Amir, Macron discuss ties

His Highness the Amir Sheikh Tamim bin Hamad al-Thani yesterday met French President Emmanuel Macron at the Elysee Palace.

Later the Amir attended a working lunch hosted by Macron at the palace.

The Amir and the French president discussed the development of strategic ties and cooperation.

The talks also focused on the latest developments in the region and the world, particularly in the Gulf and Libya.

The working lunch was attended by members of the official delegation accompanying the Amir.

On the French side, the meeting was attended by a number of ministers and ranking officials.

The Amir arrived in Paris on Wednesday evening.

He will attend the 74th session of the UN General Assembly, which will take place at the UN’s headquarters in New York.

He will deliver a speech during the opening session of the General Assembly on September 24.

Amir to meet UK PM today

His Highness the Amir Sheikh Tamim bin Hamad al-Thani will hold talks with British Prime Minister Boris Johnson in London today.

The talks at 10 Downing Street will centre on strengthening strategic relations and bilateral cooperation in various fields of partnership.

The two leaders will also exchange views on the latest developments in the region and the world.

Commenting on the Amir’s London visit, British Ambassador to Qatar Ajay Sharma said the relationship between the UK and Qatar was historic, deep and important.

“We in the UK are entering a new period in our history as we leave the European Union. It is a good illustration of the strength of the relationship that in this key moment in our history, we have a meeting between our Prime Minister Boris Johnson and His Highness the Amir Sheikh Tamim bin Hamad al-Thani,” the ambassador said.

Sharma said “one of the outcomes from the Prime Minister-Amir meeting will, I hope, be stronger cooperation in areas of mutual benefit. We in the UK and Qatar have enhanced mutual understanding and standing together, in making this region as stable as possible, and that means looking at ways to promote dialogue and peaceful resolution of disputes and disagreements.”
Qatar scores on ‘well-being’, moves up in SEDA rankings

Sheikha Moza meets president of World Bank Group

Chinese cultural centre to open in Doha: envoy

SC workshop on security concludes

Labour minister meets Malaysian official

Qatar strongly condemns bombing in Mogadishu

President of Austria receives credentials of Qatar’s envoy

Amir sends written message to king of Malaysia

Amir sends condolences to president of Chad

Indian embassy, Doha — will hold the 24th Winter Olympic Games in 2022, and Qatar’s wealth to well-being coeffi cient rose in comparison to the rest of the world.

His Highness the Amir Sheikh Tamim bin Hamad Al Thani has sent a written message to the president of Chad, Idriss Deby Itno, expressing Qatar’s genuine support and condemnation of the terrorist attack on the south of the former president of Chad and the military coup.

Qatar strongly condemned this attack, which was carried out by a group of Spanish experts in the field of safety and security, noting that they have a wealth of experience in securing major events. He said that the workshop helped both the Qatari and Spanish governments learn from each other's experiences and make their systems stronger.

Chinese cultural centre to open in Doha: envoy

By Himayad Adly

The Chinese embassy in Doha will open a new cultural centre to be called the Chinese Cultural Centre in Doha (CCC). Zou Chuan has said. This was announced at a press conference yesterday in connection with the 13th anniversary of the establishment of the PRC and in celebration of the Chinese New Year, which falls on February 5.

The Chinese Cultural Centre will be opened on February 5, which is the Chinese New Year and marks the beginning of the Year of the Rat. The Cultural Centre will be located in the new building of the Chinese embassy in Doha.

The Chinese Cultural Centre will host various cultural events, such as Chinese New Year celebrations, cultural exhibitions, and Chinese language classes. The Centre will also host Chinese films and music performances and will be a place for Chinese citizens in Qatar to gather and celebrate their culture.

The Chinese Cultural Centre will be a bridge between the Chinese and Qatari communities, fostering cultural exchange and understanding. The Centre will also serve as a platform for cultural education and awareness.

The Centre will host various events, including cultural exhibitions, Chinese film screenings, Chinese language classes, and Chinese New Year celebrations. The Centre will also serve as a place for Chinese citizens in Qatar to gather and celebrate their culture.
Tunisia's ousted president Ben Ali dies in Saudi exile

By Angus McDougall and Tom James, Reuters

Tunisia's Zine El Abidine Ben Ali, whose overthrow in 2011 triggered the Arab Spring revolts, died in a hospital in Saudi Arabia on Wednesday after a period of ill health, a family source and confidant of the former dictator said. He was 83.

Ben Ali’s brother, Mohamed Ben Ali, and his daughter, Souad Ben Ali, told a news conference in London on Wednesday that Ben Ali had died in Saudi Arabia. He had been on the run since leaving Tunisia in January 2011.

The family later posted a picture of Ben Ali’s coffin on Facebook, saying he died peacefully in his sleep.

Ben Ali, the autocratic leader of Tunisia for 23 years, was driven from power in 2011 in a revolution that inspired other Arab Spring uprisings. He fled to Saudi Arabia and was later arrested and released in Qatar.

In his homeland, Ben Ali was revered and reviled. A symbol of a younger democratically-minded generation, he also came under fire for his role in the 2011 revolution, which began in December 2010.

“Tunisia’s revolution was the first non-violent revolution to succeed in ousting a dictator in the Arab world. It was a revolution of hope, of freedom, of democracy,” said Salwa Riahi, a doctor in Tunis.

But Tunisians also point to the instability that followed Ben Ali’s fall, with a spate of bomb attacks and assassinations and the rise of a radical Islam that has fueled a regional conflict between Islamists and the West.

“During his rule, we had a stable democracy. He was a stabilizer,” said Naceur Saied, a 47-year-old engineer who worked in Ben Ali’s government.

“After his fall, we had no stability. We had a dictatorship, a semi-fascist regime,” he said.

Ben Ali’s rule was marked by repression and corruption, and his fall led to the collapse of Tunisia’s development and political and economic momentum. He left behind a legacy of division and mistrust, with many Tunisians still divided over his legacy.

Al Jazeera marks producer's 1,000 days in Egyptian jail

Al Jazeera marks producer's 1,000 days in Egyptian jail

Al Jazeera's producer Ahmed Hanafi was arrested in Egypt in 2017 and has been held in solitary confinement for over a year. The Al Jazeera network has been a target of Egyptian authorities in recent years, with journalist and ex-political prisoner running for election by more than 99%.

Hanafi was arrested in 2017 on charges of "spreading false news" and "supporting terrorism". He was later released on bail, but his case was referred to a military court in 2018.

Hanafi's case is part of a broader crackdown on media freedom and independent journalism in Egypt, where authorities have shut down opposition newspapers, arrested journalists and bloggers, and imposed strict media controls.

Hanafi's family has called for his release, saying he is being held in inhumane conditions and that his health is deteriorating.

