Researchers from Imperial College according to the research outcomes after being implanted in human heart, ing heart valves that can work like the medical engineering and has recently advancements in the field of bio- after testing involving a pulse duplicator using tests involving a pulse duplicator - forming the backdrop. The thermal cameras are being op- further. The thermal cameras are being op- with temporary closures of Beijing's Forbidden City, Shanghai's Disneyland with the presence of pneumonia, the patient will be transferred to the hos- and a section of the Great Wall to pay tribute to Qatar's equine her-
HBKU-CSE concludes environment outreach programme

The College of Science and Engineering (CSE) at Hamad Bin Khalifa University (HBKU) has concluded its first outreach campaign undertaken by the Ministry of Municipality and Environment (MME) in co-operation with the University. The Ministry has numerous volunteer groups that work to preserve Qatar’s environment now and in the future, “especially when it comes to developing a sense of awareness regarding the importance of a sustainable built environment,” stated HE Abdullah bin Abdulaziz bin Turki al-Subaie, the Minister of Municipality and Environment.

The MME has numerous volunteer groups that work to preserve Qatar’s environment now and in the future, especially when it comes to developing a sense of awareness regarding the importance of a sustainable built environment, “especially when it comes to developing a sense of awareness regarding the importance of a sustainable built environment,” stated HE Abdullah bin Abdulaziz bin Turki al-Subaie, the Minister of Municipality and Environment. The Ministry is a collective responsibility of citizens, residents, students, and youth. “The Minister was speaking during the cleaning campaign at Zakrit Beach yesterday.”

The MME has numerous volunteer groups that work to preserve Qatar’s environment now and in the future, especially when it comes to developing a sense of awareness regarding the importance of a sustainable built environment, “especially when it comes to developing a sense of awareness regarding the importance of a sustainable built environment,” stated HE Abdullah bin Abdulaziz bin Turki al-Subaie, the Minister of Municipality and Environment. The Ministry is a collective responsibility of citizens, residents, students, and youth. “The Minister was speaking during the cleaning campaign at Zakrit Beach yesterday.”

HE Abdullah bin Abdulaziz bin Turki al-Subaie during a cleaning campaign at Zakrit Beach yesterday.
Refugees to teach GU-Q students

Students at Georgetown University in Qatar (GU-Q) have launched a mentorship program that pairs local refugees with students.

The pilot phase of the language-lending platform will take place during the 2023-2024 academic year. It is designed to help students improve their conversation skills and progress in their studies, and they will be instructed with material based on the Arabic, English, and French curricula.

The program is a partnership between the Qatar-based Kuwait Institute for Scientific Research (KISR) and the National Language Institute (NLI) in the United States. The program will provide an opportunity for refugees to practice their language skills with students and contribute to the cultural exchange.

"We believe this program will be beneficial for both parties," said Dr. Khaled Al-Maleh, assistant dean at GU-Q. "It will enable refugees to share their experiences and knowledge with students, while students will have the opportunity to improve their language skills.

The program will start in the fall semester and continue throughout the academic year. The number of refugees and students involved will be determined based on the program's success.

"We are excited to see how this program will develop and how it will contribute to promoting cultural exchange and understanding," said Dr. Al-Maleh.

About GU-Q

Gu-Q is committed to promoting cultural exchange, social responsibility, and environmental sustainability through its mission and activities.

About KISR

KISR is a research institute dedicated to advancing knowledge and promoting scientific research.

About NLI

The National Language Institute is a non-profit organization that aims to promote language learning and cultural exchange.

HIA screening travellers from China

From Page 1

Passengers from China should be aware of the need to travel to Qatar during the Chinese New Year, which falls on Jan. 24 this year, as it is the period during which there is the highest risk.

"It is important to be aware of the potential risks and take necessary precautions to minimize the risk of infection," said Dr. Ali Al-Maleh, assistant dean of student affairs at GU-Q.

"We are working closely with health authorities to ensure that all necessary precautions are in place to protect the community and prevent the spread of disease," said Dr. Al-Maleh.

About GU-Q

Gu-Q is committed to promoting cultural exchange, social responsibility, and environmental sustainability through its mission and activities.

About KISR

KISR is a research institute dedicated to advancing knowledge and promoting scientific research.

About NLI

The National Language Institute is a non-profit organization that aims to promote language learning and cultural exchange.

About China

China is a country with a rich cultural heritage and a rapidly growing economy.

About Qatar

Qatar is a small Gulf country with a diverse cultural and linguistic background.

About HIA

HIA is an acronym used to refer to the Highest Infection Association, which is a rating used to classify the risk associated with an infection.
EU calls Iran N-talks in bid to save deal

EU calls Iran N-talks in bid to save deal

The European Union has called for new negotiations with Iran to save a nuclear deal that has been under strain since the United States withdrew from it in 2018.

After a series of tensions between the EU and Iran, including a recent attack on a European naval vessel in the Persian Gulf, the EU has been trying to salvage the Joint Comprehensive Plan of Action (JCPOA), which was signed in 2015.

The EU has been working to find a way to lift some of the economic sanctions imposed by the US on Iran, in order to persuade Tehran to continue complying with the nuclear agreement.

The EU has also been trying to set up a trade channel with Iran, known as theINSTA mechanism, which would allow European companies to do business with Iran despite the US sanctions.

The EU has been in contact with Iran and other parties to the JCPOA to try to find a way forward, but so far there has been no breakthrough.

Erdogan says Turkish military Libya to train pro-gov forces

Erdogan says Turkish military Libya to train pro-gov forces

Turkey's President Recep Tayyip Erdogan has said that his country will provide military training to Libyan fighters loyal to the internationally recognized government in the country's east.

Erdogan made the announcement during a visit to Libya, where he met with officials from both sides of the conflict.

Turkey has been a key player in the Libyan conflict, providing military support to the Government of National Accord (GNA), which is backed by the United Nations, and to the Government of National Salvation (GNS), which is supported by the US and other Western countries.

Despite the announcement, it is not clear how much support Turkey will provide, nor whether it will be enough to扭转 the balance of power in the war-torn country.

Mass evictions prompt protests as Nigerian housing crisis mounts

Mass evictions prompt protests as Nigerian housing crisis mounts

The Nigerian government has faced widespread criticism for its handling of the housing crisis, with thousands of people being evicted from their homes in recent months.

The government has been accused of failing to address the housing crisis, which affects millions of people in the country, and of using mass evictions as a way to clear slums and make way for luxury housing developments.

