MoPH updates Covid-19 vaccination certificates

The Ministry of Public Health (MoPH) has updated the format of its Covid-19 vaccination certificate to include the booster dose of the vaccine and to enhance alignment with international travel requirements.

The updated certificate format now includes details of the Covid-19 vaccine booster dose for those individuals who have received it, and contains a QR code linking to the Qatar Airways IATA Travel Pass Digital Passport Mobile App, as well as the European Union Digital Covid-19 Certificate.

For individuals receiving their third dose/booster dose, the new certificate will be available seven days following the last dose administration date. For individuals receiving their third dose/booster dose of vaccines (two doses for Pfizer/BioNTech, Moderna, AstraZeneca or one dose for Janssen), the new certificate will be available within 24 hours for those doses.

Individuals requesting a certificate online can download it through the link to the National Authentication System (NASL), or Ta3eel, by using their permanent and passport number in order to request the certificate.

For individuals completing their full course of the primary vaccine series (two doses for Pfizer/BioNTech, Moderna, AstraZeneca or one dose for Janssen), the new certificate will be available seven days following the last dose administration date. For individuals receiving their third dose/booster dose, the certificate will be available within 24 hours for those doses.

The updated certificate format now includes details of the Covid-19 vaccine booster dose for those individuals who have received it, and contains a QR code linking to the Qatar Airways IATA Travel Pass Digital Passport Mobile App, as well as the European Union Digital Covid-19 Certificate.

For those who have previously obtained and printed their MoPH Covid-19 vaccine certificate, the ministry has said that the previous certificate format remains valid and can continue to be used as proof of vaccination in Qatar and abroad. It is not required to re-print or re-download the new certificate format.
Congratulations

For the trust bestowed by

His Highness
Sheikh Tamim Bin Hamad Al Thani
Amir of the State of Qatar

upon

HE Buthaina bint Ali Al-Jabr Al-Nuaimi

We extend warm congratulations on Her Excellency’s appointment as

Minister of Education and Higher Education

We wish her continued progress and success
Abeer al-Khalifa is new president of QF’s Pre-University Education

Qatar Foundation has announced the appointment of Abeer al-Khalifa as president of its Pre-University Education Division (PUE) from April 1, 2022. She succeeds HE Buthaina bint Ali al-Jabr al-Nuaiji, who successfully led the division since 2016.

Abeer al-Khalifa, who has spent more than 20 years in various positions at Qatar Academy, is currently working as head of the business intelligence department at Pre-University Education Division (PUE) of Qatar Foundation. She was also an academic director for Pre-University Education Division (PUE) and an academic division that included executive director of academic affairs and most recently, executive director of the PUE Regional Office. She holds an Executive Master’s degree in Business Administration from HIS Paris in Qatar. She holds a BSc in Business Management and a Master’s degree in Educational Administration of Higher Education, as a president of the Chamber of Commodity Brokers in Qatar. She has been a member of the International Maritime Organization (IMO) for the last 10 years. She was previously vice-chair of the IMO-EMB at the IMO Regional Meeting in Doha in the end of October, with the visit of the IMO Secretary General. She was also a member of the IMO in Egypt for two years from 2020-2022. She also discussed several topics that interest Qatar and the two brotherly countries. During the meeting with the Egyptian minister, HE al-Nuaiji affirmed Qatar’s commitment to backing the application to Egypt to host the IMO Regional Office for Arab States in accordance with the decision issued by the Council of Arab Transport Ministers in 2015.

Ooredoo backs Falcon eBike initiative

Haydar Ali Al-Khalifa, Director of QF, said: “Following up on previous successful launches of initiatives such as Falcon Band and Falcon Hamad, we are proud to be contributing to developing sustainable transport solutions, which offer a worthwhile new venture. Many major cities around the world have clean energy transport options such as these, and we’re proud to be playing our part in delivering groundbreaking mobility solutions. While Falcon is a conscious and question-shifting initiative, Ooredoo’s commitment is another proof of our ability to work alongside corporates to provide sustainable transport solutions to the community, aiming to facilitate carbon footprint reductions by providing such mobility solutions. This is another proof of our ability to bring more eco-friendly solutions to our customers.”

Sheelal Al-Shahhi, co-founder and managing director of Falcon, added: “We are proud to be associated with the university leadership of Qatar Foundation, which aims to bring more eco-friendly solutions to the community, aiming to facilitate carbon footprint reductions by providing such mobility solutions. This is another proof of our ability to bring more eco-friendly solutions to our customers.”

