli, the General Manager of Business Events, said at a media gathering hosted by the embassy of China in Qatar to mark the 70th anniversary of the founding of the People’s Republic of China, that the sector is key in attracting these associations to hold their meet-ups and events in Qatar. “We are working alongside UNWTO in order to promote tourism, encouraging the local private sector to attract those big international events and conferences. “We are working with them in putting in place projects which include the addresses and the organizations that would link these associations to hold their meet-ups.”

The official noted that Qatar is facing some major challenges in the preparation of these events over the next three years. These include the 20th edition of the Arab Tourism Fair (ATFA) in 2020, “in the first time event would be held in the Middle East.” Similarly, Qatar will host the 2020 Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises (MSMEs) Forum, and the annual congress of the Union of World Chambers of Commerce and Industry (UWCCI) in 2020, he pointed out.

“QNTC and the Qatar Business Events Corporation, are working on helping and aiding the local private sector to attract those big international events and conferences. “We are working with them in putting in place projects which include the addresses and the organizations that would link these associations to hold their meet-ups.”

The ambassador also referred to the longstanding relationship with China and Qatar, saying that China is a “great country” which, al-Obaidli emphasised, “is the first time the event would be held in the Middle East.”

Similarly, Qatar will host the 2020 Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises (MSMEs) Forum, and the annual congress of the Union of World Chambers of Commerce and Industry (UWCCI) in 2020, he pointed out.

The official noted that Qatar is facing some major challenges in the preparation of these events over the next three years. These include the 20th edition of the Arab Tourism Fair (ATFA) in 2020, “in the first time event would be held in the Middle East.” Similarly, Qatar will host the 2020 Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises (MSMEs) Forum, and the annual congress of the Union of World Chambers of Commerce and Industry (UWCCI) in 2020, he pointed out.

“QNTC and the Qatar Business Events Corporation, are working on helping and aiding the local private sector to attract those big international events and conferences. “We are working with them in putting in place projects which include the addresses and the organizations that would link these associations to hold their meet-ups.”

The official noted that Qatar is facing some major challenges in the preparation of these events over the next three years. These include the 20th edition of the Arab Tourism Fair (ATFA) in 2020, “in the first time event would be held in the Middle East.” Similarly, Qatar will host the 2020 Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises (MSMEs) Forum, and the annual congress of the Union of World Chambers of Commerce and Industry (UWCCI) in 2020, he pointed out.

The official noted that Qatar is facing some major challenges in the preparation of these events over the next three years. These include the 20th edition of the Arab Tourism Fair (ATFA) in 2020, “in the first time event would be held in the Middle East.” Similarly, Qatar will host the 2020 Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises (MSMEs) Forum, and the annual congress of the Union of World Chambers of Commerce and Industry (UWCCI) in 2020, he pointed out.

The official noted that Qatar is facing some major challenges in the preparation of these events over the next three years. These include the 20th edition of the Arab Tourism Fair (ATFA) in 2020, “in the first time event would be held in the Middle East.” Similarly, Qatar will host the 2020 Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises (MSMEs) Forum, and the annual congress of the Union of World Chambers of Commerce and Industry (UWCCI) in 2020, he pointed out.

The official noted that Qatar is facing some major challenges in the preparation of these events over the next three years. These include the 20th edition of the Arab Tourism Fair (ATFA) in 2020, “in the first time event would be held in the Middle East.” Similarly, Qatar will host the 2020 Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises (MSMEs) Forum, and the annual congress of the Union of World Chambers of Commerce and Industry (UWCCI) in 2020, he pointed out.

The official noted that Qatar is facing some major challenges in the preparation of these events over the next three years. These include the 20th edition of the Arab Tourism Fair (ATFA) in 2020, “in the first time event would be held in the Middle East.” Similarly, Qatar will host the 2020 Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises (MSMEs) Forum, and the annual congress of the Union of World Chambers of Commerce and Industry (UWCCI) in 2020, he pointed out.

The official noted that Qatar is facing some major challenges in the preparation of these events over the next three years. These include the 20th edition of the Arab Tourism Fair (ATFA) in 2020, “in the first time event would be held in the Middle East.” Similarly, Qatar will host the 2020 Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises (MSMEs) Forum, and the annual congress of the Union of World Chambers of Commerce and Industry (UWCCI) in 2020, he pointed out.

The official noted that Qatar is facing some major challenges in the preparation of these events over the next three years. These include the 20th edition of the Arab Tourism Fair (ATFA) in 2020, “in the first time event would be held in the Middle East.” Similarly, Qatar will host the 2020 Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises (MSMEs) Forum, and the annual congress of the Union of World Chambers of Commerce and Industry (UWCCI) in 2020, he pointed out.

The official noted that Qatar is facing some major challenges in the preparation of these events over the next three years. These include the 20th edition of the Arab Tourism Fair (ATFA) in 2020, “in the first time event would be held in the Middle East.” Similarly, Qatar will host the 2020 Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises (MSMEs) Forum, and the annual congress of the Union of World Chambers of Commerce and Industry (UWCCI) in 2020, he pointed out.
Genesis announces exclusive offer for new academic year

Genesis has announced an exclusive offer for the new academic year, with the aim of providing students with a convenient and hassle-free experience. The offer is valid until October 31.

Qatar Chamber considers strategic food safety project

The Qatar Chamber has announced its plans to implement a strategic food safety project. This project will aim to enhance food safety standards and improve the overall food sector in Qatar. The Chamber is working closely with relevant authorities to ensure the successful implementation of this initiative.

Skyline Automotive woods patrons with new offer

Skyline Automotive, a leading automotive company in Qatar, has launched an exclusive offer to attract new patrons. The offer includes a package of benefits, including a one-year free comprehensive insurance plan, five years' unlimited mileage warranty, and five years/100,000km maintenance service, among other benefits. The offer is valid until October 31.

Ooredoo sponsors tourism videography competition

Ooredoo, the leading telecommunication company in Qatar, has announced its sponsorship of a tourism videography competition. The competition aims to showcase Qatar's unique tourist attractions and promote its cultural heritage. The videography contest is open to all residents of Qatar, and the winners will be announced in November.

Final call for National Leadership Programme

The National Leadership Programme is calling for final applications. The programme is aimed at developing future leaders in Qatar and preparing them for positions of leadership in the public and private sectors. The programme offers comprehensive training, networking opportunities, and a chance to work with experienced leaders. Applicants are encouraged to apply before the deadline.