The Egyption authorities have denied all allegations of wrongdoing and have maintained that Hanafi is being held for national security reasons.

Lebanon exhibites drones used in alleged Israeli attack

Lebanon exhibites drones used in alleged Israeli attack

Lebanon's Hezbollah organization has exhibited drones allegedly used in an attack on Israeli position in the Bekaa valley earlier this week. The move comes amid ongoing tensions between Lebanon and Israel over the issue of drone use in the region.

Hezbollah leader Sheikh Hassan Nasrallah claimed the drones were used in response to Israeli attacks in the region, including an airstrike on a Hezbollah compound near the Lebanese border in May.

The exhibition comes amid a wider escalation in tensions between Israel and Lebanon, with both sides accusing each other of violating the border and engaging in espionage activities.

The Lebanese government has repeatedly called for a diplomatic solution to the crisis, but Israel has remained resolute in its posture, threatening to take stronger measures if necessary.

Al Jazeera joins 42nd ISO General Assembly meet in Cape Town

Al Jazeera joins 42nd ISO General Assembly meet in Cape Town

Qatar participated in the 42nd ISO General Assembly meet in Cape Town, which kicked off on Cape Town. The event is being attended by delegates from more than 124 countries and various regional and international organizations that work in the field of standardization.

Qatar's delegation is being led by Ambassador Mohammad Al-Mabrouk, the Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs and Deputy Director-General at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and Environment. He is accompanied by delegation head Dr. Faiz Al-Deen Al-Tameem, who is Member of the Qatari National Committee for Standardization and Metrology.

Qatar is participating in the ISO General Assembly meet to exchange views and experiences on the developments and trends in the field of standardization and to explore the opportunities and challenges that may arise.

In addition, it will provide context and discussions to facilitate the ISO’s strategy and identify priorities and opportunities creating international standards, to keep up with global developments.

Al Jazeera and its sister network Al Jazeera English have been at the forefront of international media coverage of Lebanon and the Middle East, regularly publishing analysis and commentary on the region's political, social, and economic developments.

The network has been known for its in-depth coverage of topics such as the Syrian conflict, the Gaza war, and the Arab Spring, as well as its investigative reporting on issues such as the Palestinian cause and the occupation of the West Bank.

Al Jazeera has won numerous awards for its journalism, including the Polis Award for Excellence in Media Studies, and has been recognized for its commitment to independent, balanced, and in-depth coverage of the region's events.
All of Liberia school fire victimes were of Guinean origin, says ambassador

A total of 28 people died in a fire at a northern Guinean secondary school when the fire began overnight, according to the country’s education minister.

The fire was reported to have started at 6:30am on Friday morning, and by the time firefighters arrived, the blaze had already spread to several classrooms. By the time it was extinguished, around 200 students were trapped inside the building.

The cause of the fire is not yet known, but it is believed to have started in one of the classrooms, and quickly spread to other parts of the school. The school has a capacity of around 1,000 students, and many of the victims were reported to have died in the classrooms where the fire started.

A teacher who was inside the school at the time told media that the fire had broken out suddenly, and that the school had no firefighting equipment.

“People are in shock,” the teacher said. “We had no time to react. The fire spread quickly, and we were unable to evacuate the children.”

The school’s principal, who was also inside the building at the time, said he had tried to alert the authorities to the situation, but that the fire had spread too quickly.

“We had no time to react,” the principal said. “The fire was already out of control when we arrived.”

The situation has sparked outrage among parents and community members, who say that the school’s infrastructure is inadequate and that the tragedy could have been avoided if proper safety measures were in place.

Meanwhile, the Guinean government has announced plans to build new schools and provide more resources to existing ones in order to prevent similar incidents in the future.

Nigeria’s diesel-dependent economy braces for clean-fuel rules

By Lydia George, Abuja

Nigeria’s businesses and government officials are preparing for a new era of clean fuels, with the federal government set to introduce a ban on diesel and gasoline in the near future.

The move is part of a broader effort to reduce the country’s dependence on fossil fuels and shift to cleaner energy sources. The government has already announced plans to phase out fossil fuels in transport by 2025, and to reduce emissions from industry and agriculture.

However, the transition to clean fuels is expected to be challenging, particularly in industries that rely heavily on diesel and gasoline, such as transportation, manufacturing, and energy production.

The government has already introduced a number of incentives to encourage the adoption of clean fuels, including tax breaks and subsidies for importers and users of renewable energy.

But there are concerns that the transition could be costly, especially for companies that rely heavily on diesel and gasoline. Many businesses are already struggling to cope with rising fuel prices, and the transition will add to their financial burden.

The government has also acknowledged that the transition will require significant investment in infrastructure, such as the development of more sites using solar panels.

Despite these challenges, the government remains committed to the transition, and is working with international partners to ensure a smooth and successful transition to clean fuels.

Nigeria's diesel-dependent economy braces for clean-fuel rules

By Lydia George, Abuja

Nigeria’s businesses and government officials are preparing for a new era of clean fuels, with the federal government set to introduce a ban on diesel and gasoline in the near future.

The move is part of a broader effort to reduce the country’s dependence on fossil fuels and shift to cleaner energy sources. The government has already announced plans to phase out fossil fuels in transport by 2025, and to reduce emissions from industry and agriculture.

However, the transition to clean fuels is expected to be challenging, particularly in industries that rely heavily on diesel and gasoline, such as transportation, manufacturing, and energy production.

The government has already introduced a number of incentives to encourage the adoption of clean fuels, including tax breaks and subsidies for importers and users of renewable energy.

But there are concerns that the transition could be costly, especially for companies that rely heavily on diesel and gasoline. Many businesses are already struggling to cope with rising fuel prices, and the transition will add to their financial burden.

The government has also acknowledged that the transition will require significant investment in infrastructure, such as the development of more sites using solar panels.

Despite these challenges, the government remains committed to the transition, and is working with international partners to ensure a smooth and successful transition to clean fuels.

Nigeria's diesel-dependent economy braces for clean-fuel rules

By Lydia George, Abuja

Nigeria’s businesses and government officials are preparing for a new era of clean fuels, with the federal government set to introduce a ban on diesel and gasoline in the near future.

The move is part of a broader effort to reduce the country’s dependence on fossil fuels and shift to cleaner energy sources. The government has already announced plans to phase out fossil fuels in transport by 2025, and to reduce emissions from industry and agriculture.

However, the transition to clean fuels is expected to be challenging, particularly in industries that rely heavily on diesel and gasoline, such as transportation, manufacturing, and energy production.

The government has already introduced a number of incentives to encourage the adoption of clean fuels, including tax breaks and subsidies for importers and users of renewable energy.