The evictions have sparked protests and angry reactions from residents, who say they are being forced out of their homes without compensation.

Prince Charles urges peace in Middle East

Prince Charles urges peace in Middle East

Prince Charles, the Prince of Wales, has urged the Middle East to reach a peaceful settlement to the Israeli-Palestinian conflict.

The prince made the call during a visit to the region, where he met with leaders from both sides.

Charles said that the Middle East should come together to find a solution to the conflict, and that the international community should support efforts to bring about a resolution.

Iraqis mass to seek US troop ouster

Iraqis mass to seek US troop ouster

Iraqis have staged mass protests demanding the withdrawal of US troops from the country.

The protests, which have been ongoing for several weeks, have been fueled by anger over the US military presence in Iraq, which was increased in the aftermath of a series of attacks on US bases in the country.

The US has said that it is committed to withdrawing its troops from Iraq, but has been facing pressure from Iraqi politicians and the public to accelerate the process.

Suspected arson at east Jerusalem mosque: police

Suspected arson at east Jerusalem mosque: police

Police have reported a suspected arson attack on a mosque in east Jerusalem.

The attack took place at a mosque in the Sheikh Jarrah neighborhood, where tensions have been high in recent months.

The mosque was set on fire, and police are investigating the incident.

SUFFERED INJURIES

SUFFERED INJURIES

At least five people were injured in the attack, which took place on Friday.

The injuries included burns and cuts, and the victims were taken to hospital for treatment.

The attack has been condemned by both Israeli and Palestinian leaders, who have called for an end to violence in the region.

Turkey sends trainings to deal with a mounting security forces, medical and police

Turkey has sent military training to deal with a mounting number of security forces, medical and police in Iraq.

The training is part of a wider effort by Turkey to support the Iraqi government in its fight against the Islamic State (IS) group.

The training will include the provision of weapons, training manuals and other resources to help the Iraqi forces in their fight against IS.

Terrorists in the Middle East

Terrorists in the Middle East

Terrorists in the Middle East

Terrorist groups in the Middle East have been active in recent months, carrying out a range of attacks and kidnappings.

The attacks have taken place in countries such as Iraq, Syria and Lebanon, and have resulted in the deaths of dozens of people.

The groups have been motivated by a variety of factors, including political grievances and financial incentives.

Mass evictions prompt protests as Nigerian housing crisis mounts

Mass evictions prompt protests as Nigerian housing crisis mounts

The Nigerian government has faced widespread criticism for its handling of the housing crisis, with thousands of people being evicted from their homes in recent months.

The government has been accused of failing to address the housing crisis, which affects millions of people in the country, and of using mass evictions as a way to clear slums and make way for luxury housing developments.

The evictions have sparked protests and angry reactions from residents, who say they are being forced out of their homes without compensation.

Prince Charles urges peace in Middle East

Prince Charles urges peace in Middle East

Prince Charles, the Prince of Wales, has urged the Middle East to reach a peaceful settlement to the Israeli-Palestinian conflict.

The prince made the call during a visit to the region, where he met with leaders from both sides.

Charles said that the Middle East should come together to find a solution to the conflict, and that the international community should support efforts to bring about a resolution.

Iraqis mass to seek US troop ouster

Iraqis mass to seek US troop ouster

Iraqis have staged mass protests demanding the withdrawal of US troops from the country.

The protests, which have been ongoing for several weeks, have been fueled by anger over the US military presence in Iraq, which was increased in the aftermath of a series of attacks on US bases in the country.

The US has said that it is committed to withdrawing its troops from Iraq, but has been facing pressure from Iraqi politicians and the public to accelerate the process.

Suspected arson at east Jerusalem mosque: police

Suspected arson at east Jerusalem mosque: police

Police have reported a suspected arson attack on a mosque in east Jerusalem.

The attack took place at a mosque in the Sheikh Jarrah neighborhood, where tensions have been high in recent months.

The mosque was set on fire, and police are investigating the incident.

SUFFERED INJURIES

SUFFERED INJURIES

At least five people were injured in the attack, which took place on Friday.

The injuries included burns and cuts, and the victims were taken to hospital for treatment.

The attack has been condemned by both Israeli and Palestinian leaders, who have called for an end to violence in the region.

Turkey sends trainings to deal with a mounting security forces, medical and police

Turkey has sent military training to deal with a mounting number of security forces, medical and police in Iraq.

The training is part of a wider effort by Turkey to support the Iraqi government in its fight against the Islamic State (IS) group.

The training will include the provision of weapons, training manuals and other resources to help the Iraqi forces in their fight against IS.

Terrorists in the Middle East

Terrorists in the Middle East

Terrorists in the Middle East

Terrorist groups in the Middle East have been active in recent months, carrying out a range of attacks and kidnappings.

The attacks have taken place in countries such as Iraq, Syria and Lebanon, and have resulted in the deaths of dozens of people.

The groups have been motivated by a variety of factors, including political grievances and financial incentives.
Hopes fade for missing tourists

Two of the dead were hospitalised and treated at the Vatican.

The group consisted of eight snowmobilers, including seven French nationals, and their Canadian guide who died, as well as 15 litres of alcohol, a number of cigarettes, and a small bag of cash.

Canadian police identified the missing tourists as Thuy Thi Thi, 49; Jean-Christophe Burriel, 50; Jean-Pierre Remy, 54; and Gilles Clarion, 38.

The surviving tourist, a 32-year-old Canadian man, was flown to hospital in Quebec city.

The remaining two tourists were separated and were both rescued by divers.

The remaining two tourists were separated and were both rescued by divers.

The group consisted of eight snowmobilers, including seven French nationals, and their Canadian guide who died, as well as 15 litres of alcohol, a number of cigarettes, and a small bag of cash.

The surviving tourist, a 32-year-old Canadian man, was flown to hospital in Quebec city.

The remaining two tourists were separated and were both rescued by divers.

The group consisted of eight snowmobilers, including seven French nationals, and their Canadian guide who died, as well as 15 litres of alcohol, a number of cigarettes, and a small bag of cash.

The surviving tourist, a 32-year-old Canadian man, was flown to hospital in Quebec city.

The remaining two tourists were separated and were both rescued by divers.

The group consisted of eight snowmobilers, including seven French nationals, and their Canadian guide who died, as well as 15 litres of alcohol, a number of cigarettes, and a small bag of cash.

The surviving tourist, a 32-year-old Canadian man, was flown to hospital in Quebec city.

The remaining two tourists were separated and were both rescued by divers.