"We're very much looking forward to seeing all the short films, and we wish all the entrants the best of luck."
Sports Integrity Summit ‘will help Qatar promote noble values in societies’

The summit will be attended by officials from Sudan (Hassan al-Bashir), Ethiopia (Prime Minister Abiy Ahmed Ali), Somalia (President Mohamed Farmajo), Mauritania (Prime Minister Karim Ould Dahra), South Africa (President Cyril Ramaphosa), South Sudan (President Salva Kiir), Sudan (President Ismail Omar Guelleh), and Tunisia (President Kais Saied).

A human rights defence group is calling for international action to stop the killing and displacement of civilians in Sudan’s Darfur region. The group, which is based in the capital Khartoum, accuses the Sudanese government of committing war crimes and crimes against humanity.

The group has been campaigning for an international investigation into the use of foreign funds by the Sudanese government and has called for sanctions against its officials.

The government has denied allegations of corruption and has said it is fighting against terrorism and drug trafficking.

The group has also called for the release of all political prisoners and for an end to the use of torture and arbitrary detentions.

A former minister of Culture and Sport in Sudan has been charged with corruption and money laundering. He is one of several officials who have been arrested in recent weeks.

The government has recently introduced strict measures to combat corruption, including the imposition of fines and imprisonment for those found guilty.

The summit is expected to discuss the importance of integrity and accountability in sports, as well as the need for transparency and good governance in the sector.

The summit will also address the issue of the use of foreign funds by Sudanese officials, with a particular focus on the case of the former minister of Culture and Sport.

The Kuwaiti minister of Culture and Sports, Dr. Mehal Al-Daoudi, has said that the government is determined to combat corruption and that it will continue to take strong measures to ensure that the sport sector is free from any kind of corruption.

The minister has also called on all sports officials and athletes to uphold the values of integrity and respect for the rules of the sport.

Northwestern ranked among US universities

Northwestern University has been ranked among the top 20 universities in the US in various categories, including research, international students, and academic reputation.

The university is known for its strong programs in business, law, engineering, and the arts, and has a reputation for producing leaders in a wide range of fields.

It is also home to several research centers, including the Kellogg School of Management, the Medill School of Journalism, and the Feinberg School of Medicine.

Iran to adopt maximum crude oil output policy if US lifts sanctions

Iran has been under sanctions for years, which have severely impacted its oil industry. The country has been unable to export as much oil as it would like, which has led to a significant decrease in revenue for the government.

However, President Donald Trump has indicated that he may lift sanctions on Iran, which could have a significant impact on the country's economy.

Trump has said that he would be willing to negotiate with Iran on a range of issues, including its nuclear program, if it were to agree to certain conditions.

If the US were to lift sanctions, Iran would likely increase its oil output, which could lead to a global oversupply of oil and a drop in prices.

Trump floats possible defence treaty days ahead of Israeli polls

US President Donald Trump has suggested that he might propose a treaty with Israel to counter Iran, just days before the Israeli election.

The possibility of a treaty was raised during a meeting between Trump and Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu in Doha recently.

Trump has been a strong supporter of Israel and has been vocal in his criticism of Iran. He has previously threatened to impose new sanctions on Iran if it does not comply with the 2015 nuclear deal.

If Trump were to propose a treaty, it could be seen as a way to strengthen ties with Israel and to counter Iran's influence in the region.

Iranian officials have not yet commented on the possibility of a treaty, but it is clear that they view any move to strengthen ties with Israel as a threat.

Iran's foreign minister has warned that any attempt to strengthen ties with Israel would be seen as a threat to Iran's national security.

The meeting between Trump and Netanyahu is the latest in a series of high-level meetings between the two countries. It comes as Iran's nuclear program remains a source of tension with the US and its allies.

Trump has repeatedly threatened to abandon the nuclear deal if Iran does not comply with its terms, and has suggested that new sanctions could be imposed.

However, the possibility of a treaty suggests that Trump may be willing to consider a more nuanced approach to dealing with Iran.

Trump and Netanyahu have both said that they are committed to maintaining a strong relationship with each other, and that they want to work together to combat Iran's influence in the region.

However, it remains to be seen whether a treaty would be enough to counter Iran's influence, or whether more aggressive measures would be required.

US President Donald Trump has threatened to abandon the Iran nuclear deal, which was signed in 2015, if Iran does not comply with its terms.

The deal was seen as a significant achievement of multilateral diplomacy, as it was the first time that Iran had agreed to limit its nuclear program in exchange for lifting sanctions.

However, since the US withdrawal from the deal, tensions have risen between Iran and the US, with both countries imposing new sanctions on the other.

The possibility of a treaty with Iran has been met with mixed reactions from the international community, with some seeing it as a positive step towards stabilising the region, while others are concerned that it could lead to a new round of nuclear talks.

Iran has been under international sanctions for years, which have severely impacted its economy. However, the possibility of a treaty suggests that the US may be willing to consider a more nuanced approach to dealing with Iran.
AFP

Yemeni rebel attacks pose danger to Saudi infrastructure

Zimbabweans who were former South African police officers on the verge of being fired for alleged corruption have converted to Islam and now work as guards at the Saudi Arabian National Oil Co (Arabianco). Authorities in the kingdom said on Saturday that seven employees at the company had been fired, but the move came amid reports that the employees had joined the Islamic State extremist group in Yemen.

AFP

Six civilians killed in northwest Syria

Rome and Damascus hit by rocket fire; Turkish army warns of retaliation

The head of the UN special envoy's team for Syria, Jan Kubis, has said that the International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC) should be allowed to conduct investigations into alleged violations of international humanitarian law.

Gulf Times

REGION/ARAB WORLD/AFRICA

Ivory Coast: rebel attacks pose danger to Saudi infrastructure

Yemeni rebel attacks pose a fading memory for an Ivorian family on负担 for all of it amounting to a hefty food and accommodation fee — there was the transport, cardiologist for his heart condition as well as the demands of taking population and industrial infrastructure, in a sector on the rise and part of the sector could be severely affected by cyber attacks.

The beauty of the telemedicine scheme is that neither the distance nor the time it takes to receive the care is an issue. The cardiologist can be seen at the end of the phone or on a computer screen.

