SOUTH AFRICA’S Bok captain Kolisi escaped ban despite headbutt during the Springboks’ 26-20 win over Scotland’s Peter Horne during the match at Murrayfield.

Kolisi, 27, had received a warning on Saturday in Edinburgh on their November tour of Europe, after being shown a yellow card against Italy.

A statement from global rugby body World Rugby said, “Both teams were aware of the incident, and Horne was yellow carded for his part of a player’s disciplinary record.”

“With his growing years and experience, he should have found a better way of coping with pressure,” said his coach, Erasmus.

Sydney: Tim Cahill’s farewell tour may be finished, but the 38-year-old forward will still be looked to at the last five minutes to keep the semi-finalists in the hunt against France. While England's friendly against against Uruguay in Sydney on Tuesday, Nov 20, will see Cahill, 38, write another episode in his footballing friendship with his teammates in the Three Lions.

Arnold said his foundation would not be able to get the most out of Cahill if he was not confident in his game. Cahill, who wore England's 108th and final cap in today's game, is one of the country's record scorers Wayne Rooney, 33. Cahill has been the Three Lions' top scorer since the 1966 World Cup, having scored 48 goals.

Arnold said tomorrow's friendly against France at the Allianz Stadium was an important game for Australia. Cahill, 38, was last seen at his club's World Cup semi-finals for Australia, barring England from appearing in the World Cup. Cahill, the former Everton and Chelsea striker, said he was not interested in playing for England because he was not interested in the position.
