Qatar ‘supports countries and organisations in combating Covid-19’

HE the Minister of Public Health Dr Hanan Mohamed al-Kuwari addressing the 74th session of the World Health Assembly said Qatar has allocated $20mn to the Global Alliance for Vaccines and Immunisation (GAVI), and more recently signed a $10mn core contribution agreement with the World Health Organisation (WHO) to support its 13th General Programme of Work (GPW13) and the objectives of accelerating the access to Cov- id-19 tools in countries most in need, Qatar News Agency re- ported. In her speech, Dr al-Kuwari highlighted the efforts of Qatar and the independent advisory panel of the Independent Panel for Pandemic Preparedness and Response who have contributed to the pandemic with commitment, making choices and learning along the way. “It is our global responsibility to do everything we can to prevent the next pandemic and ensure it is better than the last one,” she added.

The minister asserted that the necessary changes and learnings were highlighted and reinforced the importance of securing the UN Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), the International Health Regulations and the Paris Agreement, all of which are essential to prevent future pandemics. “We all have a responsibility during these difficult times, to do everything we can to prevent the global health emergency and learn from it. Thus, Qatar welcomes the Independent Panel’s report and looks forward to the process of discussing it in full detail, especially defining the role and mechanisms for future pandemics to meet the necessary changes and learnings that can be implemented.”

The minister concluded her speech saying: “The Covid-19 pandemic has posed unprecedented challenges to all of us. It has contributed to the pandemic with commitment, making choices and learning along the way. It is our global responsibility to do everything we can to prevent the next pandemic and ensure it is better than the last one.”

Since the start of the pan- demic, our healthcare teams at Al Laffan have cared for more than 4,000 patients with Cor- onavirus. Each and every member of the staff has made an im- portant contribution to the health- care system’s overall response to Covid-19.”

By boosting bed capacity across our facilities, we are delivering high-quality care without delay to any patient in need of med- ical care, we have been able to have one of the lowest Covid-19 mortality rates in the world. I am immensely proud of the team at Al Laffan,” he added.

With the last Covid-19 pa- tients now discharged from Al Laff an Hospital, the facility will recommence normal services as per normal operations and the Ministry of Health. Dr Saleh al-Khulaifi explained: “With Al Laff an Hospital’s role as a Covid-19 facility now coming to an end, we look forward to returning to normal service provision and delivering high-quality med- ical services to people living in Al Wakra and the surrounding areas. Every week, our skilled and devoted teams provide care to tens of thousands of patients through a wide range of health- care, emergency, laboratory, and diagnostic services. And during these difficult times, our patients need our help to get back on their feet and resume normal activities. We will continue to work to return to normal operations.”

He added that they have pro- vided support, through the nail, to the process of vaccinating the members of working groups in all business sectors, especially groups that usually don’t directly represent community members such as working and healthcare workers, social workers, education officials and hotels and hospitality workers.

Dr Abdullatif noted that teams of the Covid-19 vaccination ap- pointee unit work directly with the business sector to organize appointments and ensure that employees receive the vaccine as soon as possible. “Thousands of workers have received the vaccine so far,” he added. He also emphasised that only businesses, and not individuals, can communicate with the ap- pointed scheduling unit at the ministry to book appointments for their employees.

Addressing a press conference earlier this month, Dr AlAbdul- latif al-Khulaifi, chair of the National Strategic Group on Covid-19 and head of the Infectious Diseases Division at Hamad, highlighted the need for the vaccination of workers in the health sector to support the gradual lifting of restric- tions. Dr Al-Khulaifi said, “In a week or two, those who are ready to return to work can do so, with the proper safeguards in place such as social distancing and wearing masks.”

There has been an infusion of vaccines in the country to mark the end of the first phase of the vaccination drive. The Qatar Ministry of Public Health confirmed the completion of the first phase of the vaccination drive with the inoculation of more than 120,000 workers vaccinated in preparation for Phase 1 of lifting Covid restrictions

To us, the principle is simple: we have to be patient. Protecting the right to edu- cation is a basic right for all children. Protection of this right is linked to the right to health, the right to live, and the right to safety. Education is a human right and it is the right of every child to be protected.”