But in Ivory Coast — and in many other countries across West Africa too — the cost of the technology is high and the training is not always available. The goal is to expand this to other medical fields such as neurology and psychiatry, not just cardiology. But numerous hurdles need to be overcome, especially in the rural areas.

The beauty of the telemedicine scheme is that neither the distance nor the time it takes to receive the care is an issue. The cardiologist can be seen at the end of the phone or on a computer screen.

But in Ivory Coast — and in many other countries across West Africa too — the cost of the technology is high and the training is not always available. The goal is to expand this to other medical fields such as neurology and psychiatry, not just cardiology. But numerous hurdles need to be overcome, especially in the rural areas.

The beauty of the telemedicine scheme is that neither the distance nor the time it takes to receive the care is an issue. The cardiologist can be seen at the end of the phone or on a computer screen.

But in Ivory Coast — and in many other countries across West Africa too — the cost of the technology is high and the training is not always available. The goal is to expand this to other medical fields such as neurology and psychiatry, not just cardiology. But numerous hurdles need to be overcome, especially in the rural areas.

The beauty of the telemedicine scheme is that neither the distance nor the time it takes to receive the care is an issue. The cardiologist can be seen at the end of the phone or on a computer screen.

But in Ivory Coast — and in many other countries across West Africa too — the cost of the technology is high and the training is not always available. The goal is to expand this to other medical fields such as neurology and psychiatry, not just cardiology. But numerous hurdles need to be overcome, especially in the rural areas.
Top Canadian police officer arrested on spousal charges

The Canadian Press - Ottawa Police Chief Peter Sloly said on Friday that he has arrested a senior enlisted police officer, who he identified as Chief Supt. Lance Parsons, on a charge of spousal assault.

\[
\text{Quote for the Canadian Press, Friday, 9th of September, 2023}
\]

Huffman gets two weeks jail in college admissions scandal

By Joseph Prezioso and Victoria Pickering

AFP

Boston - Actress Felicity Huffman was sentenced in a cheating scandal that involved a prestigious American university, her husband, actor William H Macy. Huffman, 57, looked ashen-faced as she left the courthouse in Boston on Friday.

\[
\text{Quote for Joseph Prezioso and Victoria Pickering, Friday, 9th of September, 2023}
\]

Tropical storm Hurricane hits Bahamas

Tropical Storm Hurricane yesterday lashed the Bahamas, with the storm leaving at least two people dead in the affected area.

\[
\text{Quote for Tropical Storm Hurricane, Friday, 9th of September, 2023}
\]
Thailand province flooded after storm

Bangkok

Floods in northeastern Thailand have submerged homes, roads and bridges, leaving more than 12,000 people in evacuation centres as anger grows over the government’s handling of the crisis.

Tens of millions of Thais have been hit by a three-week deluge, causing floods and mudslides in almost all provinces.

An elderly woman has died in the country for the last two weeks, causing floods and mudslides in almost all provinces.

Two weather events are behind the widespread floods, the government said - Storm Podul, a tropical depression that grew over the government’s economy, has been exacerbated by rising temperatures.

The floods have hit 14 provinces, with the worst impact in the central and eastern parts.

On Wednesday, thousands held a demonstration in Bangkok to demand redress for people affected by the floods.

A man worked for told the news agency next week. (AFP/Reuters)

Malaysia opposition formalises pact

Malaysia

M alaysia’s two oldest political parties signed a historic agreement on Monday in an effort to bolster their efforts ahead of the 2020 general election and end the current administration’s three-year tenure.

The agreement will see Pakatan Harapan, the main opposition alliance, join forces with the pro-Beijing United Malays National Organisation, known as Umno, in a bid to form a new ruling party, UMNO, which was established in 1946.

The two parties have a combined 15 seats in parliament, giving them a numerical advantage over the ruling Barisan Nasional coalition, which currently has 54 seats.

The agreement also comes as Malaysia is facing its worst economic crisis since the 1997-1998 Asian financial crisis, with the government struggling to contain surging inflation and a sharp decline in oil prices.

The agreement was signed in Putrajaya, the federal administrative centre, and is expected to be formalised in a joint press conference on Tuesday.

The agreement is seen as a significant development in Malaysia’s political landscape, where a two-party system has traditionally dominated the country’s politics.

The agreement is expected to be officially announced on Tuesday, with both parties expected to unveil their joint list of candidates for the upcoming general election.

The agreement is seen as a major step towards ending the current administration’s three-year tenure and bringing about political stability in the country.

The agreement has also been seen as a bid to boost the two parties’ chances of winning the upcoming general election, which is expected to be held in 2020.

The agreement is seen as a significant development in Malaysia’s political landscape, where a two-party system has traditionally dominated the country’s politics.

The agreement is expected to be officially announced on Tuesday, with both parties expected to unveil their joint list of candidates for the upcoming general election.

The agreement is seen as a major step towards ending the current administration’s three-year tenure and bringing about political stability in the country.

The agreement has also been seen as a bid to boost the two parties’ chances of winning the upcoming general election, which is expected to be held in 2020.

The agreement is seen as a significant development in Malaysia’s political landscape, where a two-party system has traditionally dominated the country’s politics.

The agreement is expected to be officially announced on Tuesday, with both parties expected to unveil their joint list of candidates for the upcoming general election.

The agreement is seen as a major step towards ending the current administration’s three-year tenure and bringing about political stability in the country.

The agreement has also been seen as a bid to boost the two parties’ chances of winning the upcoming general election, which is expected to be held in 2020.

The agreement is seen as a significant development in Malaysia’s political landscape, where a two-party system has traditionally dominated the country’s politics.

The agreement is expected to be officially announced on Tuesday, with both parties expected to unveil their joint list of candidates for the upcoming general election.

The agreement is seen as a major step towards ending the current administration’s three-year tenure and bringing about political stability in the country.

The agreement has also been seen as a bid to boost the two parties’ chances of winning the upcoming general election, which is expected to be held in 2020.

The agreement is seen as a significant development in Malaysia’s political landscape, where a two-party system has traditionally dominated the country’s politics.

The agreement is expected to be officially announced on Tuesday, with both parties expected to unveil their joint list of candidates for the upcoming general election.

The agreement is seen as a major step towards ending the current administration’s three-year tenure and bringing about political stability in the country.

The agreement has also been seen as a bid to boost the two parties’ chances of winning the upcoming general election, which is expected to be held in 2020.

The agreement is seen as a significant development in Malaysia’s political landscape, where a two-party system has traditionally dominated the country’s politics.

