Lewis Hamilton clinched his sixth world title, but not in the style he hoped for on Sunday when he started second be- hind his triumphant Mercedes team-mate Valtteri Bottas in an eventful United States Grand Prix.
The 34-year-old Briton fought with ferocious determination to win from fifth on the grid, but was unable to match the Finn, who started from pole to take his second United States win.
It sealed his sixth title, leaving him one adrift of Michael Schumacher on the greats.

But Hamilton had to work hard to claim a rare win to tie with Argentina’s Juan-Manuel Fangio.
He replied, ignoring a Mercedes team order: “I want to go longer, ” he said.
“Box, box, ” said his engineer, but the driver said no. “I want to go longer, ” he replied.

The Finn was soon past Leclerc to take second while Hamilton followed and took advantage of both Ferraris.
“Trout have damage, ” reported Vettel.
“I didn’t hit anything, but I have some damage, ” he added.

Leclerc won the pole yesterday, taking pole position for the first time in the United States.

Bottas followed one lap later, re-joining the field ahead of Vettel.

It was Bottas’s fourth win of the season, which was 17th of his career.

Hamilton parked his Mercedes in a space “reserved for the champion” behind him.

Bottas took full advantage of both Ferraris.

“I must have damage, ” reported Vettel.
Hulkenberg in the second Renault and Hulkenberg also moved up to third.

Bottas and Vettel were 15th and 10th in the points.

As Hamilton crossed the line, Vettel was 0.7 seconds behind Hamilton and six seconds behind Bottas.

Bottas’ engine caught fire on lap 14.

Bottas followed one lap later, taking second as the Silver Arrows led.

Ferrari hit back at Verstappen ‘cheating’ allegation

FOCUS

Ferrari has hit back at Max Verstappen’s ‘cheating’ stance made against the Italian team after Charles Leclerc claimed it had an unfair advantage on the United States Grand Prix circuit.

Verstappen, who finished third behind the Ferrari duo of Valentino Rossi and now-crowned six-time champion Lewis Hamilton, said Ferrari had got their proven speed and form because they had been able to manipulate the technical regulations.

The Ferrari driver, from the newly formed ‘Formula One’ governing body, the International Motoring and Sports Council, has made an inquiry into Verstappen’s pit stop about a ‘cheating’ strategy and it is expected the decision will be made within a few days.

Speaking to reporters late last night, the Dutchman said: “It is the type of comments that you are sometimes allowed to make in the heat of the moment and think afterwards, and I think everybody should be a little bit calmer.

Hamilton, who celebrated his 35th birthday the day before, went on to launch a defence of his team, explaining how he could have been in a better position and why he was not adequated for the situation.

The 2019 world champion has also been hit with criticism from McLaren’s then-boss Ron Dennis, who told him “one day I want to race with you” and “when you’re in the car you have to be a winner”.

Bayern Munich are looking for a new head coach after Niko Kovacic’s GPLv3 is due to expire on Sunday. However, there is interest from several clubs including English Premier League giants Liverpool and Manchester United

The German champions have already confirmed that Niko Kovac, who was hired in 2019, will leave his position at the end of the season. Kovac has come under heavy criticism for Bayern’s struggles in recent weeks, particularly after losing to Borussia Dortmund in the German Supercup last weekend.

A series of poor performances, including a 2-2 draw at Augsburg a fortnight ago, saw Kovac take责任 for the team’s first-half capitulation against Madrid in the Champions League. He later was accused of “illegible” defense during the 1-0 defeat at the San Siro.

With one eye on the Italians, both clubs meet at Signal Iduna Park on Saturday yet was frustrated under Kovac’s reign. His first three months following back-lash to Kovac’s sacking would not be enough to convince fans Kovac is the correct decision.

“Everton Football Club can confirm that Adam Lallana has agreed to join us on a two-year contract. Lallana has made his 500th appearance for Bayern and will arrive at Goodison Park on Saturday. Robert Lewandowski bludgeoned home his 100th goal as Bayern trounced Wolfsburg 3-1 on Saturday in the Bundesliga.

The German champions were unable to hold on to their lead for long against the visitors, but they eventually pulled away thanks to Lewandowski’s penalty and goals from Leon Goretzka and Thomas Mueller. The result left Bayern four points clear at the top of the Bundesliga table, with Leipzig now third.

Bayern had started the season strongly, winning their first four matches and scoring 17 goals in the process. However, the team’s form has been inconsistent in recent weeks, with losses to Gladbach, Mainz and Leverkusen.

Injuries to key players have also contributed to Bayern’s struggles, with Thomas Mueller and Kingsley Coman both ruled out for the foreseeable future. However, Bayern remain the team to beat in the Bundesliga, and they will look to continue their winning streak when they face Augsburg next weekend.

Nadal returns to number one in spite of Djokovic win in Paris

Rafael Nadal’s vulnerability to late-season injuries has been surfaced once more at Roland Garros amid an abnormal muscle strain. The 13-time Grand Slam champion was forced out of the French Open with an abdominal strain. The 10-year-old had not played since the quarter-finals of the Italian Open in early June due to a back injury.

Nadal, who never won the title of the last three years, also withdrew from the Wimbledon before the quarter-finals against Roger Federer’s due to a muscle strain. The Spaniard’s last tour win was at the 2010 US Open.

Nadal will try to make a comeback at the French Open but he has not played a tournament this year due to a muscle strain. The Spaniard has said he will not be able to play at the US Open and the Davis Cup.

Nadal is not the only one to have suffered late-season injuries. He will be joined by many other players who have not been able to perform at their best due to injuries.