Protecting the right to edu- cation from attack is part of Qatar’s global advocacy efforts under the UN Economic and Social Council (ECOSOC), the UN Children’s Fund (UNICEF), the United Nations Population Fund (UNFPA), the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP), the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR), Mena Youth Capacity Building in Support of National Action (MYCAN) and the Arab States Alliance for the Rights of Children (ASARC). The campaign recognises that the right to education is an essential right to education is a basic right for all children. Protection of this right is linked to the right to health, the right to live, and the right to safety. Education is a human right and it is the right of every child to be protected.”

The campaign recognises that the right to education is essential for the overall development of the child in all respects. It is essential for the moral, physical, social and intellectual well-being of the child. The campaign is based on international standards and aims to promote education as a right for all children.

The campaign aims to raise awareness about the importance of education for all children and to mobilize support for the achievement of the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), particularly Goal 4: “Ensure inclusive and equitable quality education and promote lifelong learning opportunities for all.”

The campaign is supported by a coalition of organizations, including the UN Children’s Fund (UNICEF), the UN Economic and Social Council (ECOSOC), the UN Human Rights Council (UNHRC), the UN Special Rapporteur on the Right to Education, and others. The campaign also engages with governments, civil society organizations, and other stakeholders to advance the rights of all children to receive quality education.

The campaign’s core message is that education is a fundamental right and that all children should have access to quality education, regardless of their background or circumstances. It calls on governments, policymakers, and society as a whole to prioritize education and to ensure that children have the opportunities they need to achieve their full potential.

The campaign’s website provides resources, tools, and information to help advance education rights and to support the achievement of the SDGs. The website includes stories and testimonials from children around the world who have benefited from quality education, as well as information on the rights to education and the strategies that can be used to promote them. The campaign encourages individuals, organizations, and governments to take action to protect and promote children’s rights to education.

The campaign’s impact has been significant, with a growing number of countries and organizations committing to support the rights of children to education. The campaign has also helped to raise awareness and to mobilize support for the achievement of the SDGs, particularly Goal 4. The campaign’s success has been a result of the collective efforts of all those who have worked to advance education rights and to promote the rights of all children to receive quality education.
349 new Covid-19 cases reported

The Ministry of Public Health (MoPH) announced yesterday 349 new confirmed cases of coronavirus (Covid-19). Of these 349 cases, 342 were from community transmission and 7 were from abroad.

The MoPH said 3,265 Covid-19 vaccine doses have been administered since the start of the national vaccination programme. Of these doses, 318 were given in the past 24 hours.

Under the programme, 50% of the eligible population has now received at least one dose of the vaccine with 62.5% of people over 60 who are a vulnerable population group have been vaccinated with at least one dose. In recent weeks, the combined impact of Covid restrictions and vaccination rates, and the overwhelming support from the community, has resulted in a consistent reduction in the number of new A493 infections in the country.

However, it is still important to be cautious as the second wave is not yet over and there are still two highly contagious and virulent strains of the virus that are actively circulating in the community.

The plan to gradually lift restrictions will be delivered over four phases with each phase subject to changing criteria. The measure is in line with the Cabinet decision, Decree Law No 7 of 2020 on the isolation of people diagnosed with Covid-19. The decision provides the public with due notice of the precautionary measures that should be taken before entering public places to ensure their safety and that of others.

Among them, 366 people were referred to the prosecution for violating Covid measures enforced by the force in the country to contain the spread of Covid-19, including 84 for gathering at parks and Corniche, 52 for not maintaining safe physical distancing.

Also, two people were fined for not wearing masks in places where it is mandatory.

Two people were referred to the prosecution for not installing the Ehteraz app and were identified as two others who did not maintain the necessary medical care. The ministry announced two highly contagious and virulent strains of this virus too early with the new, lent variants of the virus that are highly-transmissible variants in the community, thus it is still important to be cautious as the second wave is not yet over and there are still two highly contagious and virulent strains of the virus that are actively circulating in the community.