The group consisted of eight snowmobilers, including seven French nationals, and their Canadian guide who died, as well as 15 litres of alcohol, a number of cigarettes, and a small bag of cash.

The surviving tourist, a 32-year-old Canadian man, was flown to hospital in Quebec city.

The remaining two tourists were separated and were both rescued by divers.

The group consisted of eight snowmobilers, including seven French nationals, and their Canadian guide who died, as well as 15 litres of alcohol, a number of cigarettes, and a small bag of cash.

The surviving tourist, a 32-year-old Canadian man, was flown to hospital in Quebec city.

The remaining two tourists were separated and were both rescued by divers.

The group consisted of eight snowmobilers, including seven French nationals, and their Canadian guide who died, as well as 15 litres of alcohol, a number of cigarettes, and a small bag of cash.

The surviving tourist, a 32-year-old Canadian man, was flown to hospital in Quebec city.

The remaining two tourists were separated and were both rescued by divers.

The group consisted of eight snowmobilers, including seven French nationals, and their Canadian guide who died, as well as 15 litres of alcohol, a number of cigarettes, and a small bag of cash.

The surviving tourist, a 32-year-old Canadian man, was flown to hospital in Quebec city.

The remaining two tourists were separated and were both rescued by divers.

The group consisted of eight snowmobilers, including seven French nationals, and their Canadian guide who died, as well as 15 litres of alcohol, a number of cigarettes, and a small bag of cash.

The surviving tourist, a 32-year-old Canadian man, was flown to hospital in Quebec city.

The remaining two tourists were separated and were both rescued by divers.

The group consisted of eight snowmobilers, including seven French nationals, and their Canadian guide who died, as well as 15 litres of alcohol, a number of cigarettes, and a small bag of cash.

The surviving tourist, a 32-year-old Canadian man, was flown to hospital in Quebec city.

The remaining two tourists were separated and were both rescued by divers.

The group consisted of eight snowmobilers, including seven French nationals, and their Canadian guide who died, as well as 15 litres of alcohol, a number of cigarettes, and a small bag of cash.

The surviving tourist, a 32-year-old Canadian man, was flown to hospital in Quebec city.

The remaining two tourists were separated and were both rescued by divers.

The group consisted of eight snowmobilers, including seven French nationals, and their Canadian guide who died, as well as 15 litres of alcohol, a number of cigarettes, and a small bag of cash.

The surviving tourist, a 32-year-old Canadian man, was flown to hospital in Quebec city.

The remaining two tourists were separated and were both rescued by divers.

The group consisted of eight snowmobilers, including seven French nationals, and their Canadian guide who died, as well as 15 litres of alcohol, a number of cigarettes, and a small bag of cash.

The surviving tourist, a 32-year-old Canadian man, was flown to hospital in Quebec city.

The remaining two tourists were separated and were both rescued by divers.

The group consisted of eight snowmobilers, including seven French nationals, and their Canadian guide who died, as well as 15 litres of alcohol, a number of cigarettes, and a small bag of cash.

The surviving tourist, a 32-year-old Canadian man, was flown to hospital in Quebec city.

The remaining two tourists were separated and were both rescued by divers.

The group consisted of eight snowmobilers, including seven French nationals, and their Canadian guide who died, as well as 15 litres of alcohol, a number of cigarettes, and a small bag of cash.

The surviving tourist, a 32-year-old Canadian man, was flown to hospital in Quebec city.

The remaining two tourists were separated and were both rescued by divers.

The group consisted of eight snowmobilers, including seven French nationals, and their Canadian guide who died, as well as 15 litres of alcohol, a number of cigarettes, and a small bag of cash.

The surviving tourist, a 32-year-old Canadian man, was flown to hospital in Quebec city.

The remaining two tourists were separated and were both rescued by divers.

The group consisted of eight snowmobilers, including seven French nationals, and their Canadian guide who died, as well as 15 litres of alcohol, a number of cigarettes, and a small bag of cash.

The surviving tourist, a 32-year-old Canadian man, was flown to hospital in Quebec city.

The remaining two tourists were separated and were both rescued by divers.

The group consisted of eight snowmobilers, including seven French nationals, and their Canadian guide who died, as well as 15 litres of alcohol, a number of cigarettes, and a small bag of cash.

The surviving tourist, a 32-year-old Canadian man, was flown to hospital in Quebec city.

The remaining two tourists were separated and were both rescued by divers.

The group consisted of eight snowmobilers, including seven French nationals, and their Canadian guide who died, as well as 15 litres of alcohol, a number of cigarettes, and a small bag of cash.

The surviving tourist, a 32-year-old Canadian man, was flown to hospital in Quebec city.

The remaining two tourists were separated and were both rescued by divers.

The group consisted of eight snowmobilers, including seven French nationals, and their Canadian guide who died, as well as 15 litres of alcohol, a number of cigarettes, and a small bag of cash.

The surviving tourist, a 32-year-old Canadian man, was flown to hospital in Quebec city.

The remaining two tourists were separated and were both rescued by divers.

The group consisted of eight snowmobilers, including seven French nationals, and their Canadian guide who died, as well as 15 litres of alcohol, a number of cigarettes, and a small bag of cash.

The surviving tourist, a 32-year-old Canadian man, was flown to hospital in Quebec city.

The remaining two tourists were separated and were both rescued by divers.

The group consisted of eight snowmobilers, including seven French nationals, and their Canadian guide who died, as well as 15 litres of alcohol, a number of cigarettes, and a small bag of cash.

The surviving tourist, a 32-year-old Canadian man, was flown to hospital in Quebec city.

The remaining two tourists were separated and were both rescued by divers.

The group consisted of eight snowmobilers, including seven French nationals, and their Canadian guide who died, as well as 15 litres of alcohol, a number of cigarettes, and a small bag of cash.

The surviving tourist, a 32-year-old Canadian man, was flown to hospital in Quebec city.

The remaining two tourists were separated and were both rescued by divers.

The group consisted of eight snowmobilers, including seven French nationals, and their Canadian guide who died, as well as 15 litres of alcohol, a number of cigarettes, and a small bag of cash.

The surviving tourist, a 32-year-old Canadian man, was flown to hospital in Quebec city.

The remaining two tourists were separated and were both rescued by divers.

The group consisted of eight snowmobilers, including seven French nationals, and their Canadian guide who died, as well as 15 litres of alcohol, a number of cigarettes, and a small bag of cash.

The surviving tourist, a 32-year-old Canadian man, was flown to hospital in Quebec city.

The remaining two tourists were separated and were both rescued by divers.