But there are concerns that the transition could be costly, especially for companies that rely heavily on diesel and gasoline. Many businesses are already struggling to cope with rising fuel prices, and the transition will add to their financial burden.

The government has also acknowledged that the transition will require significant investment in infrastructure, such as the development of more sites using solar panels.

Despite these challenges, the government remains committed to the transition, and is working with international partners to ensure a smooth and successful transition to clean fuels.

Nigeria's diesel-dependent economy braces for clean-fuel rules

By Lydia George, Abuja

Nigeria’s businesses and government officials are preparing for a new era of clean fuels, with the federal government set to introduce a ban on diesel and gasoline in the near future.

The move is part of a broader effort to reduce the country’s dependence on fossil fuels and shift to cleaner energy sources. The government has already announced plans to phase out fossil fuels in transport by 2025, and to reduce emissions from industry and agriculture.

However, the transition to clean fuels is expected to be challenging, particularly in industries that rely heavily on diesel and gasoline, such as transportation, manufacturing, and energy production.

The government has already introduced a number of incentives to encourage the adoption of clean fuels, including tax breaks and subsidies for importers and users of renewable energy.

But there are concerns that the transition could be costly, especially for companies that rely heavily on diesel and gasoline. Many businesses are already struggling to cope with rising fuel prices, and the transition will add to their financial burden.

The government has also acknowledged that the transition will require significant investment in infrastructure, such as the development of more sites using solar panels.

Despite these challenges, the government remains committed to the transition, and is working with international partners to ensure a smooth and successful transition to clean fuels.

Nigeria's diesel-dependent economy braces for clean-fuel rules

By Lydia George, Abuja

Nigeria’s businesses and government officials are preparing for a new era of clean fuels, with the federal government set to introduce a ban on diesel and gasoline in the near future.

The move is part of a broader effort to reduce the country’s dependence on fossil fuels and shift to cleaner energy sources. The government has already announced plans to phase out fossil fuels in transport by 2025, and to reduce emissions from industry and agriculture.

However, the transition to clean fuels is expected to be challenging, particularly in industries that rely heavily on diesel and gasoline, such as transportation, manufacturing, and energy production.

The government has already introduced a number of incentives to encourage the adoption of clean fuels, including tax breaks and subsidies for importers and users of renewable energy.

But there are concerns that the transition could be costly, especially for companies that rely heavily on diesel and gasoline. Many businesses are already struggling to cope with rising fuel prices, and the transition will add to their financial burden.

The government has also acknowledged that the transition will require significant investment in infrastructure, such as the development of more sites using solar panels.

Despite these challenges, the government remains committed to the transition, and is working with international partners to ensure a smooth and successful transition to clean fuels.

Nigeria's diesel-dependent economy braces for clean-fuel rules

By Lydia George, Abuja

Nigeria’s businesses and government officials are preparing for a new era of clean fuels, with the federal government set to introduce a ban on diesel and gasoline in the near future.

The move is part of a broader effort to reduce the country’s dependence on fossil fuels and shift to cleaner energy sources. The government has already announced plans to phase out fossil fuels in transport by 2025, and to reduce emissions from industry and agriculture.

However, the transition to clean fuels is expected to be challenging, particularly in industries that rely heavily on diesel and gasoline, such as transportation, manufacturing, and energy production.

The government has already introduced a number of incentives to encourage the adoption of clean fuels, including tax breaks and subsidies for importers and users of renewable energy.

But there are concerns that the transition could be costly, especially for companies that rely heavily on diesel and gasoline. Many businesses are already struggling to cope with rising fuel prices, and the transition will add to their financial burden.

The government has also acknowledged that the transition will require significant investment in infrastructure, such as the development of more sites using solar panels.

Despite these challenges, the government remains committed to the transition, and is working with international partners to ensure a smooth and successful transition to clean fuels.
US vaping-related illness cases rise to 530

US Panel probes whistleblower complaint involving president

Amazon 'carbon neutral by 2040' with aid from Bezos

Tillerson: Netanyahu 'played' Trump with misinformation
Malaysia explores diplomatic options as Indonesia fires raise smog levels

A mobile court of Rapid Action Battalion (RAB) personnel, the elite anti-crime unit of Bangladesh Police, detaincause of Bangladesh Police during a raid in Dhaka.

Bangladesh rural families shoulder costs of coping with climate change

Three killed in ‘gunfight’ with police in Bangladesh

A female member of the Bangladesh Rural Advancement Committee (BRAC) was killed in an alleged gunfight with police in Gaibandha, 132 miles north of Dhaka, the capital.

Lanka family in deportation row gets another reprieve

A Tamil family at the centre of a heated deportation row into what it says is an insecure life has been granted another reprieve by a court yesterday after a high court judge ruled they could stay in the country.

The Philippines detects first case of polio since 2001

While the virus was also detected in the southern city of Davao, it is not clear how the virus got into the country as vaccination coverage is very low, a government official said yesterday.

Health authorities said a suspected case, but gave no details, was reported in the capital, Manila, yesterday, putting some of the polio vaccine Roulette, which have been multiplying in the country in recent years, have been linked to outbreaks of dengue and polio in the past.

In Malaysia, the strong smog that led to out-of-control fires sweeping the country yesterday was sent to Indonesia in a bid to induce rain, since it has been performing cloud-seeding, which involves using chemicals to make the sky visible.

Health authorities in Malaysia have said they will only be able to protect against the smog at the airport and assist those who do not feel well, Singapore also insists the event remains under control.

The haze, but insist the event remains under control.

Family members of two refugees and a local resident killed during a clash with police in the capital, Kuala Lumpur, yesterday, put some of the police officers and local government officials to blame.

Australia was given yet another diplomatic option yesterday, putting some of the vaccine manufacturers that have been exposed to this virus and dengue outbreaks earlier this year, killing more than three thousand people, as many parents did not get their children vaccinated.

A mobile court of Rapid Action Battalion (RAB) personnel, the elite anti-crime unit of Bangladesh Police, detain cause of Bangladesh Police during a raid in Dhaka.

Three killed in ‘gunfight’ with police in Bangladesh

A female member of the Bangladesh Rural Advancement Committee (BRAC) was killed in an alleged gunfight with police in Gaibandha, 132 miles north of Dhaka, the capital.

Lanka family in deportation row gets another reprieve

A Tamil family at the centre of a heated deportation row into what it says is an insecure life has been granted another reprieve by a court yesterday after a high court judge ruled they could stay in the country.

The Philippines detects first case of polio since 2001

While the virus was also detected in the southern city of Davao, it is not clear how the virus got into the country as vaccination coverage is very low, a government official said yesterday.

Health authorities said a suspected case, but gave no details, was reported in the capital, Manila, yesterday, putting some of the polio vaccine Roulette, which have been multiplying in the country in recent years, have been linked to outbreaks of dengue and polio in the past.

