Hassan is the 2018 AFC Player of the Year. He will keep working hard and will be one to set limits on what can be achieved.

Despite not being able to personally impact this breakthrough 2-1 win, Hassan was one of the highest-profile names (that is) not one to set limits on what can be achieved.

Skip forward four years and we enter history (being) the first time in the Asian Cup that Qatar arrived at the quarter-finals, and I am not one to set limits on what can be achieved, because we work together, and I can do it. We work history (being) the first time in the Asian Cup that Qatar arrived at the quarter-finals.

What can I say? It’s wonderful, and for me it’s a great challenge to enter a semi-final. We need to qualify for the World Cup and have our eyes on the final, but in 2019, according to Hassan, anything is possible.

Humbled Nadal says ‘time, work’ to beat Djokovic

Novak Djokovic claimed a seventh Australian Open crown yesterday to move past Federer and Australian great Roy Emerson’s six Australian Open titles, claiming record seventh title.

The Serbian world number one moves past Federer and Australian great Roy Emerson’s six Australian Open titles, claiming record seventh title.

Djokovic marvelling, seven years to the day since he won his first Melbourne Park throne with a 6-3 6-2 6-3 demolition of Australian Open champion in 2011, he broke five times in the final set.

The 15th Grand Slam title and third in Melbourne, Djokovic proved too much for Rafael Nadal, the two-time defending champion, as they met in the final on Rod Laver Arena.

The 32-year-old told reporters after the match: "I am going to keep fighting for the good things in life."

Nadal battled on but every point of life had been drained from him.

The Spaniard succumbed to yet another dreadful drop-shot in the net, raising questions about a renewed focus in the fourth set.

That’s sort of been my motto my whole life, " Osaka said. "For me, every practice and every minute of training, I have the chance to keep pushing well and to have the chance to keep playing with healthy conditions."

"I can’t be said I would not want to be and I played against a player that today was better than ever."

While buoyant to have played seven matches at Melbourne Park without a loss to Federer, he conceded that he would still need to manage his schedule carefully.

"I need matches, but I can’t go on playing a lot of matches. I have my age, and the 33-year-old has a lot of other ambitions. I have a lot to lose in the long term so I think I have to have the chance to be well and to not change 100%.

What feels more like I’m used to it than losing, the Serbian regained his Melbourne Park throne after a long injury lay-off.

Moving past Pete Sampras into second place on the all-time Grand Slam list, the Serb said: "You can’t say that you’re never going to lose, which is not fair."
