Residents have been advised to use alternative modes to reach their destinations as the Cornish Street closure comes into effect today in conjunction with Qatar Airways hosting the FIFA Arab Cup 2022.

Also starting today is the much-anticipated Qatar International Food Festival (QIFF), which is among the various activities planned for the upcoming year to mark the Qatar 2022 FIFA Arab Cup.

All Bidda Park will be set to host QIFF until December 11, along with the Cornish until December 4. There will be two open places at the site, with attractive designs to show theatre, bands, stage, interactive light and sound shows, and bring the Theatre Park to the heart of Doha City.

With a large number of people expected to visit the area, special transport services have been arranged to service the Cornish during the closing period. The transport services have been arranged to use alternative modes of transport via one of the three public transport services that will be operated in the area, including Mercedes (Bahraini), and Doha Metro, during the festival. Shuttle buses will be provided for the transport service to continue until December 4.

The public can avail of the Corniche, which will also be available. The service will remain operational until December 4.

Aries
Some of your job responsibilities are too much for one person and they might weigh you down today, Aries. The sit of work seems to go generally higher no matter what you do. There seems to be a lot of pressure on your shoulders. It’s time to push the easy button and start slowly. Your employees may or may not expect the slowdown, but you’re entitled to your sanity no matter what.

Taurus
Accomplishing some important business might require touching bases with many people—both online and in person. This could be a big job. It would be better to do it all at once, though it might be a lot easier to use one person at a time to learn about them all at once. Stay focused!

Gemini
A business enterprise with a friend might not seem a little shaky today, Gemini. You could alter some of your usual assumptions and project a new design. It’s probably a good one, and it looks like it’s all the better for having judgments about its future based on what happens today. All about you progressing again within a few days. Hanging on will be.

Cancer
At first you will be excited by the mailbox full of phone calls. At first you will be excited by the mailbox full of phone calls. During a brand you could receive lots of confusing information and materials you don’t have at home, and finding other countries might require that you spend a lot of time on the phone, and it also would require calling for the different time zones, which could be a drag. You will eventually make the contacts you need, even if they don’t come until tomorrow!

Leo
Today you might feel the urge to get all unrelent work done. So why not? You could be in a hurry to work hard and feel perhaps not as constants at your job. You might spend a lot of time at the desk, not really enjoying what you’re doing. You might need to slow down online and talk closely at what you’re doing.

Virgo
A sudden burst of inspiration for a creative project might keep you up all night, especially if you need to do a lot of thinking first. You could feel like you don’t have enough time to develop the idea, but perhaps not as constants at your job. You might spend a lot of time at the desk, not really enjoying what you’re doing.

Libra
Communications coming your way today may be more plentiful than usual, Aquarius. You could use lots of contacts, phone calls. Act with your feet by the mailbox full of letters, but then find that some are just white others are addressed to people you never heard of. Hang in there. This tendency should pass by tomorrow!

Scorpio
You could be thinking about investing, Virgo, that this is the day to commit to this. A great way to consider your options is to study the market at the present moment. You need information and materials you don’t have at home, and finding will require a longer expenditure of time, energy, and resources, but you’re entitled to your specialty no matter what.

Sagittarius
A sudden burst of inspiration for a creative project might keep you up all night, especially if you need to do a lot of thinking first. Pisces
A friend may ask to borrow some money today, Pisces. You may feel that it’s not or asking for more than is really necessary and certainly more than you’re willing to give. You might think this is a day to give some money, but a day to give others in return. It’s probably a good one, and it looks like it’s all the better for having judgments about its future based on what happens today. All about you progressing again within a few days. Hanging on will be.
Australia sends peacekeepers as riots rock Solomon Islands

Amotu radial peacekeepers to the Solomon Islands were yesterday in the Solomons to assist the government to quell riots that threatened to bring the country to a standstill.

Prime Minister Ovia Sogavare called on neighbours and other friends of the island nation to provide the necessary support and security.

"There's mobs moving in the streets all around our own parents and our own children. There's mobs moving in the streets that are openly defying police," he told BBC television.

Australia's foreign minister, Marise Payne, said the deployment of Australian peacekeepers to the Solomon Islands is "an important international operation" and not just about the country's security.

"It's been a privilege to take over the leadership of our country from 1996. It's been a really difficult time for our country. It's been a really difficult time for our country. The situation has improved and we are now in the right direction but much more needs to be done," she said.

A significant acceleration of European integration may well be on the cards.

New Franco-Italian alliance in Europe

Italian Prime Minister Mario Draghi and French President Emmanuel Macron have agreed to sign a bilateral treaty, the so-called Quirinale Treaty named after the Roman palace — designed to boost bilateral relations.

But the new Franco-Italian power duo may be much more than that as it may lead to a closer relationship within the European Union.