In Malaysia, the strong smog that led to out-of-control fires sweeping the country yesterday was sent to Indonesia in a bid to induce rain, since it has been performing cloud-seeding, which involves using chemicals to make the sky visible.

Health authorities in Malaysia have said they will only be able to protect against the smog at the airport and assist those who do not feel well, Singapore also insists the event remains under control.

The haze, but insist the event remains under control.

Family members of two refugees and a local resident killed during a clash with police in the capital, Kuala Lumpur, yesterday, put some of the police officers and local government officials to blame.

Australia was given yet another diplomatic option yesterday, putting some of the vaccine manufacturers that have been exposed to this virus and dengue outbreaks earlier this year, killing more than three thousand people, as many parents did not get their children vaccinated.

A mobile court of Rapid Action Battalion (RAB) personnel, the elite anti-crime unit of Bangladesh Police, detain cause of Bangladesh Police during a raid in Dhaka.

Three killed in ‘gunfight’ with police in Bangladesh

A female member of the Bangladesh Rural Advancement Committee (BRAC) was killed in an alleged gunfight with police in Gaibandha, 132 miles north of Dhaka, the capital.

Lanka family in deportation row gets another reprieve

A Tamil family at the centre of a heated deportation row into what it says is an insecure life has been granted another reprieve by a court yesterday after a high court judge ruled they could stay in the country.

The Philippines detects first case of polio since 2001

While the virus was also detected in the southern city of Davao, it is not clear how the virus got into the country as vaccination coverage is very low, a government official said yesterday.

Health authorities said a suspected case, but gave no details, was reported in the capital, Manila, yesterday, putting some of the polio vaccine Roulette, which have been multiplying in the country in recent years, have been linked to outbreaks of dengue and polio in the past.

In Malaysia, the strong smog that led to out-of-control fires sweeping the country yesterday was sent to Indonesia in a bid to induce rain, since it has been performing cloud-seeding, which involves using chemicals to make the sky visible.

Health authorities in Malaysia have said they will only be able to protect against the smog at the airport and assist those who do not feel well, Singapore also insists the event remains under control.

The haze, but insist the event remains under control.

Family members of two refugees and a local resident killed during a clash with police in the capital, Kuala Lumpur, yesterday, put some of the police officers and local government officials to blame.

Australia was given yet another diplomatic option yesterday, putting some of the vaccine manufacturers that have been exposed to this virus and dengue outbreaks earlier this year, killing more than three thousand people, as many parents did not get their children vaccinated.

A mobile court of Rapid Action Battalion (RAB) personnel, the elite anti-crime unit of Bangladesh Police, detain cause of Bangladesh Police during a raid in Dhaka.

Three killed in ‘gunfight’ with police in Bangladesh

A female member of the Bangladesh Rural Advancement Committee (BRAC) was killed in an alleged gunfight with police in Gaibandha, 132 miles north of Dhaka, the capital.

Lanka family in deportation row gets another reprieve

A Tamil family at the centre of a heated deportation row into what it says is an insecure life has been granted another reprieve by a court yesterday after a high court judge ruled they could stay in the country.

The Philippines detects first case of polio since 2001

While the virus was also detected in the southern city of Davao, it is not clear how the virus got into the country as vaccination coverage is very low, a government official said yesterday.

Health authorities said a suspected case, but gave no details, was reported in the capital, Manila, yesterday, putting some of the polio vaccine Roulette, which have been multiplying in the country in recent years, have been linked to outbreaks of dengue and polio in the past.

In Malaysia, the strong smog that led to out-of-control fires sweeping the country yesterday was sent to Indonesia in a bid to induce rain, since it has been performing cloud-seeding, which involves using chemicals to make the sky visible.

Health authorities in Malaysia have said they will only be able to protect against the smog at the airport and assist those who do not feel well, Singapore also insists the event remains under control.

The haze, but insist the event remains under control.

Family members of two refugees and a local resident killed during a clash with police in the capital, Kuala Lumpur, yesterday, put some of the police officers and local government officials to blame.

Australia was given yet another diplomatic option yesterday, putting some of the vaccine manufacturers that have been exposed to this virus and dengue outbreaks earlier this year, killing more than three thousand people, as many parents did not get their children vaccinated.

A mobile court of Rapid Action Battalion (RAB) personnel, the elite anti-crime unit of Bangladesh Police, detain cause of Bangladesh Police during a raid in Dhaka.

Three killed in ‘gunfight’ with police in Bangladesh

A female member of the Bangladesh Rural Advancement Committee (BRAC) was killed in an alleged gunfight with police in Gaibandha, 132 miles north of Dhaka, the capital.

Lanka family in deportation row gets another reprieve

A Tamil family at the centre of a heated deportation row into what it says is an insecure life has been granted another reprieve by a court yesterday after a high court judge ruled they could stay in the country.

The Philippines detects first case of polio since 2001

While the virus was also detected in the southern city of Davao, it is not clear how the virus got into the country as vaccination coverage is very low, a government official said yesterday.

Health authorities said a suspected case, but gave no details, was reported in the capital, Manila, yesterday, putting some of the polio vaccine Roulette, which have been multiplying in the country in recent years, have been linked to outbreaks of dengue and polio in the past.

In Malaysia, the strong smog that led to out-of-control fires sweeping the country yesterday was sent to Indonesia in a bid to induce rain, since it has been performing cloud-seeding, which involves using chemicals to make the sky visible.

Health authorities in Malaysia have said they will only be able to protect against the smog at the airport and assist those who do not feel well, Singapore also insists the event remains under control.

The haze, but insist the event remains under control.
HK leader Lam to take part in ‘open dialogue’

Tongan PM Pohiva laid to rest

Tuvalu changes PM, adds to concerns over backing in Taiwan in the Pacific

Solomons leader may miss UN general assembly assembly amid ‘switch’

Panda death in Thailand stirs suspicion in China

Tonga’s Pohiva, known as ‘noisy, exuberant’

Hong Kong leader to participate in ‘open dialogue’

Hundreds of mourners ahead of Tonga’s body to be laid to rest

Tuvalu’s new prime minister, Kausea Natano, will hold the reins of the kingdom’s government for the next three years.

Days ahead of Tonga’s prime minister, Pohiva’s, death, the government confirmed arrangements for his funeral.

Tonga PM Pohiva laid to rest

A military ship is sent to Tonga to take part in a humanitarian mission.

A statement released by the Tongan government said Pohiva’s body will be flown to the capital, Nuku’alofa, on Saturday.

Tonga Suva in recent months and Tai-

Tuvalu’s new prime minister, Kausea Natano, will hold the reins of the kingdom’s government for the next three years.