On another note, the MoPH recorded 339 recoveries from the virus during the past 24 hours, bringing the total number of cases recovered to 48,228, and 64, both of whom were chronic ill, and had received their medical care.

The public is encouraged to follow them and abide by the speed limit to ensure safety.

Qatar Charity distributes relief aid in West Bank

Qatar Charity (QC) has said its ‘Help Palestine’ drive has benefitted 250 families, with an average of five members per family, in the region’s governorates of Jenin, Tulkarm, Ramallah and Nablus in the West Bank.

The aid delivered as part of QC’s ‘Help Palestine’ campaign, which has received the active support of the benevolent people of Qatar, has distributed relief food aid to those affected by the recent crisis that has caused massive displacements of people, particularly on the large-scale destruction of Gaza. QC said in a statement.

“My heart was broken when I watched, unfortunately because of the position occupied in Qatar, it cannot be seen by everyone, the tragedy that happened in Gaza,” said Rocca. “The violence affected not only the most vulnerable people of Gaza, but this time also our premises. This encouraged us to continue helping the displaced.”

The ‘Help Palestine’ campaign, which would provide food and humanitarian assistance to the Palestinians, we are committed to, is not just the Aktar programme, but a bigger operation. We are raising awareness and together – with our community – we are enabling all Qataris to contribute to the relief drive. Our goal is to contribute to the relief efforts in Gaza and to alleviate their suffering.”

QRCS, IFRC see greater potential for humanitarian co-operation

The officials of Qatar Red Crescent Society (QRCS) and the International Federation of Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies (IFRC) have highlighted the greater potential for humanitarian co-operation.

This came after a virtual meeting held by QRCS president Sheikh Abdulla Bin Thamer al-Thani and International Secretary General John Suchocki, during which both parties agreed to have closer ties and understanding with IFRC, as well as the Italian Red Cross, which is known as IRC.

The meeting discussed the latest developments in the global humanitarian arena, focusing particularly on the large-scale destruction of Gaza, QRCS said in a statement.

“We are committed to the Fundamental Principles of the Red Cross and Red Crescent Movement. We need to support our people, because we are one body. It is really sad to see all this,” Suchocki said.

Both sides agreed to “stand together” for humanity and lend a helping hand to people and as an organisation, to stand for humanity and lending a helping hand to fellow human beings, Suchocki said.

Qatar Red Crescent Society (QRCS) was founded in 1958 by the Supreme Council of Islamic Affairs in the State of Qatar, under the patronage of His Highness the Amir Sheikh Tamim bin Hamad Al-Thani. It is an independent humanitarian organisation that carries out humanitarian activities around the world, following the Fundamental Principles of the International Red Cross and Red Crescent Movement.

QRCS has always been engaged in the global humanitarian arena, following particularly the large-scale destruction of Gaza. QRCS has expressed concern for the suffering of the Palestinian people, and has called for urgent action for the victims of the latest violence.

On May 27, the organisation will use its delivery app talabat announced with QC to offer urgent humanitarian relief efforts in Palestine. The aid will be directed through the talabat app – on orders placed on its app across all talabat’s markets, will contribute towards humanitarian relief efforts in Palestine.

QRCS has received several thousand messages of praise from people as a sign of their support for the organisation’s efforts. QRCS has also announced that it will continue to receive donations via its website, mobile app, branches and collection points across the country, to address the ongoing humanitarian crisis and support the displaced people.

QRCS also highlighted the potential for humanitarian co-operation between Qatar and Italy, following the virtual meeting held by QRCS president Sheikh Abdulla Bin Thamer al-Thani and international Red Cross officials.

H ELC in Qatar has published the first book giving in-depth knowledge of Qatar’s emerging experimental ecosystem.

Qatar’s Experimental Ecosystem provides stakeholders looking to engage in Qatar’s dynamic ecosystem with a comprehensive understanding of the opportunities that are opening within the ecosystem.

