‘Doha Worlds is a unique experience for all of us and we are excited to be a part of this great event’

Todays high jump.

SPORTS bring people together, especially young ones. It’s amazing that we have the chance to prepare for an event like this and to meet with many international athletes.

At the Grand Prix in Doha, where athletes from the Middle East, Asia, and Europe came together in one of the most beautiful stadiums in the world, athletes are looking forward to the upcoming World Athletics Championships in Doha.

Many German and Qatar sports enthusiasts had an exciting opportunity to meet some of the top German athletes, including Gesa Felicitas Krause, who claimed bronze in the women’s 3,000-metre steeplechase on his first career podium.

Krause’s breakthrough at a major championship: “It was a very difficult season with a lot of training and preparation, but the bad news was that it wasn’t sufficient to make me feel very proud tonight. Next – the European Championships in Doha is a unique experience for all of us and we are excited to be a part of this great event. We keep our fingers crossed for the German athletes and look forward to witnessing outstanding athletic achievements and great sportsmanship.”

The 30-year-old from Bledzewko became only the sixth man to break 80m three years ago. He is now looking to secure his second title in a row in the hammer at the World Championships in Doha.”

Fajdek has been the second-fastest female European pole vault athlete, after Belgium’s Nicola Gadihou, who ran a world record 8:58.41. “I’m ready to be proud that I won a bronze medal for my country in Doha. I’m satisfied with my performance and I believe that I could win a national record as well,” said Krause.

THE GERMAN ATHLETICS ASSOCIATION (DLV) is an 850,000-members strong and very successful organization, among others.

“After the first of his golds came in Moscow today — the first of his golds came in Moscow in 2015 — he broke the world record. In London, he broke the world record in London. Two years later in London he broke the world record in London.”

Poland’s Wojciech Fajdek claimed a fourth consecutive hammer throw title on Wednesday night.

“On what the gold medal means to him and for Poland, Fajdek said: ‘It’s a nice day for me, and maybe for everyone.”

Holloway’s long 2019 road ends with hurdles greats

A self-confessed student of the sport, Holloway recalls poring over hours of videos of hurdles greats – the engaging, articulate and highly-illuminating commentaries and insights into the sport that he can now deliver himself.

Holloway – a former coach to world record holder Michel Tanguay, and a four-time former world champion in the 110m hurdles and 60m hurdles – said his best advice to the 400m hurdles man was to have faith in what he is doing.

“Your body is the key,” he said. “You have to put in the work and trust what you are doing. You have to trust your coach, your training and your fitness.”

Holloway said he believed in the “Holloway way” and that his training and coaching philosophy was to keep things simple and focus on the fundamentals.

“For me, it’s about the mental aspect of the sport,” he said. “It’s about believing in yourself and your ability to perform. It’s about being consistent and working hard. It’s about having a clear plan and sticking to it.”

Holloway said he had been able to achieve success in the sport by focusing on the present and not getting caught up in the past. He said he had learned to stay focused and to enjoy the process.

“I have always believed in the power of the mind,” he said. “If you have a positive attitude and believe in yourself, you can achieve anything you want.”

Holloway is now looking forward to the upcoming Diamond League season and is excited about the opportunity to compete against the best in the world. He said he was ready to take on the challenge and to continue to grow as a hurdler.

“Every time I step on the track, I am ready to compete and give my best,” he said. “I am ready to take on the best in the world and to see where I stand.”

Holloway said he was excited about the prospect of facing the world’s best hurdlers and was ready to take on the challenge.

“I am ready to take on the best in the world,” he said. “I am ready to see where I stand and to try to improve.”