A military ship is sent to Tonga to take part in a humanitarian mission.

A statement released by the Tongan government said Pohiva’s body will be flown to the capital, Nuku’alofa, on Saturday.

Tonga PM Pohiva laid to rest

A military ship is sent to Tonga to take part in a humanitarian mission.

A statement released by the Tongan government said Pohiva’s body will be flown to the capital, Nuku’alofa, on Saturday.

Tonga Suva in recent months and Tai-

Tuvalu’s new prime minister, Kausea Natano, will hold the reins of the kingdom’s government for the next three years.

A military ship is sent to Tonga to take part in a humanitarian mission.

A statement released by the Tongan government said Pohiva’s body will be flown to the capital, Nuku’alofa, on Saturday.

Tonga PM Pohiva laid to rest

A military ship is sent to Tonga to take part in a humanitarian mission.

A statement released by the Tongan government said Pohiva’s body will be flown to the capital, Nuku’alofa, on Saturday.

Tonga Suva in recent months and Tai-

Tuvalu’s new prime minister, Kausea Natano, will hold the reins of the kingdom’s government for the next three years.

A military ship is sent to Tonga to take part in a humanitarian mission.

A statement released by the Tongan government said Pohiva’s body will be flown to the capital, Nuku’alofa, on Saturday.

Tonga PM Pohiva laid to rest

A military ship is sent to Tonga to take part in a humanitarian mission.

A statement released by the Tongan government said Pohiva’s body will be flown to the capital, Nuku’alofa, on Saturday.

Tonga Suva in recent months and Tai-

Tuvalu’s new prime minister, Kausea Natano, will hold the reins of the kingdom’s government for the next three years.

A military ship is sent to Tonga to take part in a humanitarian mission.

A statement released by the Tongan government said Pohiva’s body will be flown to the capital, Nuku’alofa, on Saturday.
Millions in England one pay cheque away from homelessness

Thomson Reuters Foundation

A report by the Children’s Centre in London yesterday.

Campaigner Gene Millar arrives at the Supreme Court for the hearing on Prime Minister Boris Johnson’s decision to prorogue parliament ahead of Brexit, in London yesterday.

BRITAIN

Asylum seeker denied cancer treatment by gov’t dies

Guardian News and Media

Asylum seeker Gene Mulat, a mother-of-one, was "left to die" by the government. "It is not a simple question of the law," said the man who refused to give his name.

Cameron regrets comment on Queen

Guardian News and Media

Cameron regrets comment on Queen

Royal visit

Catherine, Duchess of Cambridge, visits Sunshine House Children and Young People’s Health and Development Centre in London yesterday.

Court to rule next week on parliament suspension

 AFP

The Supreme Court yesterday announced it will rule on next week on whether Prime Minister Boris Johnson’s decision to prorogue parliament ahead of Brexit was unlawful.

PM caught lying to dad over dead child

PM Theresa May has admitted lying to her dad about the death of her child in 2003, but has insisted she was "telling the truth".

DfT Cameron has admitted that he was "tired" and "frazzled" when he walked into the cabinet room to announce that he had resigned, but insisted that he was not lying.

DfT Cameron has admitted that he was "tired" and "frazzled" when he walked into the cabinet room to announce that he had resigned, but insisted that he was not lying.

Asylum seeker Gene Mulat, a mother-of-one, was "left to die" by the government.

It is not a simple question of the law," said the man who refused to give his name.

Cameron regrets comment on Queen

Guardian News and Media

Cameron regrets comment on Queen

Royal visit

Catherine, Duchess of Cambridge, visits Sunshine House Children and Young People’s Health and Development Centre in London yesterday.

Court to rule next week on parliament suspension

 AFP

The Supreme Court yesterday announced it will rule on next week on whether Prime Minister Boris Johnson’s decision to prorogue parliament ahead of Brexit was unlawful.

PM caught lying to dad over dead child

PM Theresa May has admitted lying to her dad about the death of her child in 2003, but has insisted she was "telling the truth".

DfT Cameron has admitted that he was "tired" and "frazzled" when he walked into the cabinet room to announce that he had resigned, but insisted that he was not lying.

Asylum seeker Gene Mulat, a mother-of-one, was "left to die" by the government.

It is not a simple question of the law," said the man who refused to give his name.

Cameron regrets comment on Queen

Guardian News and Media

Cameron regrets comment on Queen

Royal visit

Catherine, Duchess of Cambridge, visits Sunshine House Children and Young People’s Health and Development Centre in London yesterday.

Court to rule next week on parliament suspension

 AFP

The Supreme Court yesterday announced it will rule on next week on whether Prime Minister Boris Johnson’s decision to prorogue parliament ahead of Brexit was unlawful.

PM caught lying to dad over dead child

PM Theresa May has admitted lying to her dad about the death of her child in 2003, but has insisted she was "telling the truth".

DfT Cameron has admitted that he was "tired" and "frazzled" when he walked into the cabinet room to announce that he had resigned, but insisted that he was not lying.

Asylum seeker Gene Mulat, a mother-of-one, was "left to die" by the government.

It is not a simple question of the law," said the man who refused to give his name.
Germany targets Airbus in military spying probe

German ministers slam Airbus as 'foes of migrant rescues'

Macron considers 'yellow vest' crisis as 'good'

Germany targets Airbus in military spying probe

Panther found roaming French rooftops

Thousands of dead fish wash up on Greek lake

Pilot saved from power line after Belgian F-16 crashes in France

French President Francois Hollande is due to hold talks with fellow EU leaders later on Wednesday over how to tackle Europe's migrant flow crisis.

Airbus, Europe's largest aerospace company, has been accused of breaking French law in an espionage scandal, a senior French official said on Tuesday.

"It is a sad case that Airbus is breaking the law in an espionage scandal," French Interior Minister Christophe Castaner said in a statement.

"This is a serious matter that we will take very seriously," Castaner added.

"We have launched an investigation into the case and will take the necessary steps to ensure that the law is respected," he said.

Airbus has yet to respond to the allegations.

The allegations come after a report in late 2016 by a French newspaper claimed that Airbus had been operating a secret surveillance network in France.

"We are not commenting on any allegations," an Airbus spokesperson told the Agence France-Presse (AFP) news agency.

"Airbus will continue to cooperate fully with the authorities in any investigation or legal proceedings related to this matter," the spokesperson added.

Airbus is a European aerospace company that designs, manufactures and sells aircraft.

"This is not about Airbus alone, but about the whole industry," Castaner said.

He added that the investigation would examine whether other companies had also been involved in similar activities.

"We are not commenting on any allegations," an Airbus spokesperson told AFP.

"Airbus will continue to cooperate fully with the authorities in any investigation or legal proceedings related to this matter," the spokesperson added.

