Education City Gift Shop hosts works of local orphanage

Qatar Foundation (QF)’s Education City Gift Shop today showcased around 300 art and craft products that are handmade by children, for whom art is not just a hobby, but a dream to become artists or to continue exploring their creative skills, illustrating a collaboration between Qatar Foundation, Education City Gift Shop, and Dreama Foundation.

Among Dreama’s priorities is to showcase the children’s art for the world to identify their talent, be inspired and encourage young people to continue exploring their creativity and opportunity to express their skills in the form of artwork. "Our team of researchers are on the field to identify what works and what does not work when children access common interventions in clinical care. We do this through quantitative and qualitative methods, and meta-analyses are published in clinical journals. These clinical trials may not even be interpretable as randomized clinical trials, and the interventions tested in the trials are not limited to the clinical care of children," said Dr. Qiu.

Modificated car enthusiasts call for more competition

A number of car modification enthusiasts and garage owners have called for more competitions for each vehicle, so that they can participate in global tournaments for the madaline’s car category.

Hospitals in Lagos are facing a critical shortage of beds due to a surge in Covid-19 cases, with only 500 beds officially allowed. The city's health system is struggling to cope with the influx of patients, and medical workers are under immense pressure. The government has ordered all residents to stay home and not travel outside their localities. The situation in Lagos is particularly dire, with hospitals running out of beds and medical staff dealing with a high number of Covid-19 cases.

The Great Eastern Hospital, a private facility in Lagos, said it had run out of ventilators for patients with severe Covid-19. The hospital's medical director, Dr. Oluwatobi Osinubi, said they were experiencing a surge in cases and that they were at risk of running out of medical oxygen. The hospital is one of the few in Lagos that can handle Covid-19 patients, and its director is calling for immediate action to avert a medical crisis.

The Nigerian government has announced a lockdown in some areas to try to control the spread of Covid-19. The lockdown affects Lagos, Ogun and Ekiti states, and is expected to last for two weeks. The government has also urged people to wear face masks and practice social distancing.

The situation in Lagos is a stark reminder of the challenges faced by healthcare systems around the world in dealing with the Covid-19 pandemic. The pandemic has exposed the weaknesses in many healthcare systems, and the need for better preparedness and response to future health crises is now more urgent than ever.

Turkish expat Kurt Bozkurt says Qatar with mostly clear skies can become a hub for astrophotography

Kurt Bozkurt with his telescope

Kurt Bozkurt started his interest in 2010. He did some basic astronomical imaging and taking deep sky images. But he didn’t go deep into the sky until he moved to Qatar. "I did some basic astrophotography in Albania. Before getting settled in Qatar, I look down as I have been looking at the sky all my life," says Kurt.

"The Turkish engineer has a restless consciousness facilitator, certified transformational trainer and coach, who has over 30 years of international experience. He also unfolded the ways of self-sabotaging beliefs and called for a transformational change. We need to have some light pollution of the bright urban sky. It can be seen by emperors and kings. Such a facility can also help improve tourism in Qatar," says Kurt.

Kurt considers himself lucky to be doing astrophotography in Qatar. "The country is best poised to discover transparent belief. It has clear skies and the facility can be seen even by emperors and kings. In Qatar, I will be doing astrophotography in the desert all night with my car and camera. I avoid the night sky if there are times when I am alone or entering a restricted area. The professional engineer says that the image should go right." We need to have some light pollution of the bright urban sky. It can be seen by emperors and kings. Such a facility can also help improve tourism in Qatar," says Kurt.

London declares emergency over coronavirus

UK reports record 3,235 coronavirus deaths over 24 hours

London-UK-Prime Minister Boris Johnson on Saturday announced a new three-tier system of restrictions in England to combat the second wave of the coronavirus pandemic. The system, which will come into effect from Wednesday, will divide the country into tiers based on the rate of infection, with the highest tier expected to cover parts of northern and western England.

Johnson said the new system would allow more targeted measures to control the spread of the virus and prevent a second national lockdown, which would be economically damaging and socially restrictive. The government has been under pressure to act to avoid a surge in hospitalizations and deaths, which could strain the health care system to breaking point.

The new system will be based on the number of cases per 100,000 people over a period of seven days. There will be three tiers: Tier 1, where restrictions are in place but there are no restrictions on gatherings; Tier 2, where restrictions on gatherings are in place but there are no restrictions on travel; and Tier 3, where restrictions on gatherings and travel are in place.

The government has also introduced a new five-day Christmas bubble, allowing up to three households to come together for Christmas Day. The bubble will be extended to Christmas Eve and Boxing Day for people in Tier 2 or Tier 3, but not in Tier 1.

Johnson said the new system was necessary because the virus is spreading more quickly than expected, and that the government had learned from its response to the first wave of the pandemic. He added that the new system would be reviewed on a monthly basis to ensure it was effective.

The new system has been met with mixed reactions. Some people have welcomed the introduction of a more targeted approach to controlling the virus, while others have expressed concerns about the potential for further restrictions to be introduced.

The government has also announced that it will provide financial support to businesses affected by the new restrictions, including grants of up to £10,000 for businesses in Tier 3 and £10,000 to £25,000 for businesses in Tier 2.

The new system will be enforced by local authorities, and the government has promised to provide clear guidance to businesses and individuals to ensure compliance. The government has also announced that it will review the system in December to ensure it is working effectively.

The new system comes as the UK has recorded a record 3,235 deaths from coronavirus over the past 24 hours, bringing the total number of deaths to 45,428. The government has also announced that the number of cases in the UK has exceeded 1 million, with 1,008,903 new infections reported in the past seven days.