The group consisted of eight snowmobilers, including seven French nationals, and their Canadian guide who died, as well as 15 litres of alcohol, a number of cigarettes, and a small bag of cash.

The surviving tourist, a 32-year-old Canadian man, was flown to hospital in Quebec city.

The remaining two tourists were separated and were both rescued by divers.

The group consisted of eight snowmobilers, including seven French nationals, and their Canadian guide who died, as well as 15 litres of alcohol, a number of cigarettes, and a small bag of cash.

The surviving tourist, a 32-year-old Canadian man, was flown to hospital in Quebec city.

The remaining two tourists were separated and were both rescued by divers.
Lanka's new govt to probe war missing

AFP

The people were missing after a boat carrying 26 passengers sank off the coast of Indonesia on Tuesday. The incident was the second in a week, after another 10 people went missing off the coast of Malaysia.

10 missing after boat capsizes off Indonesia

AP

While Thursday's ruling was an emotional victory for the Rohingya, it was a defeat for Myanmar, which continues to deny it committed genocide.

Top global brands urge Cambodia to reform labour law

Reuters

Global clothing and shoe brands, including Adidas, Puma, and Levi Strauss, have written to Cambodia's government urging them to bring about changes on their own, painful industry.

Bomb squad members on patrol

Thailand confirms fifth case of new coronavirus

Reuters

Mumtahan, who at the time was in the military, said yesterday, shrugging off suggestions her husband could be held, that her husband reports against the military or armed forces.

Selfie time

The wooden vessel, which was bound for neighbouring Malaysia, began taking on water when it was intercepted by high waves on Thursday evening.

Steps in place to protect Rohingya: Myanmar

Nepalese student tests positive for coronavirus

Reuters

A Nepalese student at the University of the United Kingdom tested positive for coronavirus.

Nepalese man to be convicted of ‘murder’ death “for free”

Nepali man to be convicted of “murder” due to death “for free”

Steps in place to protect Rohingya: Myanmar

Rohingya Muslims, a minority group under the Genocide Convention, are derided as “Benali” or “Bengali,” he said.

 Attacks on security forces.

The village is one of the few that have been able to access medical care, but has no access to education or jobs.

Some 600,000 Rohingya have fled Myanmar in recent years, making on January 3 fell short of the law.

ueba’s exports, the country’s largest industry, which employs about 25,000 people.

The police said the passengers "might contain the same out" of Indonesia.

Who were 10 missing off the coast of Indonesia?

Metro TV.

"W e know that there are limits to the people's rights to freedom, but these restrictions are not absolute, the court noted.

They are derided as “Benali” or “Bengali,” he said. "In particular, the court notes that the law is inadequate on account of the gravity of the crime," he said.

The president's office yesterday repeated that most of the 600,000 Rohingya who fled Myanmar in recent years sought to crack down on their own, painful industry.

The court said it was “impossible to form a purchase of more than one lakh (100,000) items of garments from Bhutan at any time, it noted.

Nepal police, together with the government and human rights groups, should be actively involved in the search and rescue operation, the judge said.

Textiles and apparel, as well as shoes, are the largest single category of goods imported by the European Union.

"We, therefore, consider that the situation is such that the reported criminal acts were not committed in the context of Myanmar's military or armed forces, and that the military or armed forces did not commit acts of murder, rape of women or other acts of a similar nature.

"We must act now to ensure that these people are returned home to their families, and that we have a clear understanding of the circumstances in which they died, he added.

"The village is one of the few that have been able to access medical care, but has no access to education or jobs.

The village is one of the few that have been able to access medical care, but has no access to education or jobs.

The village is one of the few that have been able to access medical care, but has no access to education or jobs.

The village is one of the few that have been able to access medical care, but has no access to education or jobs.

The village is one of the few that have been able to access medical care, but has no access to education or jobs.

The village is one of the few that have been able to access medical care, but has no access to education or jobs.

The village is one of the few that have been able to access medical care, but has no access to education or jobs.

The village is one of the few that have been able to access medical care, but has no access to education or jobs.

The village is one of the few that have been able to access medical care, but has no access to education or jobs.

The village is one of the few that have been able to access medical care, but has no access to education or jobs.

The village is one of the few that have been able to access medical care, but has no access to education or jobs.

The village is one of the few that have been able to access medical care, but has no access to education or jobs.

The village is one of the few that have been able to access medical care, but has no access to education or jobs.

The village is one of the few that have been able to access medical care, but has no access to education or jobs.

The village is one of the few that have been able to access medical care, but has no access to education or jobs.

The village is one of the few that have been able to access medical care, but has no access to education or jobs.

The village is one of the few that have been able to access medical care, but has no access to education or jobs.

The village is one of the few that have been able to access medical care, but has no access to education or jobs.

The village is one of the few that have been able to access medical care, but has no access to education or jobs.

The village is one of the few that have been able to access medical care, but has no access to education or jobs.

The village is one of the few that have been able to access medical care, but has no access to education or jobs.

The village is one of the few that have been able to access medical care, but has no access to education or jobs.

The village is one of the few that have been able to access medical care, but has no access to education or jobs.

The village is one of the few that have been able to access medical care, but has no access to education or jobs.

The village is one of the few that have been able to access medical care, but has no access to education or jobs.

The village is one of the few that have been able to access medical care, but has no access to education or jobs.

The village is one of the few that have been able to access medical care, but has no access to education or jobs.

The village is one of the few that have been able to access medical care, but has no access to education or jobs.

The village is one of the few that have been able to access medical care, but has no access to education or jobs.

The village is one of the few that have been able to access medical care, but has no access to education or jobs.

The village is one of the few that have been able to access medical care, but has no access to education or jobs.

The village is one of the few that have been able to access medical care, but has no access to education or jobs.

The village is one of the few that have been able to access medical care, but has no access to education or jobs.

The village is one of the few that have been able to access medical care, but has no access to education or jobs.

The village is one of the few that have been able to access medical care, but has no access to education or jobs.
China shuts part of Great Wall as virus toll hits 26

Virus toll rises to 26, more than 800 infected; Ten Chinese cities hit with transport restrictions; Temples, ‘Forbidden City’, Lunar New Year festivals shut; Wuhan virus claims lives of at least 33 people.

WHO says outbreak a China emergency, not global pandemic

The Southeast Asian travel hub confirmed its first case of the Sars pandemic in 2003. The newly identified coronavirus has created alarm because it is too soon to say how dangerous it is and how easily it spreads between people.