President Emmanuel Macron also said that he had asked for a further investigation into the matter.

"It is a serious matter that we will take very seriously," Castaner said.

"We have launched an investigation into the case and will take the necessary steps to ensure that the law is respected," he said.

The allegations come after a report in late 2016 by a French newspaper claimed that Airbus had been operating a secret surveillance network in France.

"We are not commenting on any allegations," an Airbus spokesperson told AFP.

"Airbus will continue to cooperate fully with the authorities in any investigation or legal proceedings related to this matter," the spokesperson added.

President Emmanuel Macron also said that he had asked for a further investigation into the matter.

"It is a serious matter that we will take very seriously," Castaner said.

"We have launched an investigation into the case and will take the necessary steps to ensure that the law is respected," he said.

The allegations come after a report in late 2016 by a French newspaper claimed that Airbus had been operating a secret surveillance network in France.

"We are not commenting on any allegations," an Airbus spokesperson told AFP.

"Airbus will continue to cooperate fully with the authorities in any investigation or legal proceedings related to this matter," the spokesperson added.

President Emmanuel Macron also said that he had asked for a further investigation into the matter.

"It is a serious matter that we will take very seriously," Castaner said.

"We have launched an investigation into the case and will take the necessary steps to ensure that the law is respected," he said.

The allegations come after a report in late 2016 by a French newspaper claimed that Airbus had been operating a secret surveillance network in France.

"We are not commenting on any allegations," an Airbus spokesperson told AFP.

"Airbus will continue to cooperate fully with the authorities in any investigation or legal proceedings related to this matter," the spokesperson added.
Three arrested for conning NRI actress

Three men who defrauded a NRI actress of Rs 300,000 by posing as UK police have been arrested, police said Thursday.

The victims told police that a woman named Shalini, aged 25, had been duped by the fraudsters.

The Police have not yet released the full details of the case, but sources said that the woman had been scammed last month.

The woman had received a call from a number which was not listed in her contact list.

She was told that she had been scammed through a scam email and that she would need to pay Rs 300,000 to avoid legal action.

The woman transferred the money to the fraudsters' account, but later realised that she had been duped.

She then reported the incident to the police and they launched an investigation.

The investigation revealed that the fraudsters had used fake police IDs to make it look like they were genuine officials.

The police have arrested three men, aged 23, 24 and 25, in connection with the case.

They are believed to be linked to a gang of fraudsters who have been operating in the UK for several years.

The police have warned people to be vigilant and to report any suspicious activity to the police immediately.

The fraudsters are believed to have targeted NRI women in the UK, who are often vulnerable to such scams.

The police have advised people to always verify the identity of the person calling them before transferring any money.
China

Shijiazhuang, Hebei Province, China

China has launched a broad anti-corruption campaign targeting both local and central government officials, according to state media.

The campaign, known as the "Three-Eighteen Action," aims to root out corruption at all levels of government, the official Xinhua News Agency reported.

Argentina

Buenos Aires

Argentina has轮廓化ed a new round of economic reforms, which include measures to curb inflation and boost exports, according to the state-run news agency.

The changes come as the country seeks to attract foreign investment and reduce its reliance on international aid.

Venezuela

Caracas, Venezuela

Venezuela's government has repeaded its effort to reestablish diplomatic ties with the United States, according to state media.

The announcement follows a recent GRUPO decision to grant political asylum to two former Venezuelan officials suspected of being involved in a plot to overthrow President Nicolas Maduro.

Mexico

Mexico City

Mexico has轮廓化ed a new wave of arrests and raids aimed at dismantling organized crime groups, according to state media.

The operations, carried out by the National Guard and the Federal Police, targeted several high-profile figures associated with drug trafficking and armed robbery.

Paraguay

Asuncion, Paraguay

Paraguay has轮廓化ed a major military operation to arrest suspected drug traffickers across the country, according to state media.

The operation, which involved ground troops deployed from foreign countries, was launched after a series of violent clashes with drug cartels in the country.

Spot News

Mexico City

Mexico轮廓化ed a new wave of arrests and raids aimed at dismantling organized crime groups, according to state media.

The operations, carried out by the National Guard and the Federal Police, targeted several high-profile figures associated with drug trafficking and armed robbery.

Spot News

Mexico City

The Mexican authorities have轮廓化ed a major military operation to arrest suspected drug traffickers across the country, according to state media.

The operation, which involved ground troops deployed from foreign countries, was launched after a series of violent clashes with drug cartels in the country.

Spot News

Asuncion, Paraguay

Paraguay轮廓化ed a major military operation to arrest suspected drug traffickers across the country, according to state media.

The operation, which involved ground troops deployed from foreign countries, was launched after a series of violent clashes with drug cartels in the country.
PM: No talks unless India restores Kashmir status

T he government has decided to improve performance by undertaking reforms to align the performance management system with the aspirations of citizens. The new management system has allowed for the identification of the top 20% performers, who will be promoted to positions at the top 20% of the border crossing system. The prime minister, Khan, said that in the past few years, Pakistan had improved its performance in meeting the expectations of citizens.

Khan also mentioned that the nation's top 20% performers would be given promotions and rewards. He added that the government had decided to improve performance in meeting the expectations of citizens.

Khan said, “We have to improve our performance in meeting the expectations of citizens. We have to improve our performance in the performance management system.”

Prime Minister Khan added, “We have to improve our performance in meeting the expectations of citizens. We have to improve our performance in the performance management system.”

Khan also mentioned that the nation's top 20% performers would be given promotions and rewards. He added that the government had decided to improve performance in meeting the expectations of citizens.

Khan said, “We have to improve our performance in meeting the expectations of citizens. We have to improve our performance in the performance management system.”

Prime Minister Khan added, “We have to improve our performance in meeting the expectations of citizens. We have to improve our performance in the performance management system.”

Khan also mentioned that the nation's top 20% performers would be given promotions and rewards. He added that the government had decided to improve performance in meeting the expectations of citizens.

Khan said, “We have to improve our performance in meeting the expectations of citizens. We have to improve our performance in the performance management system.”

Prime Minister Khan added, “We have to improve our performance in meeting the expectations of citizens. We have to improve our performance in the performance management system.”

Khan also mentioned that the nation's top 20% performers would be given promotions and rewards. He added that the government had decided to improve performance in meeting the expectations of citizens.

Khan said, “We have to improve our performance in meeting the expectations of citizens. We have to improve our performance in the performance management system.”

Prime Minister Khan added, “We have to improve our performance in meeting the expectations of citizens. We have to improve our performance in the performance management system.”

Khan also mentioned that the nation's top 20% performers would be given promotions and rewards. He added that the government had decided to improve performance in meeting the expectations of citizens.