The agreement is expected to be officially announced on Tuesday, with both parties expected to unveil their joint list of candidates for the upcoming general election.

The agreement is seen as a major step towards ending the current administration’s three-year tenure and bringing about political stability in the country.

The agreement has also been seen as a bid to boost the two parties’ chances of winning the upcoming general election, which is expected to be held in 2020.

The agreement is seen as a significant development in Malaysia’s political landscape, where a two-party system has traditionally dominated the country’s politics.

The agreement is expected to be officially announced on Tuesday, with both parties expected to unveil their joint list of candidates for the upcoming general election.

The agreement is seen as a major step towards ending the current administration’s three-year tenure and bringing about political stability in the country.

The agreement has also been seen as a bid to boost the two parties’ chances of winning the upcoming general election, which is expected to be held in 2020.

The agreement is seen as a significant development in Malaysia’s political landscape, where a two-party system has traditionally dominated the country’s politics.

The agreement is expected to be officially announced on Tuesday, with both parties expected to unveil their joint list of candidates for the upcoming general election.

The agreement is seen as a major step towards ending the current administration’s three-year tenure and bringing about political stability in the country.

The agreement has also been seen as a bid to boost the two parties’ chances of winning the upcoming general election, which is expected to be held in 2020.

The agreement is seen as a significant development in Malaysia’s political landscape, where a two-party system has traditionally dominated the country’s politics.

The agreement is expected to be officially announced on Tuesday, with both parties expected to unveil their joint list of candidates for the upcoming general election.

The agreement is seen as a major step towards ending the current administration’s three-year tenure and bringing about political stability in the country.

The agreement has also been seen as a bid to boost the two parties’ chances of winning the upcoming general election, which is expected to be held in 2020.

The agreement is seen as a significant development in Malaysia’s political landscape, where a two-party system has traditionally dominated the country’s politics.

The agreement is expected to be officially announced on Tuesday, with both parties expected to unveil their joint list of candidates for the upcoming general election.

The agreement is seen as a major step towards ending the current administration’s three-year tenure and bringing about political stability in the country.

The agreement has also been seen as a bid to boost the two parties’ chances of winning the upcoming general election, which is expected to be held in 2020.

The agreement is seen as a significant development in Malaysia’s political landscape, where a two-party system has traditionally dominated the country’s politics.

The agreement is expected to be officially announced on Tuesday, with both parties expected to unveil their joint list of candidates for the upcoming general election.

The agreement is seen as a major step towards ending the current administration’s three-year tenure and bringing about political stability in the country.

The agreement has also been seen as a bid to boost the two parties’ chances of winning the upcoming general election, which is expected to be held in 2020.

The agreement is seen as a significant development in Malaysia’s political landscape, where a two-party system has traditionally dominated the country’s politics.

The agreement is expected to be officially announced on Tuesday, with both parties expected to unveil their joint list of candidates for the upcoming general election.

The agreement is seen as a major step towards ending the current administration’s three-year tenure and bringing about political stability in the country.

The agreement has also been seen as a bid to boost the two parties’ chances of winning the upcoming general election, which is expected to be held in 2020.

The agreement is seen as a significant development in Malaysia’s political landscape, where a two-party system has traditionally dominated the country’s politics.

The agreement is expected to be officially announced on Tuesday, with both parties expected to unveil their joint list of candidates for the upcoming general election.

The agreement is seen as a major step towards ending the current administration’s three-year tenure and bringing about political stability in the country.

The agreement has also been seen as a bid to boost the two parties’ chances of winning the upcoming general election, which is expected to be held in 2020.
London Fashion Week opens its doors with public catwalk shows

By Maureen Cherry, Reuters

London Fashion Week (LFW) opens its doors to the public for the first time on Tuesday, following a shift in the calendar to make way for the Olympic Games in 2012.

The move is seen as a bid to boost ticket sales and bring in new fashionistas to the event, which has traditionally been reserved for buyers, the media and the fashion industry.

LFW is one of the most important fashion weeks in the world and attracts designers, buyers, media and fashion enthusiasts from across the globe.

This year, LFW will run from September 17 to 23, with a range of shows, presentations and events taking place across the city.

The move to make the event more accessible is part of a broader effort to make the fashion industry more diverse and inclusive.

"It has been a long time coming," said the British Fashion Council (BFC) chief executive, Caroline Rush. "We are very excited to open the doors to the public for the first time and to bring a new audience to our events.

"The fashion industry needs to be more inclusive and diverse, and opening the doors to the public is a key step in achieving this.

"We are looking forward to welcoming a new audience who may not have previously attended LFW, and to sharing the excitement of the event with them.

"We hope that this move will help to broaden the appeal of the fashion industry and encourage more people to get involved in the world of fashion."

The event will feature catwalk shows by a range of designers, including Jonathan Saunders, Mary Katrantzou and Richard Nicoll.

"I am really excited to be part of this historic moment," said Saunders. "It has been an incredible journey to get here and I am really proud of what we have achieved.

"I hope that by opening the doors to the public, we can inspire a new generation of fashion fans and encourage them to get involved in the world of fashion.

"I am really looking forward to seeing the reaction from the public and to sharing the excitement of the event with them."

The move to open the doors to the public is part of a wider effort to make the fashion industry more inclusive and diverse.

"The fashion industry needs to be more diverse and inclusive," said the British Fashion Council (BFC) chief executive, Caroline Rush.

"We are really excited to open the doors to the public for the first time and to bring a new audience to our events.

"The fashion industry needs to be more diverse and inclusive, and opening the doors to the public is a key step in achieving this.

"We are looking forward to welcoming a new audience who may not have previously attended LFW, and to sharing the excitement of the event with them.

"We hope that this move will help to broaden the appeal of the fashion industry and encourage more people to get involved in the world of fashion."

The event will feature catwalk shows by a range of designers, including Jonathan Saunders, Mary Katrantzou and Richard Nicoll.

"I am really excited to be part of this historic moment," said Saunders. "It has been an incredible journey to get here and I am really proud of what we have achieved.

"I hope that by opening the doors to the public, we can inspire a new generation of fashion fans and encourage them to get involved in the world of fashion.

"I am really looking forward to seeing the reaction from the public and to sharing the excitement of the event with them."

The move to open the doors to the public is part of a wider effort to make the fashion industry more inclusive and diverse.