Johnson has said that the government will do everything possible to avoid a second national lockdown, and that the new system is designed to avoid such an outcome.

The World Health Organization (WHO) urged EU member states to step up the vaccine roll-out, after the bloc was accused of failing to accelerate its strategy to keep the coronavirus under control.

WHO chief Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus said that right now, only 1 in 50 people in Europe has received a dose of the vaccine. ‘We must step up the vaccination programme as a matter of urgency,’ he said. ‘It is not too late to buy time. It is not too late to turn the situation around.’

Good level of antibodies ‘found in Indian vaccines’

A clear indication that the Covishield vaccine being manufactured by the Serum Institute of India is safe and effective has come to the fore as a recent study has shown that the vaccine has induced a good level of antibodies in the human body. The study was conducted by the Indian Council of Medical Research (ICMR) and the National Institute of Virology (NIV), India.

For the study, ICMR requested VII from the Department of Biotechnology (DBT) to manufacture the vaccine on a large-scale. The institute had requested nine volunteers for the experiment, but DBT only gave them four volunteers, which was insufficient. Therefore, the institute decided to conduct the experiment on 12 volunteers, which showed a strong level of antibodies. The volunteers were given two doses of the vaccine, and at the end of two weeks, their blood samples were tested. The tests showed that the volunteers had induced a good level of antibodies in their bodies, which is a positive sign for the vaccine’s effectiveness.

The riotous end of Trump term

In the thousands of books certain to be written about President Donald Trump, the Cassius Clay of politics, winner of championships over the last 20 years, the man who once said he could beat Mike Tyson in a 15-round fight, has brought a conclusion to his presidency that would beholden Charles de Gaulle or Winston Churchill in the ruins of a defeated world. Something more than ransacking the offices of representatives and senators, is felonious sedition, and can lead to 20 years in prison. So be it. Something more than the obstruction. Mike Pence, in charge of proceedings, thought this was out of order, and ordered the rioters to leave. Some Republicans and Trump supporters thought it was unwise to make the mob stronger. Something more than the conviction of criminal obstruction of Congress, of which President Donald Trump was found guilty. The United States has a long history of mob violence, when the mobs are of white Americans. What is unusual about the mob violence of the last week is that it went on in the presence of politicians, rather than the politicians’ absence of those who are not white. Something more than the conviction of criminal sedition. The mob was unusual this time is that the white politicians themselves. This was unprecedented, but not unprecedented. Trump has repeatedly told his followers that they are America and America is the Republican’s loss of Georgia two weeks ago. Trump may have been badly hurt by the Georgia’s Senate elections this week, but he is still a dominant force in American politics. Something more than the conviction of criminal incitement to riot. The mob was unusually large in scale. Something new. It is not. The United States is the Bastille. — Tribune News Service

PM says Hazara demand tantamount to blackmail

Maryam criticises PM for describing it as ‘blackmail’

Maryam Nawaz, daughter of former prime minister Nawaz Sharif and vice-president of Pakistan Muslim League-Nawaz (PML-N), said on Wednesday that describing the Hazara demand as blackmail was wrong.

Speaking at a press conference here, she said the PM had admitted today that he was not going to Quetta “because of a security threat but said ‘Send my establishment’.”

The nation wants to know what the problem which the prime minister was afraid of was, she said.

This was an indication that the country was being blackmailed, she alleged.

“Those who don’t see the problem are also those who feed and support it,” she said.

The prime minister should either “consult the nation, do what is right or go back home”, she said.

People chanting slogans demanding justice, following the killing of coal miners from the Hazara community, have refused to stop their protests in a residential compound in Quetta, a city in the southwestern Balochistan province.

Mourners and women have also held protests in other areas, including a residential area near the Mach coalfield after 11 miners were killed.

The protesters, led by the student-led Special Assistant to Prime Minister for Human Rights, Zakaria Durrani, have also held protests in other areas.

The police have dispersed the protesters on several occasions, but they have continued their protests despite the police’s efforts to disperse them.

The prime minister, Maryam said, should do his duty and end the violence instead of blaming the protesters.

She also criticized the prime minister for saying that the Hazara community was “not in the country”.

The prime minister, she said, should consult the nation to do what was right or go back home.

The first weekend of Mahaseel Souq, which opened on January 7, is witnessing a huge turnout of shoppers and visitors, bringing another windfall to the participating local farms and companies.

The demand for fresh vegetable produce, milk and dairy products, and ornamental plants and flowers, remained high even after the Mahaseel Festival concluded last week.

Apart from regular customers, previous shoppers during the festival also returned to buy more items.

Locally-produced corn cobs were among the bestsellers, as well as cucumber, bell peppers of different varieties, tomato, radish, eggplant, and green leafy vegetables, among other herbs at reasonable prices.

Some products such as honey, molasses, dates, animal meat, and other poultry items, were also on offer, giving shoppers a wide range of choices.

It is learnt that flowers and ornamental plants, grass, tree seedlings, and design, in addition to gardening tools and equipment, were some of the fast moving items at the souq.

Katara – The Cultural Village is implementing a number of precautionary measures to ensure the health and safety of all at the Mahaseel Souq, in line with the Ministry of Public Health’s directives to limit the spread of the coronavirus (Covid-19).

Visitors are required to show a green code on their Ehteraz app, wear face masks, and practice social distancing.

More visitors and regular shoppers are enticed by the wide variety of local produce available at competitive prices at the Mahaseel Souq.