Al-Khalifa also welcomed the support of Falcon eBike Initiative, adding that Ooredoo was the first to support such initiatives in Qatar to become carbon neutral by 2030.”

PQFF-Zanzibar govt deal to provide education for out-of-school children

Qatar Fund for Development (QFFD) signed a memorandum of understanding (MoU) with the Revolutionary Government of Zanzibar to provide education and training in quality education for 12-year-old school children in Tanzania.

The three-year project, to be rolled out across all districts of Zanzibar, will be implemented by Education Above All Foundation (EAA) in partnership with the Revolutionary Government of Zanzibar.

The project will employ key strategic interventions to address barriers to a quality education such as improving community sensitisation, enrolment drives targeting at-risk children, low levels of infrastructure and maintenance, the number of qualified teachers, and the number and quality of continuous and non-continuous schools in Zanzibar's districts. Local area farms were damaged, including 12,000 hectares, and approximately 40,000 trees were destroyed. Other house items included all items of furniture, kitchen sets, utensils, clothes, and food. Three churches were damaged, totalling 58,000 cubic meters of space.

The Qatar Red Crescent Society (QRCS) has signed a partnership agreement with Turkey’s Disaster and Emergency Management Authority (AFAD) to respond to the recent wildfires that affected families and cash and in-kind aid for the losses of the public (such as agriculture, livestock, and other private property), and cash and in-kind aid for affected families.

The agreement, which is estimated to benefit 150,000 persons in 21 districts, also involves building schools and training capacity-building in terms of systems of disaster information management, early warning communication and technology in emergency, and risk management.

QRCS, under the two-year agreement, will carry out such an agreement aimed at providing social aid to affected residential area, compensation for the losses of the public (such as agriculture, livestock, and other private property), and cash and in-kind aid for affected families.

According to QRCS, these activities are estimated to benefit 150,000 persons in 21 districts. The government also involves significant and positive impact on the education system in Zanzibar.

Accountability for climate catastrophes

Scientific evidence on how subtle shifts in climate have contributed to extreme natural disasters is overwhelming. It is time for governments to take decisive steps toward mitigating climate change.

The evidence connecting climate change to weather disasters creates an opening to take decisive steps toward mitigation. The United Kingdom, the European Union, the United States, China, and India crafted a nonbinding comprehensive treaty that would commit the entire world to taking action to prevent the worst ravages of global warming. It didn’t happen. The many of the big players (and emitters) arrived without any viable proposals for reducing greenhouse-gas (GHG) emissions, and EU leaders found themselves hanging around in vain for more than a year, until the year all Paris agreement signatories, including the US, announced that they would phase out its use of coal. Each is as important as the other.

That being said, the evidence is clear: the climate is changing, and we need to act now to mitigate its impacts. The United States and China are the biggest emitters of greenhouse gases, and their actions will have a significant impact on global emissions. The European Union has pledged to achieve carbon neutrality by 2050, and other countries should follow suit.

A systems approach is needed, focusing on the interdependence of economic, social, and environmental factors. Policies that prioritize short-term economic gains over long-term sustainability need to be re-evaluated. This includes phasing out fossil fuels, investing in renewable energy, and implementing carbon pricing.

We need to prioritize the health and well-being of people and the planet. The future is now, and we cannot afford to delay action any longer.

Qatar’s recent history has witnessed a number of successful initiatives in the field of education and training. One such initiative is the National University of Distance Education (NUNDE) which was established in 2002. Since then, it has been providing distance education to students across Qatar. However, the current article focuses on another initiative, the Joint College, which was established in 2012 in collaboration with the College of the North Atlantic (CNAA) in Canada.

The Joint College is a unique educational institution that offers a range of courses in various fields such as engineering, business, and information technology. It is jointly run by CNAA and Ashghal, the Public Works Authority of Qatar. This collaboration aims to provide students with high-quality education and training opportunities.

The Joint College is not just a regular college; it is designed to provide practical and hands-on training through real-world projects. This approach enables students to gain valuable work experience while still pursuing their academic studies.

The Joint College offers a range of programs in fields such as civil engineering, electrical engineering, and mechanical engineering. These programs are designed to prepare students for successful careers in their respective fields.

In addition to this, the Joint College also provides vocational training through its various courses. These courses are designed to equip students with the skills needed to succeed in the job market.

The Joint College is not only about education; it is also about promoting innovation and entrepreneurship. The college encourages students to pursue their entrepreneurial dreams and develop new ideas.

The Joint College’s success is evident in the high number of graduates who have gone on to successful careers in various fields. Many of these graduates have gone on to start their own businesses, creating new opportunities for themselves and their communities.