"The fashion industry needs to be more diverse and inclusive," said the British Fashion Council (BFC) chief executive, Caroline Rush.

"We are really excited to open the doors to the public for the first time and to bring a new audience to our events.

"The fashion industry needs to be more diverse and inclusive, and opening the doors to the public is a key step in achieving this.

"We are looking forward to welcoming a new audience who may not have previously attended LFW, and to sharing the excitement of the event with them.

"We hope that this move will help to broaden the appeal of the fashion industry and encourage more people to get involved in the world of fashion."

The event will feature catwalk shows by a range of designers, including Jonathan Saunders, Mary Katrantzou and Richard Nicoll.

"I am really excited to be part of this historic moment," said Saunders. "It has been an incredible journey to get here and I am really proud of what we have achieved.

"I hope that by opening the doors to the public, we can inspire a new generation of fashion fans and encourage them to get involved in the world of fashion.

"I am really looking forward to seeing the reaction from the public and to sharing the excitement of the event with them."

The move to open the doors to the public is part of a wider effort to make the fashion industry more inclusive and diverse.

"The fashion industry needs to be more diverse and inclusive," said the British Fashion Council (BFC) chief executive, Caroline Rush.

"We are really excited to open the doors to the public for the first time and to bring a new audience to our events.

"The fashion industry needs to be more diverse and inclusive, and opening the doors to the public is a key step in achieving this.

"We are looking forward to welcoming a new audience who may not have previously attended LFW, and to sharing the excitement of the event with them.

"We hope that this move will help to broaden the appeal of the fashion industry and encourage more people to get involved in the world of fashion."

The event will feature catwalk shows by a range of designers, including Jonathan Saunders, Mary Katrantzou and Richard Nicoll.

"I am really excited to be part of this historic moment," said Saunders. "It has been an incredible journey to get here and I am really proud of what we have achieved.

"I hope that by opening the doors to the public, we can inspire a new generation of fashion fans and encourage them to get involved in the world of fashion.

"I am really looking forward to seeing the reaction from the public and to sharing the excitement of the event with them."

The move to open the doors to the public is part of a wider effort to make the fashion industry more inclusive and diverse.

"The fashion industry needs to be more diverse and inclusive," said the British Fashion Council (BFC) chief executive, Caroline Rush.

"We are really excited to open the doors to the public for the first time and to bring a new audience to our events.

"The fashion industry needs to be more diverse and inclusive, and opening the doors to the public is a key step in achieving this.

"We are looking forward to welcoming a new audience who may not have previously attended LFW, and to sharing the excitement of the event with them.

"We hope that this move will help to broaden the appeal of the fashion industry and encourage more people to get involved in the world of fashion."

The event will feature catwalk shows by a range of designers, including Jonathan Saunders, Mary Katrantzou and Richard Nicoll.

"I am really excited to be part of this historic moment," said Saunders. "It has been an incredible journey to get here and I am really proud of what we have achieved.

"I hope that by opening the doors to the public, we can inspire a new generation of fashion fans and encourage them to get involved in the world of fashion.

"I am really looking forward to seeing the reaction from the public and to sharing the excitement of the event with them."

The move to open the doors to the public is part of a wider effort to make the fashion industry more inclusive and diverse.

"The fashion industry needs to be more diverse and inclusive," said the British Fashion Council (BFC) chief executive, Caroline Rush.

"We are really excited to open the doors to the public for the first time and to bring a new audience to our events.

"The fashion industry needs to be more diverse and inclusive, and opening the doors to the public is a key step in achieving this.

"We are looking forward to welcoming a new audience who may not have previously attended LFW, and to sharing the excitement of the event with them.

"We hope that this move will help to broaden the appeal of the fashion industry and encourage more people to get involved in the world of fashion."

The event will feature catwalk shows by a range of designers, including Jonathan Saunders, Mary Katrantzou and Richard Nicoll.

"I am really excited to be part of this historic moment," said Saunders. "It has been an incredible journey to get here and I am really proud of what we have achieved.

"I hope that by opening the doors to the public, we can inspire a new generation of fashion fans and encourage them to get involved in the world of fashion.

"I am really looking forward to seeing the reaction from the public and to sharing the excitement of the event with them."

The move to open the doors to the public is part of a wider effort to make the fashion industry more inclusive and diverse.

"The fashion industry needs to be more diverse and inclusive," said the British Fashion Council (BFC) chief executive, Caroline Rush.

"We are really excited to open the doors to the public for the first time and to bring a new audience to our events.

"The fashion industry needs to be more diverse and inclusive, and opening the doors to the public is a key step in achieving this.

"We are looking forward to welcoming a new audience who may not have previously attended LFW, and to sharing the excitement of the event with them.

"We hope that this move will help to broaden the appeal of the fashion industry and encourage more people to get involved in the world of fashion."

The event will feature catwalk shows by a range of designers, including Jonathan Saunders, Mary Katrantzou and Richard Nicoll.

"I am really excited to be part of this historic moment," said Saunders. "It has been an incredible journey to get here and I am really proud of what we have achieved.

"I hope that by opening the doors to the public, we can inspire a new generation of fashion fans and encourage them to get involved in the world of fashion.

"I am really looking forward to seeing the reaction from the public and to sharing the excitement of the event with them."

The move to open the doors to the public is part of a wider effort to make the fashion industry more inclusive and diverse.

"The fashion industry needs to be more diverse and inclusive," said the British Fashion Council (BFC) chief executive, Caroline Rush.

"We are really excited to open the doors to the public for the first time and to bring a new audience to our events.

"The fashion industry needs to be more diverse and inclusive, and opening the doors to the public is a key step in achieving this.

"We are looking forward to welcoming a new audience who may not have previously attended LFW, and to sharing the excita
Police face protesters in Nantes as ‘yellow vest’ marches resume

Nantes France

Hundreds of farmers-cum-rural activists stood off in the French city of Nantes yesterday as so-called “yellow vest” protests against high fuel prices and cost of living resumed after a lull in recent weeks.

A spokesperson with the local prefecture said 21 people had been arrested.

“Protests” eyed as threat to industry

Three employers’ groups owned by industry bodies Alimentar, Metalex and Automar, and a panel of experts, have launched a probe into the safety of motorway overpasses following the collapse of a bridge in Genoa.

The collapse of the Genoa viaduct in August has left more than 47 people dead and prompted rivers to burst their banks, causing chaos on the southeastern regions yesterday.