Qatar’s Experimental Ecosystem is revealing a new economic reality, one where innovation and business growth are driven by new models of organisational development and performance.

The book is the first to examine Qatar’s entrepreneurial ecosystems and processes in their entirety. It is a comprehensive overview of the current reality, as in all of its components it also presents a set of recommendations gleaned from real-world best practices for stakeholders from other sectors and public entrepreneurs (Qatar National Vision 2030).

The book is an effort to make Qatar’s experimental ecosystem more accessible to large social and academic communities.

the public remains wary of the actual toll as only people who have tested positive are counted, whereas many victims were never tested. The Economic Times’ calculations based on data from the World Health Organization showed that around a million people have died of the disease in India. A non-official tally from the Health Ministry put the toll at 1,060,438, far short of the official 414,188 peak reported on May 7. The country’s official case load is the worst-hit on the planet, behind only Brazil and the US, which is the worst hit country overall. The World Health Organization, however, said that India could be facing a significant increase in cases in the coming weeks. Authorities, however, said they were not sure how the latest cases contrast with the virus that has been circulating for two months. There are no recent figures on the number of deaths due to Covid-19 in India.

India’s Covid vaccine ebb; states struggle for vaccines

The Indian government has announced plans to ramp up a sluggish national inoculation drive. The drive, which was launched in January, has faced several setbacks, including delays in the supply of vaccines and the emergence of new variants of the virus. The government has promised to accelerate the vaccination drive to reach herd immunity by the end of the year, but experts say this is unlikely to happen in the absence of a robust strategy and adequate supplies of vaccines.

The shadow health secretary, Jonathan Ashworth, said that they had had an “intense” meeting with officials at the Department of Health and Social Care “on what we believe is a matter of the utmost importance” as the country’s health and social care services approach winter months following two years of the pandemic.

He said the Labour party had raised concerns with officials since the Spring about the Government’s response to the pandemic, especially on vaccination and the use of antigen tests.

He added: “The Prime Minister’s handling of the pandemic has been disastrous and we have made it clear that we will hold him to account at the election.”

The Health Secretary said that the Whips Office would meet the opposition leader at 12.30pm, but a spokesperson said they had no further information.

Separately, the party leader said that the UK’s response to the pandemic had been “inept” and “ineffective” and that the government had failed to act.

She said: “It is not just the Prime Minister’s handling of the pandemic that is in question, but also the way his government has dealt with the economy and the way it has handled the climate crisis.”

The Prime Minister has faced criticism for his handling of the pandemic, with some Labour members calling for him to resign.

Labour leader Keir Starmer has also called for an independent inquiry into the government’s response to the pandemic.

Crypto wild ride throws spotlight on extreme turbulence

The cryptocurrency market is used to frequent and extreme speculative frenzy with Bitcoin standing as a perfect measure of the wild ride. Bitcoin surging as much as 50% in each direction last Wednesday alone, when it fell as low as $10,216, the least since January. The extreme volatility carried throughout the world’s largest cryptocurrency has intensified blockchain’s expansiveness with double-digit percentage moves. A pronounced volatility on Bitcoin comparable to the US equity market’s VIX indicator sits above 110, higher than the stock market’s most volatile times. Bitcoin’s thirty-day historical volatility in the coin at 100, some seven times more than the S&P 1100, according to a Bloomberg analysis. The turbulent streak began after Elon Musk and Tesla would no longer accept Bitcoin as payment for its electric vehicles, citing the coin’s intensive energy use.

The bottom line: The vast majority of investments aren’t making a profit unless Bitcoin trades at $36,000, or higher at a low.

There are a few factors responsible for the volatility. Bitcoin is held by relatively few people, meaning that price swings are magnified during low-volume periods. And the market remains hugely fragmented with dozens of platforms and exchanges the anonymity provided by Bitcoin and other crypto tokens. There are some high slumps involved in the speculate plays. One half of the 4,300 on-asking current Bitcoin holders remained in the past 12 months, according to a report from blockchain analysis firm Chainalysis. About 50% of that was spent on buying at an average cost of less than $12,000 per coin.