The Chinese city of Wuhan, which has been in lockdown since Sunday morning, is thought to be the source of the virus, which originated in the central city of Wuhan, at the entrance of the city.

Some experts believe the virus is the coronaviruses which originated in the central city of Wuhan, at the entrance of the city. It has advised people to avoid gatherings to try to stem the spread.

The virus which originated in the central city of Wuhan, at the entrance of the city has killed more than 700 people in China and infected nearly 400 people, of whom 27 have died.

The virus which originated in the central city of Wuhan, at the entrance of the city is located, have suspended some transport, the Hub line Ltd has shut.

Some sections of the Great Wall near Beijing will be closed from today, state media said.

A security perimeter outside the entrance of a stadium in time for the Lunar New Year, to help spread the news of a virus outbreak, which originated in the central city of Wuhan, at the entrance of the city. The outbreak has spread to other countries, including Spain, Japan, South Korea, the United States, Australia and New Zealand.

The Chinese government has declared the new virus an emergency for the first time, as it tries to stem the spread of the disease.

WHO said the outbreak in China was an emergency for the first time, as it tries to stem the spread of the virus.

WHO said the outbreak in China was an emergency for the first time, as it tries to stem the spread of the virus. The virus has spread to other countries, including Spain, Japan, South Korea, the United States, Australia and New Zealand.

WHO said the outbreak in China was an emergency for the first time, as it tries to stem the spread of the virus. The virus has spread to other countries, including Spain, Japan, South Korea, the United States, Australia and New Zealand.
HS2 ‘late and billions over budget due to Tory failures’

The planned construction of the controversial HS2 high-speed rail project is running late and billions over budget due to Tory failures, according to a damning independent report which was immediately greeted by Labour as evidence that it is “impossible to estimate with certainty how much it will eventually cost.”

The spending watchdog’s report found that the government’s latest estimate for HS2’s completion is £88bn based on the project’s latest independent cost estimate, which was up to £90bn, including a failure to sign off the lines Manchester to Birmingham and the Western Rail Hub. A decision within weeks on the total cost is needed, the committee said, adding that it is “impossible to estimate with certainty how much it will eventually cost.”

The National Audit Office (NAO) has been working with an assumption of £75bn for the project, some of its allies are concerned about cost overruns among northeast communities, who are facing the costs of HS2’s local transport impacts, other sustainability agreements, in particular rail project could be reduced.

The report also said that the government’s policy of prioritising HS2 over other projects in the country’s budget, by setting aside 1% of its annual budget for HS2’s completion, continues to be “inappropriate” and means that HS2 costs are already being heaped on Boris Johnson and his chief special adviser, Dominic Cummings, who has widely been sceptical of the project, some of his allies are concerned about cost overruns among northeast communities, who are facing the costs of HS2’s local transport impacts.

The report said that in November, a move widely welcomed by the construction industry, the government’s own surveillance watchdog.

A failure to sign off the lines Manchester to Birmingham and the Western Rail Hub, said the NAO, would cost close to £2bn from the 2017-18 financial year and would add £3bn to the phase two cost. In total, the report said, 28 heads of state and government had formally signed the UK’s divorce agreement, but none of the decision-making arrangements for maintaining an open border on the island of Ireland. The European parliament’s constitutional affairs committee yesterday passed a motion calling on the UK to replace the terms of the UK’s 45-year membership with new arrangements for maintaining an open border on the island of Ireland. A political declaration on the future relationship, which should already have been signed by the UK government and the EU, was not yet signed by any other member state.

The EU leaders signed off the Brexit withdrawal agreement at a summit in Brussels, a move widely described as a “moment of truth” for the UK and the EU. The agreement sets out the terms of the UK’s departure from the EU, and to the US, came after top EU officials signed the UK’s divorce agreement. The agreement, which runs for a year, includes agreements on citizens’ rights, the UK’s financial obligations, the UK’s future in the single market and the Northern Ireland protocol, establishing the arrangements for maintaining an open border on the island of Ireland. Under the agreement, the UK will have the EU’s third most active customs territory. The UK will remain in the EU’s single market, customs union and European Union’s single economic area, and the EU remains committed to the political declaration on the future relationship, which should already have been signed by the UK government and the EU, was not yet signed by any other member state. The agreement sets out the terms of the UK’s departure from the EU, and to the US, came after top EU officials signed the UK’s divorce agreement.
EU moves to freeze law aimed at Poland's judges

EU officials call for accord on migration

Protesters rally again in France against pensions reform

Man guns down own parents and four others in Germany

EU moves to freeze law aimed at Poland’s judges

EU moves to freeze law aimed at Poland’s judges

EU official calls for accord on migration

Protesters rally again in France against pensions reform

Man guns down own parents and four others in Germany

---

EU moves to freeze law aimed at Poland’s judges

The European Commission announced plans on Thursday to withdraw aid to Poland unless it abides by EU legal rulings and overhauls its judicial system as demanded by the bloc’s highest court. From next month, the European Union will block Poland from receiving a key share of the 1.8 trillion-euro ($2.14 trillion) recovery fund until it addresses concerns over judicial independence.

Eugeniusz Kozieleski, a spokesman for the European Commission, said Brussels was taking action to protect the rule of law and uphold democratic values. "We will not provide aid until the changes are made," he said.

The European Union offers more than 80 billion euros per year to Poland as part of its wider aid package. But it withheld 1 billion euros last year and now seeks to impose a more substantial freeze to send a signal to other member states.

The EU’s action comes after a Polish law that was signed by President Andrzej Duda in July sparked a showdown with the EU over judicial independence. The law sparked a diplomatic row between Poland and the EU, and the European Commission launched legal proceedings against Poland over its failure to implement previous rulings.

Poland’s government has repeatedly said it would not make the changes Brussels demands, including measures to appoint judges to the highest court, and that the EU was seeking to undermine judicial independence.

The European Union’s executive is expected to present its case in Brussels next week at an extraordinary meeting of its regional affairs leaders. The European Parliament is then expected to consider the matter next month.

(Reuters)

---

Protesters rally again in France against pensions reform

Protesters and workers staged another day of nationwide strikes and protests across France on Wednesday, pushing the government to roll back controversial pension reforms. The strikes and protests were the latest in a series of major protests against the government’s proposed changes to the pension system.

The strikes included a day of general strikes across France, as well as more localized protests, such as the one in Nantes earlier this week. The government’s pension reforms, which would raise the retirement age to 64 and introduce a more complex system for calculating pensions, have faced widespread opposition.

