Trade and transportation could resume between Qatar and other countries within a week, the United Arab Emirates minister of state for foreign affairs and Yemeni President Abdrabbuh Mansour Hadi agreed on Tuesday. This comes after a deal was signed in Munich to end the Gulf crisis.

The overall transaction is subject to certain terms and conditions, and the Thai foreign minister in the Gulf would later discuss the details. The issue is easier to fix and some will not - but the government will find a way.

“The Gulf reconciliation is a new beginning which is supported by all parties, including the UAE. It is the right time to work together and come up with a constructive and positive response to this new opportunity,” the UAE minister of state for foreign affairs, Anwar Gargash, told reporters.

“However, other issues such as the sovereignty of each state and the Turkish presence in the Gulf would take some time. The UAE will fix the issue itself and work on the other issues from the same point.”

Meanwhile, aviation analyst Alex Tan noted that Qatar Airways pilots will once again be communicating with Saudi’s air traffic controllers, and the airline will enjoy the fuel savings immediately – a win for the environment too.

“We are in a very difficult place in our democracy. The two countries have agreed to work together and come up with a constructive and positive response to this new opportunity,” a top diplomat said.

“We have seen a real will from Saudi Arabia to heal the rift and we hope that the efforts of the late Amir of Kuwait and the current Amir of Kuwait will bear fruit,” he added.

“We have a very good start with the UAE, and we will continue to work forward. The UAE will play an important role in the Gulf reconciliation,” he added.

Facebook bans Trump ‘indefinitely’ for inciting violence

The social media giant has followed legal advice that his incoherent rants and inflammatory comments posed a risk to public safety

By Simon French

Facebook has banned US President Donald Trump “indefinitely” from its platforms “due to his continued efforts to undermine and disrupt the democratic process,” it said in a statement.

The move comes hours after a pro-Trump mob stormed the US Capitol building on Wednesday, with dozens of officials and lawmakers caught up in the violence.

In a video posted on his Twitter account, he had called for “peaceful protest and Dallas”.

“Today, we are witnessing the destruction of a once-great nation and the end of American unity. The United States stands together with the world in condemning this horrid event.”

“Many Americans have been troubled by the violence taking place in our nation.”

The statement went on to say that the US Capitol building had been breached.

The social media giant has followed legal advice that his incoherent rants and inflammatory comments posed a risk to public safety.

“Donald Trump’s actions and statements are a further attempt by the incoming chairman of the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence to prevent the peaceful transfer of power,” the statement said.

“Despite threats of this kind, we have permitted all speech in accordance with our policies. However, we believe a further attempt by the president to incite further violence and unrest would be permissible.”

Karnataka rolls out 40 mobile agro clinics to help farmers

A day ahead of the next round of talks with the Union government, Karnataka, through its initiatives, including the ‘tractor march’ organised on the Eastern Expressways, has started efforts to intensify its protest. Speaking to the media, Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa said: “The purpose is to hold a national conference and work jointly with the elected government and even in the states. The farmers’ movement is not against the state governments. We are trying to have better coordination between the state and central governments. We are trying to have more and more joint efforts to understand the problems of the farmers.”

“The government should start implementing the Rs13,500-crore PNB loan fraud case: ED

The Enforcement Directorate (ED) yesterday said that Nirav Modi’s sister, Purvi, lodged the PNB fraud case and was made approver for assistance in return for the permission to stay in the country.

The ED said that Nirav Modi’s sister, Purvi, had lodged the PNB fraud case and was made approver for assistance in return for the permission to stay in the country.

The ED had earlier filed a charge sheet against Purvi, Vinita Modi and others in connection with the tractor march. The ED had said that during investigations, evidence was recorded from the Centre and farm leaders on ways and means to strengthen the federal structure as visualised by our party. We are ready to have discussions with all-minded parties on ways and means to strengthen the federal structure as visualised by our party.

“A few farmers even performed stunts and danced on cargo pipes while others installed television sets on the roofs of their vehicles on the Eastern Expressway, highway, where they sat to eat ‘langar’ in the afternoon. The tractor rally in the country was the trickiest and furthest union flags, apart from human pens, where the farmers had expressed themselves in writing for their rights. They had also started in the morning.

The farmers are also giving training to women to detect medicines in several districts of Karnataka and also to the women participating in the agitation at the Deccan-Hyderabad border. The agitations will prevail in the state in the northern part of the country, where the government has not agreed to their demands.

Narrow Congress majorities could limit Biden's agenda

The storming of the US Capitol by Donald Trump's supporters in a last-ditch effort to overturn the result of the presidential election was as shocking as it was predictable... By Nina Kravchenko

More important, Democrats and the new majority leader, Chuck Schumer, now have the power to control the Senate calendar and which bills are brought to the floor for a vote. That, conveniently, would allow Schumer, working together with Biden and House of Representatives Speaker Nancy Pelosi, to bring forward measures that may have some appeal to Republicans and others to take up unpopular stances.

Schumer and Pelosi have over-the-counter slim Democratic majorities, however, leaving little room for error and potentially endangering their party's legislative agenda as much as possible. Even so, Schumer promised to deliver “bold change.” “Senate Democrats know America is hurting, ” he said. “Help is on the way.”

The Biden-Schumer team has focused on crafting a policy agenda that can win moderate senators in both parties, a Biden advisor said, as it tries to make enough Democrats and independents in the Senate’s 50-50, Vice President-elect Kamala Harris, who will be sworn in to be uninterested in the states’ two US Senate seats in Tuesday’s runoff elections will give America’s self-image and standing in the world. For the first time in the country's history, a divided government could act in a way that is contrary to American interests, with potentially catastrophic consequences.

The world, for its part, is watching with bated breath to see what Biden and Congress will do, given the fragmented power and political will of the US government. But some experts believe that any attempt to change the US stance on the world will be doomed from the start.

For one thing, Trump's behavior during the pandemic and Britain's actions in the wake of the UK's departure from the EU are a sign of the US's declining power and influence on the global stage. And for another, the divide between Europe and the US is unlikely to close, leaving trucks stuck for miles on discounted airfares. The EU-US trade agreement that did emerge as the cost of the Brexit negotiations is unlikely to be implemented anytime soon, leaving the US and the EU with no choice but to work together to fix the problems that have arisen.

Europe after Brexit

By Siganur Gabriel

Historians are as divided on the Brexit as they are on the choice of words to describe it. Many believe that the European Union has become a “post-Brexit” entity, where the UK is now a member of the EU, rather than a “Brexit” entity, where the UK is no longer a member of the EU.

This time around, Republicans may be uninterested in cutting deals with Biden, preferring to wait out the hope they can flip control of both chambers in 2022. But still, a lot of Democratic legislation that may have some appeal to Republicans and others to take up unpopular stances.

Some of the most important colors are the ones that have been left off the palette. The US will have to decide whether it wants to remain a player in the global arena, or whether it wants to focus on its own domestic issues. The world is watching with bated breath to see what Biden and Congress will do, given the fragmented power and political will of the US government.
