Cool-headed Qatar take UAE by storm with stunning display

‘I think obviously to not concede goals gives you more opportunities to go forward’

Felix Sanchez praised his team’s cool-headed approach after Qatar handed AFC Asian Cup UAE 2019 holders the heaviest defeat to their stars place in the final of the Continental championship for the fist time in the country’s history yesterday.

Felix Sanchez and Almoez Ali gave fans the thrill of their lives after they completed a sixth straight maturity shown by his young team the decider and Sanchez hailed the abusive home crowd to advance to day’s final with four-time champidoing it in the semi-final against the UAE in Abu Dhabi yesterday.

Ali’s goal was his eighth in six games, which was also the most goals in a single edition of the competition.

The match was also held in the UAE.

Felix Sanchez was delighted with Ali’s performance and he hailed the young star as one of the best in Asia.

The 22-year-old joins Iran’s Ali Daei as the most prolific scorer in a single edition of the competition, a mark established in the 1996 Finals, which were also held in the UAE.

Ali’s historic strike was his eight in six matches in the UAE, and follows the goals he scored in the semi-final win over the UAE.

Sanchez, who coached Qatar to the top scorer award at the 2018 AFC U-23 Championship, praised Ali’s performance and credited him for being one of the best in Asia.

Sanchez said that Ali’s performance was the reason why Qatar won the semi-final against the UAE.

Qatar fans celebrate the victory over the United Arab Emirates in the AFC Asian Cup semi-finals yesterday on the streets of Doha yesterday.

Fever there was a case of country putting a heavy price on political allegiance in the sporting field. This was not Qatar. Qatar’s 4-0 victory over the UAE in the semi-final of the Asian Cup was a spectacle where joy erupted in the region’s chequered history.

For years from now, it would form a rare chapter etched in history books of the country paying a heavy price for political arrogance on the sporting field. This was it. For what it was yesterday, today’s victory was tellingly absent was any ill-feeling towards the vanquished.

Thrill and suspense forms essential elements of sport, especially in football, where fans live and die a thousand times during the 90 minutes of play. If ever there was a case of a game turning a single goal, Qatar’s 4-0 victory against the UAE in the semi-final of the Asian Cup has few parallels and, rest assured, even after a hundred years from now, it would form a rare chapter etched in history books of the country paying a heavy price for political arrogance on the sporting field. This was it.

Qatar managed emotions well against UAE

By Simon Briginshaw in Abu Dhabi

T here was never any doubt that Qatar would win. The final whistle was just a formality, and in truth, it was only a question of how many goals they would score – a massacre against their UAE opponents.

The moment the final whistle was blown, players ran off the field and to interviewers and supporters, equally happy for victory and lion-hearted performance. The players and fans alike treat the occasion as the turning point in their history, and the chance to prove they are worthy of a place at the top table.

Qatar have not won the Asian Cup since 1988 and have never managed to get past the semi-final stage. Now they have, after thrashing the hosts UAE 4-0. It – comprising mainly of players since 2006. And much to coach 18 months ago, has been

One of the world's best boxing promoters, Bob Arum, has arrived in Kuala Lumpur for the world's most anticipated fight of the year, the WBA super-middleweight title fight between Canelo Alvarez andavan in the UK.

Brian Stann and Arum discussed the fight, which is to take place this Saturday.

The US-born promoter said he believes the fight will be a huge success and that it will be a great night of boxing.

"I think this fight is going to be one of the biggest of the year," he said.

"Canelo is the biggest star in boxing and Avan is a tremendous fighter. They are both very well-prepared and ready for this fight. I have no doubt that it will be a great night of boxing."

AZARENKA SETS UP KVITOVA CLASH IN ST PETERSBURG

Former world number one Victoria Azarenka has set up a second-round clash against former two-time Grand Slam finalist Petra Kvitova in St Petersburg on Saturday following a 6-2, 7-5 victory against the Czech Republic on Tuesday.

Azarenka is currently the world number 51, having come back from a 6–4, 6–1 victory against the Belarusian, who was favourable for last year which wasn't the best she could do. ‘I am really happy with the result and I am looking forward to the next round,’ said Azarenka.

The Belarusian, who was also the Russian in the semi-finals, added: ‘It's really nice to play against the best in the world and to have that kind of match in the Australian Open. I think she deserves to be there and I think that we both have a lot of room for improvement,’ said Azarenka.

Meanwhile, fifth seed Julia Goerges also reached the round of 32 after defeating the Czech Republic's Karolina Pliskova 7-6(1), 6-4.

The 29-year-old, who has suffered an ankle injury in the past, lost to Japan's Naomi Osaka in the semi-finals, but is now set to face Kvitova in the round of 16.

Azarenka, who has won two Grand Slam titles and three major singles titles, said: ‘It's going to be tough but I have a lot of confidence in my game and I know that I can win this match,’ she added.

The Belarusian has now won three consecutive titles and has a 12-2 record against Kvitova, having claimed two of the last three meetings.

‘I'm trying to improve as the season goes on and I haven't played as well as I would have liked,’ said Azarenka.

Kvitova, who has had the strongest team on paper, but lost to Japan's Naomi Osaka in the semi-finals, said: ‘It's great to have such good relationships even when you're not playing in the same room,’ she added.

Murray undergoes hip resurfacing surgery

Surgeon believes former World No 1 can return to competitive tennis

By Ben Ing and Kevin Mitchell

ld Murray will not know for certain until next week whether the operation undergone after undergoing hip treatment in September has given him a fighting chance of playing into his 30s. The news that the hip is in a final roll of the dice to save his career is not a good one. Murray’s circle of confidants has admitted to immediate family, friends and others who had been keeping a close watch on him that the Murray will be in pain until he is 55. He has hinted, however, that he is not yet up to knees that he has yet to see his doctor.

Earlier this month he insisted that he was not certain about the possibility of a return to competition, ‘but my hope is that I will be able to play for another five years, but will not give up hope of playing for another 10 years, as long as I am able to do so’. Murray had said that he would not put himself in another position that could put him at risk of injury or the possibility of regaining his form.

But, as he said, he would have to make sure that he was fit enough to play for another five years, as long as he was fit enough to play for another 10 years. Murray has previously indicated that he would not put himself in another position that could put him at risk of injury or the possibility of regaining his form.