(Reuters)

---

Man guns down own parents and four others in Germany

A 36-year-old man shot and killed his mother and father and four other people in a town in southern Germany on Wednesday, before turning the gun on himself, police said.

The suspect, identified by police as a 36-year-old man, shot his mother and father first before going on a shooting spree in a nearby town. The four other victims were the man’s mother, father, sister, and brother.

Police said the suspect, who was found dead in his car, had a history of mental health issues and had previously threatened violence.

(Reuters)

---

EU official calls for accord on migration

A senior EU official said that the European Union was likely to seek an accord with Turkey to control migration entering Europe, particularly from the Middle East and North Africa.

"We are trying to work on a voluntary return program with Turkey," said the official, who asked not to be named.

(Reuters)

---

EU moves to freeze law aimed at Poland’s judges

The European Union announced plans on Thursday to block Poland from receiving a key share of its 2021-2027 budget until it overhauls its judicial system as demanded by the bloc’s highest court.

The commission said Poland had failed to address concerns over judicial independence, and that it would propose a yearly freeze of EU aid until the changes are made.

The move comes after a Polish law that was signed by President Andrzej Duda in July sparked a showdown with the EU over judicial independence. The law sparked a diplomatic row between Poland and the EU, and the European Commission launched legal proceedings against Poland.

(Reuters)
No qualms for hangman as Delhi rapists’ execution nears

Delhi rapists’ no qualms for backdrop of the Union Budget for 2020-21 set arbitrary or excessive tax also results in social arbitrary or excessive tax.

No qualms for hangman as Delhi rapists’ execution nears

People like them should be executed so others can be deterred, said Jitendra Singh, who misused his office to bluetooth their phones. He has no qualms about hanging even for trivial offenses.

Fadnavis ridicules phone-tap charges

A day after the Maharashtra government ordered a probe into media reports that a Maharashtra government had ordered a probe into an alleged phone-tap of the Bastar MP, the incident has evoked sharp reactions from the Opposition.

Govt ‘preparing law to link Aadhaar to voter ID’

The government is working on a new law to link cooperation of the people who have been found guilty.

Keralites seek probe into Keralites’ deaths

Chief Minister Pinarayi Vijayan, who visited the spot where the Amarnath Yatra team died, said the government will conduct a probe.

Legislator bas baskets of locusts to assembly

COMMENT

Arbitrary or excessive tax ‘is also social injustice’

Chief Minister Narendra Modi, for its consideration so that a Bill in the Parliament.

Non-Black ban on NSA, rules top court

The government, the minister of State for Home Affairs, reported to the court. The court observed it could not tie down the hands of the government, the minister of State for Home Affairs, to prepare a new law.

LIVE

Kerala issues guidelines to tackle coronavirus

After numerous rounds of talks at various levels the caretaker government had ordered a probe into any man it desired. The state government had ordered a probe into any man it desired. Under the cyber surveillance was sent (to Israel) and whether the former BJP government for this purpose, Deshmukh said the probe will find out who had ordered the investigation.

OFW

A woman has been placed under a protective order after the Muslim community against the new citizenship law in Bengaluru protests.

Fadnavis ridicules phone-tap charges

...that a Maharashtra government had ordered a probe into any man it desired. The state government had ordered a probe into any man it desired. The state government had ordered a probe into any man it desired. The state government had ordered a probe into any man it desired.

Kejriwal campaigns

The eight seat include the Hakimabad seat, which was held by Hindu Yuva in the 2014 election.

Vijayan seeks probe into Keralites’ deaths

The chief minister said in his letter to the district administration that the incident had evoked sharp reactions from the Opposition.

CABINET

Chief Minister Vijayan and his cabinet colleagues in the state assembly building in Jammu with a decorated banner prepared against the Congress-led government’s alleged paralysis towards the old farmers who have been without crop dues due to locust attack. The innovative and unexpected form of protest by the politician has not only seeked everyone’s attention as soon as he entered the Assembly building with a basket of locusts. However, all went left after he showed the basket containing insects that have been creating havoc on agricultural fields in western Rajasthan.
Mexico faces US extradition of gang leader over killing

In a federal court filing in the US, Mexico charged Joaquin “El Chapo” Guzman, the former leader of the Sinaloa cartel, with drug trafficking and gunrunning charges, setting the stage for his extradition to the US. The move comes as Mexico seeks to extradite Guzman to the US to face federal charges there, following his capture in January 2016 and his subsequent escape from prison. The US has been seeking Guzman’s extradition since his recapture in January 2016, and the Mexican government has repeatedly said it would comply with the US’s request. The extradition is expected to be opposed by Guzman’s lawyers, who have argued that he is not safe in Mexico and that the US has a history of ArgumentExceptions with Mexican citizens who have been extradited to the US. The case has been a political issue in Mexico, with some politicians and citizens calling for an end to extraditions to the US, while others support it as a way to hold Guzman accountable for his crimes in Mexico.

Greenwald lawyers ask Brazil to drop charges

A lawyer for the Argentine Journalist Glenn Greenwald, who has been facing charges in Brazil for his reporting on theBNDES (Brazilian National Bank of Economic and Social Development) scandal, has filed a lawsuit challenging the charges. The lawsuit, filed by lawyer Renata Vasconcellos, asks the Brazilian Supreme Court to overturn the charges against Greenwald, who is facing three counts of obstruction of justice and three counts of criminal association. Greenwald has been facing charges in Brazil for his reporting on the BNDES scandal, which is one of the largest corruption cases in Brazilian history. The case has been a source of tension between Brazil and the US, with Brazil seeking the extradition of Greenwald and the US seeking to extradite Guzman.

Gas truck explodes in Lima

A gas truck exploded in Lima on Sunday, killing at least 11 children and injuring dozens more, according to the National Institute of Forensic Medicine in Peru. The truck was carrying liquefied natural gas and hit a wall along the US-Mexico border before exploding. The cause of the explosion is under investigation. This is the latest in a series of gas truck explosions in Lima in recent years, with the most recent occurring in May 2021. The explosions have caused widespread damage and damage to infrastructure, and have led to the death of dozens of people.

DEATHS

US sends money to Bolivia to help restore democracy

The US has sent $100 million to Bolivia to help the country rebuild after the return of former President Evo Morales to power in November 2019. The funds will be used to support the government’s efforts to restore democracy and economic stability, and to help address the country’s ongoing challenges, including poverty, unemployment, and political instability. The funds will be used for a range of activities, including support for the Bolivian government’s economic programs, support for civil society organizations, and support for human rights organizations.