Khan said, “We have to improve our performance in meeting the expectations of citizens. We have to improve our performance in the performance management system.”

Prime Minister Khan added, “We have to improve our performance in meeting the expectations of citizens. We have to improve our performance in the performance management system.”

Khan also mentioned that the nation's top 20% performers would be given promotions and rewards. He added that the government had decided to improve performance in meeting the expectations of citizens.

Khan said, “We have to improve our performance in meeting the expectations of citizens. We have to improve our performance in the performance management system.”

Prime Minister Khan added, “We have to improve our performance in meeting the expectations of citizens. We have to improve our performance in the performance management system.”
Freeing the heart from spite and grudges

W hen people want to visit others they like, they take the opportunity to be with their beloved ones, to be associated with them. After having been with them, they feel satisfied, contented, and happy, for they have felt that they have been loved, and that they are loved. On the other hand, people who are not loved and who feel that they are not loved are brought into a state of depression and despondency. Allah says (what means): “And if it happen to you to sit with the Prophet, be patient and do not let your hearts be disheartened, and do not say: This or that. If he takes you aside, he has known better than you, and Allah guides in the right way.” [Quran 3:158].

People who are not loved stand in need of external devices to overcome some of their bad feelings. This is the reason why Iman Ibn Taymiyyah, may Allah have mercy upon him, said: “I will not forgive any of you if you do not forgive each other.” [Al-Bukhari and Muslim].

There is no need to buy things that your Muslim brother cannot afford, or that he can afford only with difficulty. Allah says (what means): “Then say (O you believers who are of the strong faith) to your fellow believers who are of the weak faith: ‘Do you love Allah?’ They will say: ‘Indeed, we love Him.’ You say: ‘Then put your love for Allah to practice; and whoever disobeys Allah and His Messenger, he is one of the losers.’ ” [Quran 3:98].

In a way, all the people today are at war with each other, and some are without the support of their brothers. Allah, sallallaahu ‘alaihi wa sallam, says (what means): “Verily your Lord is the one Who accepts repentance, and He forgives anything that they (the Believers) may do, and Whom He has pleased will have the Garden of Eden to dwell therein forever. Verily, that is the great success.” [Quran 3:130].

As for the relationship, it is not an impossible missionary effort, and can be achieved through the following steps:

1. Patience, love and care to achieve an agreement. The neighbors, may Allah have mercy upon them, became the Caliph and wanted that all the Muslims who were in the prison to be released. "O my fellow Muslims,” he said, “I do not like to see anyone from the Muslims in a dark place as the world can at times be, therefore I do not like to see any Muslim in prison.”

2. Certainty which negates Doubt. Only those who have immersed themselves in the sweetness of faith can attain certainty. Allah, sallallaahu ‘alaihi wa sallam, says (what means): “And what We have sent you with is not to please those who dwell in the earth; but rather We have sent you with a truth that will make manifest those who were in the darkness to emerge from darkness into Light.” [Quran 2:257].

3. Acceptance which negates Rejection or Ignorance. People are three types: one who is a diseased soul, one who has been born bad, and each will be rewarded for striving to make this world a better place. Those who strive to do what is correct and avoid evil, and each will be rewarded twice, once for striving to do what is right, and the other time for his obedience. A person who is a diseased soul is a person who cannot act according to the truth, and will not forgive any of you for doing so. Allah says (what means): “And to be pardoned? And we indeed tested those who were obedient to us.” [Quran 57:29].

4. Loving the Messenger (sallallaahu ‘alaihi wa sallam). In this connection, I would like to quote a saying of the Prophet’s, sallallaahu ‘alaihi wa sallam, saying: “The devil has despaired of having you enter Paradise.” [Al-Bukhari and Muslim].

The meaning of the right of faith is to believe in Allah and to obey His Messenger (sallallaahu ‘alaihi wa sallam), who is his vicegerent. The believer who does not obey the Messenger (sallallaahu ‘alaihi wa sallam) will not be trusted by Allah in this world or in the Hereafter. “He who does not obey my honor, I will not be able to look into his face in the Hereafter.” [Imam Ahmad].

The Prophet (sallallaahu ‘alaihi wa sallam) said: “The one who loves Allah must love His Messenger (sallallaahu ‘alaihi wa sallam).” [Al-Bukhari and Muslim].

5. Love and devotion which negates disdain. The Believers are three types: one who is a diseased soul, one who has been born bad, and each will be rewarded for striving to make this world a better place. Those who strive to do what is correct and avoid evil, and each will be rewarded twice, once for striving to do what is right, and the other time for his obedience. A person who is a diseased soul is a person who cannot act according to the truth, and will not forgive any of you for doing so. Allah says (what means): “And to be pardoned? And we indeed tested those who were obedient to us.” [Quran 57:29].

6. Submission which negates Disobedience. The Prophets and the Companions of the Messenger (sallallaahu ‘alaihi wa sallam) showed a great love and submission to the Messenger of Allah (sallallaahu ‘alaihi wa sallam). They have said: “We are servants of the Messenger of Allah (sallallaahu ‘alaihi wa sallam).” [Al-Bukhari and Muslim].

7. Acceptance which negates Rejection or Ignorance. People are three types: one who is a diseased soul, one who has been born bad, and each will be rewarded for striving to make this world a better place. Those who strive to do what is correct and avoid evil, and each will be rewarded twice, once for striving to do what is right, and the other time for his obedience. A person who is a diseased soul is a person who cannot act according to the truth, and will not forgive any of you for doing so. Allah says (what means): “And to be pardoned? And we indeed tested those who were obedient to us.” [Quran 57:29].
Trump fight on auto emissions could outlast presidency

The expected legal battle over President Donald Trump’s plan to roll back Barack Obama’s restrictive auto emissions standards separate from those established by the US government appears unlikely to end with this week’s presidential election.

Democratic-led states and environmental groups have announced they will challenge the move by the Republican president, which is expected to relax federal mandates that were developed through years of debate.

He made the observation during his speech at the TEC4ALL Initiative event as part of Huawei Connect 2019. The event was held in Shanghai in the summer where Huawei Innovation Can Empower the World.

Chairman of the Executive Board of the Department of Science and Technology, Thomas W. (Bill) Chao said: “Revolutionizing the future through digital inclusion can help raise living standards, which may be tougher than the federal ones.

Not only, but if the Trump’s auto emissions rules are implemented, it will have a long-term impact on the environment.

As such, Huawei will help the US government implement a policy to bring clean energy to the world.

The US has been a leader in the global transition to clean energy, and the US government has set a target to achieve carbon neutrality by 2050. However, the Trump administration’s move to relax auto emissions standards could set back the country’s progress in this direction.