A vast majority of investments aren’t end up in losses unless Bitcoin trades at $36,000, or higher at a low. Russia fines Google and Facebook for failing to delete banned content

A British court on Wednesday ordered Google and Facebook to remove about 170,000 Russian-language postings that violate a law aimed at maintaining public order, with fines up to $42 million if the companies don't obey.

The Russian government has been ramping up enforcement of the law, which bans online content deemed to disrupt the country's social order.

Facebook had about 143,000 of the postings in violation of the law, while Google had 28,000, the court said.

The law requires social media companies to remove content deemed to disrupt the country's social order within 24 hours of being notified by the Russian communications ministry. The violations are not publicized, making it difficult for users to know which restrictions have been imposed.

This is the second time since March that Russian authorities have ordered the two companies to remove posts and the failure to do so will lead to fines.
SC, QM sign MoU to support delivery of Qatar 2022

Organisations will collaborate on various programmes during lead-up to FIFA World Cup

The Supreme Committee for Delivery & Legacy (SC) and Qatar Museums (QM) have signed a memorandum of understanding (MoU) in an effort to enhance the FIFA World Cup tournament experience in 2022.

The MoU will see SC and QM form a joint working group to support the delivery of various programmes and activities, digital collaborations, conferences and workshops. The group’s mandate will be to share the overall tournament experience in the lead-up to the FIFA World Cup Qatar 2022.

In a statement, FIFA World Cup Qatar 2022 LLC CEO Nasser al-Khater said: “We are very pleased to formalise our strong working relationship with QM. As we build toward Qatar 2022, it is imperative that we continue to work closely with all stakeholders in order to deliver an outstanding experience. QM will contribute significantly in this area by providing fan attractions and support the development of a uniquely Arab cultural experience, which matched in FIFA World Cup history. We look forward to working with QM on a host of important initiatives over the next 18 months.”

QM CEO Ahmad Musa al-Namla said: “Our partnership with the SC estimates our commitment to ensuring our cultural and traditional heritage reach as wide an audience as possible. We are delighted to partner with the SC and look forward to welcoming international fans and extending an enriching and memorable cultural experience for Qatar 2022.”

Areas of mutual collaboration between the SC and QM will include communications support, sharing knowledge and expertise, research and cultural capacity building. The partnership will also collaborate on content development and curations, as well as programmes related to education, community outreach, sport and health-related events.

The partnership will also see the two organisations work closely on a range of Qatar 2022 initiatives, including those related to culture and entertainment. It will also include collaborations on exhibits at the 331 Qatar Olympic and Sports Museum, which is located at Khalifa International Stadium – one of eight Qatar 2022 tournament venues.

South Duhail and Umm Lekhba project to boost local development

The roads and infrastructure project in South Duhail and Umm Lekhba areas marked by Public Works Authority (Ashghal) will provide infrastructure to the area, with well-developed services and internal streets network in order to improve traffic flow and provide connection with public utilities.

According to an Ashghal statement, construction works of the QR73.4m South Duhail and Umm Lekhba project are progressing. The project is implemented as part of Ashghal’s plan to develop roads and infrastructure to serve citizens’ subdivisions and plots in most different areas nationwide.

Located in South Duhail and Umm Lekhiba areas, the project extends to the east of Al Matariya Road and west of Al Khatif Road, from Al Khafji Street to the north and Al Duhail Street to the south.

Rashed Al-Zeyara, project engineer at Ashghal’s Roads Projects Department’s Doha City Section, said the project is expected to improve important infrastructure over the next 18 months.

The project works are divided into three phases. Each phase covers a geographical area within the project’s overall area as much as possible.

The scope of works includes the consolidation and improvement of existing roads; construction of a 21km new road network; improvement of streets and the completion of the first phase works.

Upcoming works will focus on completing the road works and the upgrading of streets and the completion of the first phase works.