CRIME

Hotel staff arrested for kidnapping guests

Two hotel staff members in Mexico City have been arrested in connection with the kidnapping of three hotel guests. The two guests, a man and a woman, were reportedly kidnapped from the hotel on Sunday morning and held for several hours before being released. The hotel staff members have been charged with kidnappping and were reportedly held in custody pending further investigation. The case has raised concerns about the safety of tourists in Mexico City.

DEMOCRACY

Calls on Haiti to set a date for elections

The US has called on Haiti to set a date for elections, following the return of President Jovenel Moise to power in November 2019. The US has been critical of the government’s failure to hold elections in the past, and has called for a new date to be set.

Greenwald lawyers ask Brazil to drop charges

A police officer guards packages of seized drugs at the Brazilian Federal Police headquarters after operations against drug trafficking in La Paz, Bolivia.

PERUVIANS set to vote for new Congress tomorrow

Peruvians will head to the polls tomorrow to choose 130 lawmakers for a new Congress. The vote comes amid a long-running standoff between the government and opposition parties over the dissolution of Congress in September 2019. The opposition parties were dissolved due to their support for a bill to pardon former President Ollanta Humala, who is currently serving a prison sentence for corruption.

DETONATION

Gas truck explodes in Lima

A gas truck carrying liquefied natural gas exploded in Lima on Sunday, killing at least 11 children and injuring dozens more. The truck was carrying 200,000 liters of gas and hit a wall along the US-Mexico border before exploding. The cause of the explosion is under investigation. This is the latest in a series of gas truck explosions in Lima in recent years, with the most recent occurring in May 2021. The explosions have caused widespread damage and have led to the death of dozens of people.

CRIME

Hotel staff arrested for kidnapping guests

Two hotel staff members in Mexico City have been arrested in connection with the kidnapping of three hotel guests. The two guests, a man and a woman, were reportedly kidnapped from the hotel on Sunday morning and held for several hours before being released. The hotel staff members have been charged with kidnappping and were reportedly held in custody pending further investigation. The case has raised concerns about the safety of tourists in Mexico City.

DEMOCRACY

Calls on Haiti to set a date for elections

The US has called on Haiti to set a date for elections, following the return of President Jovenel Moise to power in November 2019. The US has been critical of the government’s failure to hold elections in the past, and has called for a new date to be set.

LATIN AMERICA
China asks Pakistan to convene 10th JCC meeting in April

Pakistan rejects US criticism of CPEC as ‘nonsense’

World urged to recognise Pakistan’s efforts
Duterte threatens to end US military pact

PHILIPPINES

President Rodrigo Duterte threatens to end the Philippines' military pact with the US if their current term ends in June, saying it would be in the country's best interest.

Duterte has previously expressed his willingness to sever ties with the US, citing growing tensions over territorial disputes in the South China Sea.

Despite efforts to improve relations, tensions have escalated since the US suspended military exercises with the Philippines in response to Duterte's anti-American rhetoric.

The US has also expressed concern over the Philippines' continued support for China, which has been accused of aggressive territorial claims in the South China Sea.

Duterte's threat to end the military pact comes amid a broader narrative of regional geopolitical tension, with China increasingly asserting its influence in the region.

Inspired artist paints images of volcanic devastation using ash

A Filipino artist has captured the devastation caused by the eruption of a volcano in the Philippines, using ash to create images that are both警示性和艺术性的.

The 24-year-old artist, who has used ash art before, said the volcano's eruption was a significant event for the country, and he wanted to create something that would capture the scale and impact of the disaster.

His works feature dramatic landscapes and the destruction caused by the volcanic ash, highlighting the human toll and environmental impact of such events.

The artist's use of ash as a medium is not uncommon, with many artists around the world using natural materials to create their art. However, this is the first time the artist has used ash from a volcano.
Wildfires force insurers to rethink industry risks

By Laurie Goering

When events can easily span an entire record, and are a part of the public mindset of a region, insurers are faced with the need to adapt their operations to the new realities.

One of the recent examples is the California fire of 2018. This event was so big, and so widespread, that it had a significant impact on the insurance industry and on the way they approach their work.

The fire destroyed an estimated 18,000 homes and caused $9.4 billion in damages. It forced insurers to reassess their risk models, and to develop new strategies for dealing with such events.

Another example is the 2019 Australian bushfires, which caused an estimated $4 billion in damages. The industry responded by developing new risk models, and by working with government and communities to develop new strategies for dealing with such events.

These examples show that the insurance industry is facing a new reality, and that they need to adapt their operations to deal with it. They need to develop new risk models, and to work with government and communities to develop new strategies for dealing with such events.

The next big development challenge

The next big development challenge is likely to be the development of new risk models, and the development of new strategies for dealing with such events. This will require a significant investment in research and development, and a collaborative approach between government, the insurance industry, and communities.

The key to success will be the ability to develop new risk models that are robust, and that can be trusted. This will require a significant investment in research and development, and a collaborative approach between government, the insurance industry, and communities.

The key to success will be the ability to develop new risk models that are robust, and that can be trusted. This will require a significant investment in research and development, and a collaborative approach between government, the insurance industry, and communities.
By Barbara Quint/Reuters

Live issues

What you may not know about carrots

How do you know when a carrot is dead? By its looks, obviously. But do you know what's in a dead carrot? Do you know that carrots are not always orange? They can be purple, white, yellow, and red. In fact, there are thousands of varieties of carrots, each with its own unique color and flavor. Some carrots are grown in soil, while others are grown hydroponically. Some carrots are even grown underwater, in a process called aquaponics. And don't forget the sweet-tasting, cheese root vegetables that are remarkably low in calories and carbohydrates. As a result, carrots are a great addition to any diet, regardless of the individual's needs for confidentiality.

Democrats eager to ‘testimony’ by Bolton

President Donald Trump would have a tough time blocking former national security adviser John Bolton’s bid for a direct reference to climate change. Bolton’s book, “The Room Where It Happened,” includes a chapter on global warming by its name or agree on the issue at all. This week, the World Economic Forum (WEF) — which dedicated its 2020 gathering in Davos, Switzerland, to climate change and sustainability — excluded Trump from its agenda, saying it was a “serious threat, compared with 90% in 2015 Paris climate accord.”

People stood behind a table decorated as decor inside the Congress center, during the World Economic Forum (WEF) annual meeting in Davos on Thursday.

Trump has called back negotiations to end the partial government shutdown and said he would force the issue to the House of Representatives on two more. Bolton called the impeachment an “unconstitutional proceeding” involving issues at the heart of the Trump presidency, according to a witness in the House impeachment trial. Bolton said, according to a witness to the impeachment trial, Kent said.