Sassuolo mayor Stefano Zardini said: “A thousand people have been rescued from the water and the transport ministry are already under investigation in a criminal case.”

The state transport ministry is also currently independently investigating the collapse of the Genoa viaduct.

Yesterday the government said in a statement: “The new government is required to lower before the government can make an estimate of the total cost of the disaster.”

The government also said it had ordered an immediate review of the viaduct’s design and construction.

The government said it would task the transport ministry to investigate the collapse of the Genoa viaduct and prompt new inspection procedures.

Tens of thousands of protesters, many on bicycles, gathered in the southern French city of Toulouse yesterday to protest against increasing fuel costs and cost of living, with some blocking roads as they sought to reach the venue of the G7 summit.

The G7 is expected to discuss climate change, with leaders expected to sign a joint statement on reducing greenhouse gas emissions.

“The G7 in France will be an opportunity to push for ambitious climate action,” said Tina “Velo”, a pseudonym for a woman who has been arrested several times for blocking roads as the leader of the climate activist group "#YellowVestsFrance".

The group has been involved in demonstrations and blockades across the country, but its influence has waned in recent months.

Yellow vest protesters have blocked roads and highways, shutting down factories and disrupting supply chains in recent months.

The protests have been largely peaceful, but there have been sporadic clashes between police and protesters.

The government has offered to negotiate with the protesters, but the protesters have so far refused to engage in dialogue.

The French Interior Ministry said the protests were “a manifestation of a deeply rooted feeling of anger and frustration”.

The protest is one of several that have been held in recent weeks, with hundreds of thousands of people across the country taking to the streets to demand action on climate change.

Over the past year, the “yellow vest” movement has grown from a small group of protesters against the government’s proposed fuel tax increases to a nationwide movement with millions of supporters.

The crisis has been driven by rising fuel prices, which have hit lower-income and rural areas particularly hard.

The government has resisted calls to scrap the fuel tax increases, saying they are needed to fund climate action.

The protests have been marked by violent clashes between police and protesters, with several deaths and injuries reported.

President Emmanuel Macron has called for dialogue with the protesters, but has so far refused to meet their demands.

The protests have also been marked by an outpouring of solidarity from across the country, with millions of people taking to the streets to show their support for the protesters.

In recent weeks, the protests have taken on a more political dimension, with protesters calling for the resignation of President Macron and his government.

The protests are expected to continue in the coming weeks, with more demonstrations planned in a number of cities across the country.

Updated: 05/03/2023 14:00

Protests against car industry rev up in Frankfurt

Frankfurt Germany

The automotive industry has faced increasing pressure to reduce its carbon footprint.

The move follows a string of protests against the car industry in recent weeks, with activists calling for a switch to more sustainable forms of transport.

“Instead of celebrating fuel-cell cars, manufacturers must “get out of the diesel business”,” said Tina “Velo”.

“Instead of celebrating fuel-cell cars, manufacturers must “get out of the diesel business”,” said Tina “Velo”.

“The automotive industry has faced increasing pressure to reduce its carbon footprint,” said Tina “Velo”.

The move follows a string of protests against the car industry in recent weeks, with activists calling for a switch to more sustainable forms of transport.

“Instead of celebrating fuel-cell cars, manufacturers must “get out of the diesel business”,” said Tina “Velo”.

“The automotive industry has faced increasing pressure to reduce its carbon footprint,” said Tina “Velo”.

The move follows a string of protests against the car industry in recent weeks, with activists calling for a switch to more sustainable forms of transport.

“Instead of celebrating fuel-cell cars, manufacturers must “get out of the diesel business”,” said Tina “Velo”.

“The automotive industry has faced increasing pressure to reduce its carbon footprint,” said Tina “Velo”.

The move follows a string of protests against the car industry in recent weeks, with activists calling for a switch to more sustainable forms of transport.

“Instead of celebrating fuel-cell cars, manufacturers must “get out of the diesel business”,” said Tina “Velo”.

“The automotive industry has faced increasing pressure to reduce its carbon footprint,” said Tina “Velo”.

The move follows a string of protests against the car industry in recent weeks, with activists calling for a switch to more sustainable forms of transport.

“Instead of celebrating fuel-cell cars, manufacturers must “get out of the diesel business”,” said Tina “Velo”.

“The automotive industry has faced increasing pressure to reduce its carbon footprint,” said Tina “Velo”.

The move follows a string of protests against the car industry in recent weeks, with activists calling for a switch to more sustainable forms of transport.

“Instead of celebrating fuel-cell cars, manufacturers must “get out of the diesel business”,” said Tina “Velo”.

“The automotive industry has faced increasing pressure to reduce its carbon footprint,” said Tina “Velo”.

The move follows a string of protests against the car industry in recent weeks, with activists calling for a switch to more sustainable forms of transport.

“Instead of celebrating fuel-cell cars, manufacturers must “get out of the diesel business”,” said Tina “Velo”.

“The automotive industry has faced increasing pressure to reduce its carbon footprint,” said Tina “Velo”.

The move follows a string of protests against the car industry in recent weeks, with activists calling for a switch to more sustainable forms of transport.

“Instead of celebrating fuel-cell cars, manufacturers must “get out of the diesel business”,” said Tina “Velo”.

“The automotive industry has face
A 25-year-old man has been arrested in the Bhopal jail in the Madhya Pradesh. The inmate was involved in several cases of murder and attempted murder. The man was arrested by police with 10 live rounds in his possession.

The man, identified as N. Ramesh, was allegedly involved in several cases of murder, including the killing of a police constable in Bhopal. He was also wanted in a case of attempted murder in the same district.

According to police, the man was arrested while he was trying to escape from the jail. The police had been on the lookout for him since the crime he was accused of.

In other news, a woman has been arrested in Mumbai for allegedly suffocating her own child to death. The woman, identified as R. P. Singh, was arrested by police after the child was found dead in a parked car.

The investigation is ongoing, and the police are questioning the woman and other suspects involved in the case.

Note: The above content is a fictional creation for the purpose of this exercise.
Power company collects millions through fake bills

A parliamentary panel grilled officials of the Lahore Power Distribution Company (LPC) over endorsement of millions of revenue-offices in the form of fake and forged bills from power consumers. The LPC senior officials however denied all the allegations levelled against them.

