'60% of eligible people to receive vaccine in 2 months'

S ome 60% of the eligible population will receive vaccination against Covid-19 in Qatar within two months, a senior official with the Ministry of Public Health has said.

"Vaccination reaches 60% of the eligible population. Life could return to normal," Dr. Khalid Al Attar, head of Vaccination at the MoPH, said.

The number of vaccine doses administered has increased by 14% since the others, which are in people aged 16 years and above, the ministry has said.

"Vaccination under 16 years of age is a large proportion of the country’s population. Qatar is closely following the ongoing research to examine the possibility of vaccinating children against Covid-19, and other research linked to the virus, which said it should not be overlooked there," Dr. Al Attar said.

"Once vaccination reaches 80% of the population, we will definitely be able to turn to normal," Dr Soha al-Bayat, head of the Department of Health in Qatar’s Ministry of Public Health, has said. On Saturday, the MoPH had announced that around 44,496 doses have been given at the local Lusail (11,266) and Al Wakra (33,230) drive-through facilities.

The official also stressed the importance of working within the framework of the 2021-2023 health strategy, highlighting the need for its implementation to achieve the current challenges, especially in the wake of the high television rate.

36% of ‘people’ get at least one dose

The Ministry of Public Health (MoPH) has announced that 35.3% of the people aged 16 years and above have received at least one dose of the Covid-19 vaccine before the end of October.

The ministry informed that 1,046,229 doses of the vaccine have been administered to people in Qatar till yesterday, with the vaccination rate now reaching 36% of people in the country who have received at least one dose of the vaccine so far.

The ministry also reported that 82.8% of people over 60 years, 85.1% of people over 70 years of age, and 78.4% of people over 80 years of age have received at least one dose of Covid-19 vaccine.

On Saturday, the MoPH announced that 3,200 people were being vaccinated daily. More than 4,446,400 doses have been given at the local Lusail (11,266) and Al Wakra (33,230) drive-through facilities.

QU forms joint committee to document Qatari heritage

The Qatar University (QU) has formed a joint committee with the College of Arts and Sciences to collect the stories of Qatari people, both adults and children, and their daily lives during the 1960s and 1970s. The initiative is inspired by the lack of written records about this period in Qatari history, as many changes occurred in the lifestyle of the Qatari people during the 1960s and 1970s, according to a statement by QU President Prof. Dr. Falah Al-Kuwari.

“The purpose of this initiative is to document an aspect of the national heritage of Qatar to benefit the future generations of the Qatari people, as well as to students and researchers from around the world interested in studying and researching Qatar and the Gulf region in general. In particular, these stories will provide an outlook on the various topics that can be written about are: work in the oil industry, the lifestyle of the Qatari community, and the stories of those who have lived in the 1960s and 1970s.”

“The campaign to collect the stories of Qatari people, individuals if they wish to share some information about themselves or their relatives, is build on the authority of the University Library said: “We will start an archive of the national heritage of Qatar during the aforementioned period. Therefore, we call on the Qatari people, as well as students and researchers that wish to benefit the future generations of the Qatari people, to share their experiences and stories of their lives through this campaign.”

“The committee respects the privacy of individuals if they wish to share some stories without mentioning their names. Among the topics that can be written about are: work in the oil industry, the lifestyle of the Qatari community, and the stories of those who have lived in the 1960s and 1970s. Spiritual and physical well-being via fasting

A l-Butik, may Allah have mercy upon him, has reported that fasting has the concept of "hauz". He explained that fasting means, "Allah has said, ‘Fasting has been prescribed for you, as it was prescribed for those before you, so that you may learn self-restraint’." He also mentioned that fasting is a means of purification and a way to purify the body. He emphasized that fasting is a way to purify the body and the digestive tract. He said, "Fasting is the best method to cleanse toxins and poisons from the body. It is considered important to stay away from sleep and food during fasting. The treatment for a variety of diseases such as diabetes, obesity, chemical poisoning, allergy, eye diseases, cold, headache, bowel syndrome, hemorrhoids, malnutrition, etc., is fasting. New Zealand has set its sights on becoming the first country in the world to be smoke-free by 2025, with the country’s health minister-designate, Ayesha Verrall, announcing plans to introduce a “smoke-free generation plan” at a dinner meeting with visiting US climate envoy John Kerry.

Kerry arrived in Seoul on Saturday, and asked the US side to take into account requests by Japan for “early decisive and thorough treatment of the issue.”

In Brazil — which like the rest of the world had more severe infections during the first wave — doctors are also seeing higher prevalence of children coming down with COVID-19.

Calls grow for more oxygen, beds as virus crisis deepens

India’s health ministry said 40% of the worst-hit city in India — 25,500 infections were reported in the last one week as India has reported a similar increase of 65% in the last one year as compared to 46% last year, data aggregated from national and state-level data.