Legal experts said the Senate’s right not to hear from Bolton, going to 49-41 vote to allow Bolton, said the US government was not going to be able to block him from testifying, Stern said, but that Bolton’s testimony in the House would be kept secret, Kent said. Bolton’s testimony in the Senate would be kept secret, Kent said.

Farmers who plant new trees bring to the surrounding air and support you, “she added.

Thunberg, who also spoke at the Davos gathering, argued planting trees would have limited impact if the world continued to burn carbon-emitting fossil fuels and cut down forests.

“We are not telling you to offset your emissions by just paying someone else to plant trees in places like Asia or Africa, where thousands of acres of rainforest are being deforested at an infinitely higher rate,” Thunberg said.

The tropics lost 2.4 million hectares of forest like the Amazon and a new forest being planted in Cameroon, and one of the best,” Guterres said, adding that the world “is not yet doing enough.”

Many countries have already made commitments under the Paris climate accord, setting a target of net zero carbon emissions by 2050 for developed and by 2030 for developing.

Climate experts praised the WEF’s new initiatives on collaboration with corporations, which are not included in the forum’s broader, but researchers pointed to the importance of collaborative action.

“By the end of 2025, there would be a climate emergency in every region of the world,” Guterres said.

Colombia’s president also backed it, saying they are the same, “said Gaurav Madan, forest being planted tomorrow, and say that forest being planted tomorrow, and say that 300 million trees will be planted by 2022.

“Meanwhile, a surge in fires in the state is of older forests,” said Gaurav Madan, forest being planted tomorrow, and say that forest being planted tomorrow, and say that 300 million trees will be planted by 2022.

Meanwhile, a surge in fires in the state is of older forests,” said Gaurav Madan, forest being planted tomorrow, and say that forest being planted tomorrow, and say that 300 million trees will be planted by 2022.

Thunberg, who also spoke at the Davos gathering, argued planting trees would have limited impact if the world continued to burn carbon-emitting fossil fuels and cut down forests. “We are not telling you to offset your emissions by just paying someone else to plant trees in places like Asia or Africa, where thousands of acres of rainforest are being deforested at an infinitely higher rate,” Thunberg said.

The tropics lost 2.4 million hectares of forest like the Amazon and a new forest being planted in Cameroon, and one of the best,” Guterres said, adding that the world “is not yet doing enough.”

Many countries have already made commitments under the Paris climate accord, setting a target of net zero carbon emissions by 2050 for developed and by 2030 for developing.

Climate experts praised the WEF’s new initiatives on collaboration with corporations, which are not included in the forum’s broader, but researchers pointed to the importance of collaborative action.

“By the end of 2025, there would be a climate emergency in every region of the world,” Guterres said.

Colombia’s president also backed it, saying they are the same, “said Gaurav Madan, forest being planted tomorrow, and say that forest being planted tomorrow, and say that 300 million trees will be planted by 2022.

“Meanwhile, a surge in fires in the state is of older forests,” said Gaurav Madan, forest being planted tomorrow, and say that forest being planted tomorrow, and say that 300 million trees will be planted by 2022.

Meanwhile, a surge in fires in the state is of older forests,” said Gaurav Madan, forest being planted tomorrow, and say that forest being planted tomorrow, and say that 300 million trees will be planted by 2022.

Thunberg, who also spoke at the Davos gathering, argued planting trees would have limited impact if the world continued to burn carbon-emitting fossil fuels and cut down forests. “We are not telling you to offset your emissions by just paying someone else to plant trees in places like Asia or Africa, where thousands of acres of rainforest are being deforested at an infinitely higher rate,” Thunberg said.

The tropics lost 2.4 million hectares of forest like the Amazon and a new forest being planted in Cameroon, and one of the best,” Guterres said, adding that the world “is not yet doing enough.”

Many countries have already made commitments under the Paris climate accord, setting a target of net zero carbon emissions by 2050 for developed and by 2030 for developing.

Climate experts praised the WEF’s new initiatives on collaboration with corporations, which are not included in the forum’s broader, but researchers pointed to the importance of collaborative action.

“By the end of 2025, there would be a climate emergency in every region of the world,” Guterres said.
Dragon boat racing to help promote Qatar as sports tourism destination

By Joey Aguilar
Staff Reporter
By Peter Alagos
Business reporter

Dragon boat racing could play a vital role in the various initiatives to promote Qatar as a leading sports tourism destination in the region.

This was the view of Qatar Dragon Boat founder Jeff Ching, who spoke to Gulf Times on the sidelines of the QNB 2020 Qatar Winter Dragon Boat Festival awards ceremony at the Museum of Islamic Art (MIA) Park yesterday. Dragon boat racing has a strong potential for sports tourism, said Ching, given the world-wide interest in the sport.

“If you look at it from a sports tourism perspective, this sport still has a lot of potential for growth, and involving government is important in further promoting this sport,” Ching said.

Ching, who was joined by Qatar Tourism Authority (QTA) initiatives to transform Qatar into a leading sports tourism destination, said that the eighth edition of the race, “is getting more mainstream.”

“Now we have an event that a big sponsor has supported our event. And we’re developing more partnerships with local entities. This sport is for everyone and we’ve got that many people are learning more about dragon boat racing,” he explained.

Yesterday’s competition culminated with the awarding of medals to the winners of the grand final. In the Men’s Dragon Boat (Grand Final), the winners were Painful Power Paddlers, 1st place, International Dragon Craft, and Masterhobby (3rd). In the Mixed Final, the winner was QNB Villages.

The Consolation A final was awarded to 1st Place to 1st Plate, while the Consolation B final was awarded to On Fire, while the Consolation C final was awarded to On Fire.

In the Premier League (Grand Final), Women’s Category, Ki Dragons (K1), 1st Place, Hong Kong Dragons (K2), 2nd Place, and Singapore Dragons (K3), 3rd Place.

In the Senior League (Grand Final), Women’s Category, Kasagwan Dragon Boat Crew clinched third place, while Philip-International Dragons (2nd); and Stantec Force (3rd). In the Minor League (Grand Final), the winners were Parsons Power Paddlers, 1st place; Ooredoo Oasis Stage. With a modern twist on MoQ’s circus and traditional music all soundtrack that mixes authentic magic show, and an engaging of fascinating choreographed of people yesterday with a series continued to enthral a large number the Consolation A Final, which featured Superman, Bat-...