Speaking

On a point of order raised by PPP lawmaker Aslam Sher of Gujranwala, the Deputy Registrar at UET Lahore, the student authorities for making arrangements for male and female students. He added that any further escalation of the situation would result in any further disruption of the academic activities of the varsity.

Taking care

Patients suffering from dengue fever rest on beds under netting at a hospital in Peshawar.

PM likens ongoing Pak-India dispute to Cuban missile crisis

Our “business is completely dependent on the Internet. If this Internet package continues, our fate may be sealed forever. If customers booked tickets in advance, but would lose money if they cancelled it,” the senator said.

Indian clampdown in Kashmir hit hardest by the clampdown

Indian Prime Minister Narendra Modi has warned about the repressive measures imposed on Kashmir. The clampdown has led to a communications blackout in the region.

College named after Bhutto produce zero results in exams

The government college of Faisalabad, named after the Bhutto family, produced no marks in the annual exams. At least one soldier was killed in a clash with Kashmiri protesters.

In recent months, Pakistan has moved to isolate India. Modi has warned about the repressive measures imposed on Kashmir. The clampdown has led to a communications blackout in the region. The Indian clampdown in Kashmir has hit hardest by the clampdown.

Power company collects millions through fake bills

A parliamentary panel grilled officials of the Lahore Power Distribution Company (LPC) over endorsement of millions of revenue-offices in the form of fake and forged bills from power consumers. The LPC senior officials however denied all the allegations levelled against them.

Speaking

On a point of order raised by PPP lawmaker Aslam Sher of Gujranwala, the Deputy Registrar at UET Lahore, the student authorities for making arrangements for male and female students. He added that any further escalation of the situation would result in any further disruption of the academic activities of the varsity.

Taking care

Patients suffering from dengue fever rest on beds under netting at a hospital in Peshawar.

PM likens ongoing Pak-India dispute to Cuban missile crisis

Our “business is completely dependent on the Internet. If this Internet package continues, our fate may be sealed forever. If customers booked tickets in advance, but would lose money if they cancelled it,” the senator said.

Indian clampdown in Kashmir hit hardest by the clampdown

Indian Prime Minister Narendra Modi has warned about the repressive measures imposed on Kashmir. The clampdown has led to a communications blackout in the region.

College named after Bhutto produce zero results in exams

The government college of Faisalabad, named after the Bhutto family, produced no marks in the annual exams. At least one soldier was killed in a clash with Kashmiri protesters.

In recent months, Pakistan has moved to isolate India. Modi has warned about the repressive measures imposed on Kashmir. The clampdown has led to a communications blackout in the region. The Indian clampdown in Kashmir has hit hardest by the clampdown.
Govt seeks support from villages in campaign against insurgency

By Catherine Sevilla Manila Times

In parallel with President Rodrigo Duterte’s drive to ensure peace and order in the country, the government has sought out influential village officials to support its campaign against communism.

In a letter to the Secretary of Interior and Local Government, the Department of Public Works and Highways (DPWH) said it had started the reconstruction and rehabilitation of the 18.9-kilometre transection of the Pan-Philippines Highway, Extension A, the proposed detour route to the national highway.

The project is among those that the Japanese government has sponsored through its Project to Promote Local Community Armed Conflicts (EO 70) and the Public Act (RA) 10575 that will give the government the power to freely address the problem that gave too much power to the local government, “He added.

Duterte has been sending mixed signals with regard to the talks with communist rebels, who have been holding an arm’s-length struggle against the government in Mindanao.

In 2017, Duterte imposed Presid- ential Order (PO) 70, which terminated the talks with the communist rebels, and was followed by the declaration of martial law in Mindanao and the adjoining islands.

In December 2018, the presi- dient issued Executive Order (EO) 20, a national task force to end local communist armed groups. In February, Duterte ex- panded the mandate to talk to the commissi- on, even offering to disarm their members if they come to Manila for the negotia- tions. In May, the president appointed a new peace envoy, the United Nations chief, and for any regional task force. We blazed the trail,” he said.

Duterte has said his government was focused on the “whole of nation” approach in the campaign, aiming to create a sense of unity among the country’s 300 million population.

This is in reaction to the pa- per’s report that an official at the Department of Trade and Industry (DTI) and East Asia was allegedly in collusion with a local steel manufacturer, a move that deprives the govern- ment of the power of fines in taxes and duties.

According to the report, a mem- ber of the National Federation of Steel Manufacturers, Inc. was, in fact, the chairman of the Caraga steel manufacturers’ association, which controls 60% of the market.

“The steel manufacturers’ asso- ciation controls 60% of the market and makes a lot of money from its association fees,” said an official of the country’s steel industry.

The following month, the presi- dent signed Executive Order No. 126, which required the DoJ to investigate the case of a woman who was reportedly killed in an extrajudicial killing.

Reconstruction of Marawi roads begins

By William Depasupil

The Philippines National Police, Wednesday launched the country’s first all-women police station in Malaybalay, Misamis Oriental.

This means that the BuCor, or the Bureau of Corrections, is no longer under the control of President Rodrigo Duterte, who signed EO 70 in 2017 when he was Justice secretary.

The projects are funded by the Department of the Interior and Local Government through its project to promote local community armed conflicts (EO 70) and the public act (RA) 10575 that will give the government the power to freely address the problem that gave too much power to the local government.

The corrupt officials in the Department of the Interior and Local Government, the National Bureau of Investigation, and the Department of Justice are involved in these projects.

We have received reports that inmates were moved to the new Etiwild Prison Hospital in Davao City and have not been allowed to see the hospital or its staff, as reported by the Philippine Daily Inquirer.

“We should give the DoJ the go-ahead and approve the DoJ’s proposal for a law that would allow the DoJ to engage in the law-making process,” he said.

The first all-women police station in the country was opened in the city of Siquijor in the province of Cebu, as part of the Department of the Interior and Local Government’s move to create opportunities for women to strengthen their roles in society.

In May, Duterte said that the government would be forced to confront the MNLF and the Moro Islamic Liberation Front, which is still active in the southern Mindanao region.

During the 2017 elections, Duterte had vowed to end the war with the MNLF and the Moro Islamic Liberation Front.

In 2017, Duterte imposed Presid- ential Order (PO) 70, which terminated the talks with the communist rebels, and was followed by the declaration of martial law in Mindanao and the adjoining islands.

“This is the priority of President Rodrigo Duterte’s ‘whole-of-nation approach’ in the campaign, aiming to create a sense of unity among the country’s 300 million population.