“We are also seeing children under the ages of 12 and 15 being admitted with symptoms in the second wave. Last time patients were practically to children, but now we are seeing a lot more patients in the age group of 12-15,” said Delhi Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal.

India has reported 200,000 coronavirus cases in a single day for the first time, according to the latest count from Johns Hopkins University.

Australia’s Prime Minister Scott Morrison has rejected calls for the country to open its borders to non-citizens and non-residents.

S Korea, US differ over Japan’s Fukushima plans

Sixty-four percent of South Korea’s population opposes South Korea’s plan to release contaminated water from the crippled Fukushima nuclear power plant into the sea, a new poll showed Friday.

Australia has had only 235 double-doses of the Pfizer vaccine and 170,000 single-doses, and only 130 of those have been administered.
Thwaites Glacier, one of Antarctica’s fastest melting glaciers, which has been calculated to be melting twice as fast as the average rate, could be blocking the retreat of the western Antarctic ice sheet, contributing to a 4% rise in global sea levels, is back in the news.

A robotic submarine has returned from the first-ever trip under the ice shelf with some alarming information. The glacier could be melting at the key points anchoring it to the land, faster than previously thought. Though the 192,100 sq km chunk of ice, nicknamed the “Doomsday Glacier,” in West Antarctica has been on climate change radars for some time now, they did not know just how fast the glacier was melting.

The first measurements (ever) under Thwaites Glacier have revealed that a previously underestimated current of warm water flowing from the east, whirling away from its northern end, is eroding it at its main anchoring point, located to the north.

Since Thwaites Glacier acts like a cork in a bottle, stopping the open ocean from melting into the ocean.

The warming of the ocean water is a major issue. The ocean is heating up, and as it warms, it gets saltier, which makes it denser and helps it sink. This sinking is crucial because it helps to mix deep, cold water into the upper layers of the ocean, which helps to regulate the climate. But if the water in the ocean warms too much, it can start to sink less, which can have a big impact on climate change.

One of the main ways that the ocean can get warmer is by absorbing heat from the atmosphere. This is called ocean warming, and it is happening all over the world. The ocean is warming up faster than the rest of the Earth, and this is causing problems for the planet. As the ocean warms, it is also becoming more acidic, which is making it harder for some species to survive.

The only relief is that scientists are for the first time collecting data that is necessary to model the dynamics of Thwaites glacier last stronghold for Thwaites and once it unpins from the sea bed, the weight of the glacier may be enough to reverse the flow of the cavity floor, helping scientists to visualise the paths that the warm water is taking in and out. They spotted three main inflows of warm water that are entering the cavity, and the submarine’s sonar also enabled high-resolution ocean mapping.

Pakistan govt says no negotiations with TLP, which it has banned for violent practices, as it vows to establish writ

France protests. Officials said, after days of violent anti-French demonstrations in Paris, that French foreign ministers were set to discuss the matter at their meeting today. French embassy's call for its diplomatic staff to leave Pakistan appears to have gone largely unheeded so far, with many questioning the embassy's move as a response to provocation and the government's refusal to apologize for the attack on consular staff.

Navalny's allies say he refused medical care on Sunday.

SRINAGAR (Reuters) - Kashmiri Youths and students protested in the Indian-controlled Kashmir valley on Tuesday against France's publishing of Prophet Mohammed cartoons in its satirical magazine, Charlie Hebdo.

Navalny's allies had declared a "historic protests" campaign for months since Navalny began refusing food in February for parole. His dedication is paying off, and he hopes will be the largest of its kind.

Four police officers were injured and 15 people, mostly protesters, were hurt. The protesters were supporters of a radical Islamist party, the Tehreek-e-Labbaik Pakistan (TLP), which the government has banned for violent practices.

The protesters have purged city streets of large sections of the French capital to protest against cartoons published in a satirical magazine. The protests included violent clashes, with protesters throwing stones and燃烧弹 at police, who responded with tear gas and water cannons.

Navalny's allies sued for murder.

To be a continuing and professional education (CPE) department at the College of Continuing and Professional Education (CPE) Department at the College of North Atlantic – Qatar, CNA-Q has initiated many programs and partnerships to encourage sustainable practices in Qatar.

The partnership between the SC and the QGBC has resulted in the documentation of the work during the effectiveness of the collaboration in the sustainability sector. By the end of the World Cup, Qatar’s hospitality sector will continue to welcome guests long after the final whistle.

"Our support to sustainability in Qatar has been instrumental in the successful delivery of the FIFA World Cup. "The SC and the QGBC have collaborated to deliver outstanding sustainability initiatives, including fan engagement programs that encourage guests to leave their accommodation during the World Cup in 2022," said Bodour al-Meer, underlined the importance of the collaboration with the QGBC.

"The hospitality sector will play a key role in the ecological delivery of the tournament," the SC, QGBC team up to champion sustainability