A few months after taking office, Draghi has emerged as one of Europe’s most highly regarded and influential politicians. Just as he did with Italy’s support of Brussels, he has already visiting with President Joe Biden this month — a “for all-time” that he described as a “very strong relationship.”

According to Vice President for the rule of law, Draghi has made clear that “Italy and the United States need each other in terms of shared values as well as shared interests.”

And Draghi is doing all in his power to show that the world that can only function with rich, modern countries. The strategy pre-Eurozone, pro-Arabic world, pro-Western values has already carried political and policy moves that can change the course of Europe and the EU.

The past few weeks, there was a deep deal with Macron. Working together, the two leaders have an opportunity to wield more influence in the world for their countries, and for Europe.

The Quirinale Treaty is the result of the result of Draghi’s commitment to bridge the gap in Europe.

Climate science clearly shows that future prosperity and equity lie in one direction: toward a net-zero, carbon-free global economy.

By Jonathan Boxall and Tobias Baber

This month, the global climate agenda will be discussed at the COP26 summit in Glasgow. The world will not be able to achieve net-zero emissions by 2050, and the climate targets are not being met. The implications of this are clear: the world is facing a climate crisis.

Many policymakers continue to drag their feet, vowing instead that climate action will be delayed. But many experts are pushing for immediate action to reduce carbon emissions.

The world’s agricultural systems have been transformed, and the benefits of this transformation are clear. We now have the means to reduce the environmental impact of agriculture, and the science behind it is solid.

To achieve this, we need to implement policies that make agriculture more sustainable and profitable. We need to transform the food system, and the global community must act now.

Our recommendations for the next COP26 will be published in the fall.

Wasson, V. Climate Scientists Weigh Sustainability

The COP26 summit will be held in Glasgow in November, aiming to bring countries together to discuss and agree on actions to tackle climate change. The summit is crucial as it is the first time the world has met since the Paris Agreement, which was signed in 2015.

The summit’s host country, the UK, has been working on preparing for the event, and there is a strong expectation that the agreement will be ambitious and successful.

The conference will focus on three key areas: reducing greenhouse gas emissions, adapting to the impacts of climate change, and providing financial support to vulnerable countries.

In the lead-up to COP26, the UK has been hosting a series of events and dialogues to prepare countries for the summit. These events have been aimed at raising awareness about the importance of action on climate change and encouraging countries to take bold and ambitious steps.

The summit will be a crucial test of the international community’s commitment to the Paris Agreement. It is essential that countries come to Glasgow with concrete plans and actions to reduce their greenhouse gas emissions and adapt to the impacts of climate change.

To achieve a successful COP26, it is crucial that countries work together and demonstrate a collective commitment to the Paris Agreement. The summit is a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to take decisive action on climate change, and we must seize it.

MES holds spectacular event to welcome FIFA Arab Cup trophy

The Indian School held a spectacular event to welcome the FIFA Arab Cup trophy, on the way to reaching its target of 725,000 beneficiaries set to further increase with the new partnership. Generation Amazing has part-owned the legacy of the tournament, “The joy Generation Amazing brings to the children and adults – blossom into positive development,” said Machaille Hassan al-Naimi, the QF President of Community Development.

Generation Amazing has continued to co-operate with the Supreme Committee for Delivery & Legacy, Fawaz Abdullah al-Misufri, Head of Youth Centres Department, said: “We are pleased to co-operate with the Supreme Committee for Delivery & Legacy, to co-operate with the Supreme Committee for Delivery & Legacy, and to launch our joint programme, the GA-QF Ability Friendly Programme, which comes in consol- idation of the principle of mutual co-operation between the mini- stern and all bodies and institu- tions operating in the country, in a way that contributes to the achievement of its goals in pursuit of the QF’s vision and the Supreme Committee’s mission.”

The programme aims to provide an innovative approach which enables girls to exercise in a safe environment, and develop their life skills such as leadership, communication and teamwork through sport and football. Commenting on the partnership, Yousif Al-Mahmoudi, Head of Youth Centres Depart- ment at the Ministry of Sports and Youth, said: “We are pleased to co-operate with the Ministry of Sports and Youth, represented by Generation Amazing, to co-launch this joint pro- gramme, which comes in concord- iance with the principle of mutual co-operation between the mini- stern and all bodies and institu- tions operating in the country, in a way that contributes to the achievement of its goals in pursuit of the QF’s vision and the Supreme Committee’s mission.”

“On the other hand, we would like to emphasise the importance of continuing this co-operation with the SC and hope to hold multiple cycles of the programme in the future in other areas in cooperation with the Ministry of Sports and Youth,” he added. In his address, he complimented the students’ contingent parade in the spirit of the football tournament start- ing this month and aims to mark the one-year countdown to the FIFA World Cup Qatar 2022.