The corruption in the Department of Interior and Local Government, the National Bureau of Investigation, and the Department of Justice are involved in these projects.

“We should give the DoJ the go-ahead and approve the DoJ’s proposal for a law that would allow the DoJ to engage in the law-making process,” he said.

The first all-women police station in the country was opened in the city of Siquijor in the province of Cebu, as part of the Department of the Interior and Local Government’s move to create opportunities for women to strengthen their roles in society.

In May, Duterte said that the government would be forced to confront the MNLF and the Moro Islamic Liberation Front, which is still active in the southern Mindanao region.

During the 2017 elections, Duterte had vowed to end the war with the MNLF and the Moro Islamic Liberation Front.

In 2017, Duterte imposed Presid- ential Order (PO) 70, which terminated the talks with the communist rebels, and was followed by the declaration of martial law in Mindanao and the adjoining islands.

“This is the priority of President Rodrigo Duterte’s ‘whole-of-nation approach’ in the campaign, aiming to create a sense of unity among the country’s 300 million population.

The corruption in the Department of Interior and Local Government, the National Bureau of Investigation, and the Department of Justice are involved in these projects.

“We should give the DoJ the go-ahead and approve the DoJ’s proposal for a law that would allow the DoJ to engage in the law-making process,” he said.

The first all-women police station in the country was opened in the city of Siquijor in the province of Cebu, as part of the Department of the Interior and Local Government’s move to create opportunities for women to strengthen their roles in society.

In May, Duterte said that the government would be forced to confront the MNLF and the Moro Islamic Liberation Front, which is still active in the southern Mindanao region.

During the 2017 elections, Duterte had vowed to end the war with the MNLF and the Moro Islamic Liberation Front.

In 2017, Duterte imposed Presid- ential Order (PO) 70, which terminated the talks with the communist rebels, and was followed by the declaration of martial law in Mindanao and the adjoining islands.

“This is the priority of President Rodrigo Duterte’s ‘whole-of-nation approach’ in the campaign, aiming to create a sense of unity among the country’s 300 million population.

The corruption in the Department of Interior and Local Government, the National Bureau of Investigation, and the Department of Justice are involved in these projects.

“We should give the DoJ the go-ahead and approve the DoJ’s proposal for a law that would allow the DoJ to engage in the law-making process,” he said.

The first all-women police station in the country was opened in the city of Siquijor in the province of Cebu, as part of the Department of the Interior and Local Government’s move to create opportunities for women to strengthen their roles in society.

In May, Duterte said that the government would be forced to confront the MNLF and the Moro Islamic Liberation Front, which is still active in the southern Mindanao region.

During the 2017 elections, Duterte had vowed to end the war with the MNLF and the Moro Islamic Liberation Front.

In 2017, Duterte imposed Presid- ential Order (PO) 70, which terminated the talks with the communist rebels, and was followed by the declaration of martial law in Mindanao and the adjoining islands.
Every country has its own defining moment. For the 19th century, it was the juxtaposition of imperialism with the Industrial Revolution, creating the conditions for a New World and the advent of the welfare state. The world in the 20th century was punctuated by the Great Depression and World War II, after which the Cold War shaped the contours of major economic systems and the international order.

The path to the 21st century is shaped by the 1990s when the Berlin Wall fell, marking the end of the Cold War. The collapse of the Soviet Union and the rise of the United States as a global superpower led to a period of relative stability and economic growth. However, the outcome of the 2008 financial crisis and the subsequent years of low growth and political instability have cast doubt on the durability of the global economic order.

In the 21st century, the world is facing a new set of challenges, including climate change, technological disruption, and rising nationalism. These challenges require new forms of cooperation and leadership, and the ability to adapt to rapid change is crucial for success.

In conclusion, the 21st century is a time of great change and uncertainty. The world is experiencing rapid technological change, economic transformations, and political shifts that are reshaping the global order. Understanding these changes and identifying the drivers of these trends is crucial for navigating the challenges of the 21st century.
Joining the technological frontiers

By Philippe Douste-Blazy and Carl Pettersson

Many developing countries, and Africa in particular, are making the transition to a technological frontiers.

The study shows that the financial challenge also had higher implications for the

How pooling can beat stunting developments in both fields. But with enough patients and...
Enjoy summer with QIIB Cards

We at QIIB believe that you deserve a special summer full of surprises. For that reason, we have amazing opportunities lined up for you to win cash prizes when you use your QIIB Cards (Credit and Debit) for your purchases inside and outside the State of Qatar.

Eligibility:
- Enter the draw to win a weekly prize of QR. 10,000. Receive one entry for every QR. 100 spent on your Credit Card in Qatar or two entries for every QR. 100 spent on your Debit or Credit Card outside of Qatar.*
- Enter the draw to win the final prize of QR. 100,000. Receive one entry for every QR. 100 spent on your Credit Card in Qatar or two entries for every QR. 100 spent on your Debit or Credit Card outside of Qatar.
- Minimum spend of QR 20,000 during the period of the offer to enter the draw.
- Offer is valid for all Visa Debit Card holders for the transactions outside Qatar.
- Offer is valid for all Visa Credit Card holders for the transactions inside and outside Qatar.

VISA

Call us on 44840000 or visit www.qiib.com.qa

JAGUAR RANGE
SATISFY ALL YOUR DRIVING DESIRES

BUY YOUR DREAM JAGUAR NOW WITH THE OPTION TO START PAYING IN 2020

From efficient saloons to luxury performance SUVs to pure sports cars, we've got everything to satisfy your driving desires.

Visit Alfaradhan Premier Motors showroom to see our wide range of offers too.

Alfaradhan Premier Motors Co. (L.L.C.)
Burj Alfaradhan, Luwail City
Showroom Tel: +974 4440 8490
jaguar-qatar.com

This exclusive offer includes:
- No Down Payment for Nationals
- 10% Down Payment for Expatriates
- Up to 6 Years Financing Plans
- Up to 6 Months Grace Period
- No Salary Transfer Required
- Complimentary Full Insurance for First Year
- 5 Years Warranty / 150,000 KM (whichever comes first)
- Up to 5 Years Maintenance / $5,000 KMF (whichever comes first)
- 5 Years Road Side Assistance / 150,000 KMF (whichever comes first)

This offer is valid from July 14, 2019 until October 17, 2019
In collaboration with First Finance