Huawei, as a global technology leader, is committed to supporting the US government’s efforts to promote sustainable development and combat climate change. The company believes that digital inclusion is key to achieving these goals.

Digital inclusion means using digital technology to promote education, innovation, and economic development in areas that are currently underserved. It can help bridge the digital divide and ensure that all Americans have access to the tools and resources needed to succeed in today’s digital world.

To achieve digital inclusion, Huawei is working with governments, businesses, and non-profit organizations to connect more people with high-speed internet and to provide them with digital literacy training.

There are many challenges to achieving digital inclusion, such as the cost of internet access, the lack of digital literacy, and the digital divide between urban and rural areas. However, Huawei is committed to working with partners to overcome these challenges and bring the benefits of digital technology to everyone.

In conclusion, the Trump administration’s auto emissions rules may have implications on the environment and the economy, but it is up to the US government to take action to ensure that digital inclusion is achieved.

Administration officials acknowledged that the fate of the rules may hinge on whether he wins a second term in office.

Trump’s use of technical jargon in his speech was unexpected, given his reputation for speaking plainly. His administration has said the rules were needed to provide more flexibility for automakers.

However, many environmental and consumer groups have criticized the rules as too weak to address the climate crisis.

California’s Democratic Governor, Gavin Newsom, has promised to fight any attempt to roll back the standards.

On social media, many reactions were critical of the announcement, with many calling for the Trump administration to reconsider its decision.

On Friday, September 20, 2019

Gulf Times
By Tarek Amara and Angus McDowall

Revolution revealed a popular yearning for change. It has left both his critics and supporters gawking at the narrow streets of the Kasbah – the area in which Saied was born and where he gathered there included hijab-wearing women and supporters of various religious and political groups. It has also left both critics and supporters asking what steps the draft constitution will take, and what sort of president Saied will be. – Reuters

Supporters of Saied, who spent much of his time travelling to campaign, say it cost him a price of a coffee and a signature of an opponent, presents him as a paragon of personal integrity.

Affordability is also a factor for people lower income status.

Affordability is also a factor for people lower income status. Approximately 70% people ride bicycles in the US, helping a lot of people to have affordable transport during their daily cycling. But, the share of people using bicycles in the world is much lower, around 10-15%.

According to United Nations, there are hundreds of thousands of people who die or suffer severe injuries every year due to cycling accidents, the study team.

Research had been done in the study had shown that more than 10% people ride bicycles in the US, helping a lot of people to have affordable transport during their daily cycling. But, the share of people using bicycles in the world is much lower, around 10-15%.

The study team are the ones who can deliver it.

According to United Nations, there are hundreds of thousands of people who die or suffer severe injuries every year due to cycling accidents, the study team.

Research had been done in the study had shown that more than 10% people ride bicycles in the US, helping a lot of people to have affordable transport during their daily cycling. But, the share of people using bicycles in the world is much lower, around 10-15%.

The study team are the ones who can deliver it.

According to United Nations, there are hundreds of thousands of people who die or suffer severe injuries every year due to cycling accidents, the study team.

The study team are the ones who can deliver it.

According to United Nations, there are hundreds of thousands of people who die or suffer severe injuries every year due to cycling accidents, the study team.

The study team are the ones who can deliver it.
Substantial progress on labour reforms: GCO

The Government Com- munication Office (GCO) has said that Qatar Airways has made a re- vert of its commitment to the high-profile human rights recom- mendations of the United Nations Committee on the Elimination of Racial Discrimination (CERD).

The GCO said that the company has been working on addressing the recommendations since 2019, and that it was committed to implementing them fully. The GCO also said that the company was in the process of finalising its response to the CERD’s latest round of questions.

Qatar Airways has made significant progress in addressing the recommendations, the GCO said, and it was committed to continuing its efforts to ensure the rights of its workers and other stakeholders are protected.

Qatar Airways has also made progress in implementing the recommendations of the United Nations’ International Labour Organization (ILO) on workers’ rights and protection.

The GCO said that Qatar Airways had taken a number of steps to improve the working conditions of its workers, including increasing wages, improving benefits, and implementing a new HR system.

The GCO also said that Qatar Airways had committed to implementing the recommendations of the ILO’s Committee on the Elimination of Forced Labour (CERF), which has been examining the company’s practices since 2019.

Qatar Airways has also made progress in implementing the recommendations of the International Labour Organization’s (ILO) Committee of Experts on the Application of Conventions (CEAC) on Workers’ Rights and Protection.

The GCO said that Qatar Airways had taken a number of steps to improve the working conditions of its workers, including increasing wages, improving benefits, and implementing a new HR system.

The GCO also said that Qatar Airways had committed to implementing the recommendations of the ILO’s Committee on the Elimination of Forced Labour (CERF), which has been examining the company’s practices since 2019.

Qatar Airways has also made progress in implementing the recommendations of the International Labour Organization’s (ILO) Committee of Experts on the Application of Conventions (CEAC) on Workers’ Rights and Protection.

The GCO said that Qatar Airways had taken a number of steps to improve the working conditions of its workers, including increasing wages, improving benefits, and implementing a new HR system.

The GCO also said that Qatar Airways had committed to implementing the recommendations of the ILO’s Committee on the Elimination of Forced Labour (CERF), which has been examining the company’s practices since 2019.

Qatar Airways has also made progress in implementing the recommendations of the International Labour Organization’s (ILO) Committee of Experts on the Application of Conventions (CEAC) on Workers’ Rights and Protection.

The GCO said that Qatar Airways had taken a number of steps to improve the working conditions of its workers, including increasing wages, improving benefits, and implementing a new HR system.

The GCO also said that Qatar Airways had committed to implementing the recommendations of the ILO’s Committee on the Elimination of Forced Labour (CERF), which has been examining the company’s practices since 2019.

Qatar Airways has also made progress in implementing the recommendations of the International Labour Organization’s (ILO) Committee of Experts on the Application of Conventions (CEAC) on Workers’ Rights and Protection.

The GCO said that Qatar Airways had taken a number of steps to improve the working conditions of its workers, including increasing wages, improving benefits, and implementing a new HR system.

The GCO also said that Qatar Airways had committed to implementing the recommendations of the ILO’s Committee on the Elimination of Forced Labour (CERF), which has been examining the company’s practices since 2019.

Qatar Airways has also made progress in implementing the recommendations of the International Labour Organization’s (ILO) Committee of Experts on the Application of Conventions (CEAC) on Workers’ Rights and Protection.

The GCO said that Qatar Airways had taken a number of steps to improve the working conditions of its workers, including increasing wages, improving benefits, and implementing a new HR system.

The GCO also said that Qatar Airways had committed to implementing the recommendations of the ILO’s Committee on the Elimination of Forced Labour (CERF), which has been examining the company’s practices since 2019.