West Indies assistant coach Stuart Yacoob has launched a scathing attack on the bowlers he has at his disposal. Speaking on the eve of the World Cup opener against Australia on Thursday, Yacoob hit out at the lack of quality in the West Indies bowling attack.

"The wickets are going to come out of their own place in cricket history rather than just be complemented to past greats," Yacoob said. "West Indies' past attack of%s Brian Lara, Curtly Ambrose, Michael Holding and Joel Garner made their presence felt at the World Cup, creating memories of years gone by."

When West Indies won the World Cup in 1979 and 1999 (50-over format), they did so with some of the best bowling attacks in the history of the game. Known in Andy Roberts, Michael Holding and Joel Garner.

Meanwhile, their World Cup match against South Africa on Monday will take place at Hampshire's County Ground in Southampton, where West Indies' much-maligned captain Jason Holder and star small-medium pace bowler Kemar罗ath Climax and Ameer (who played for the county – Hampshire) will face their former teammate and the unrivalled fast bowler Malcolm Marshall.

"We're looking back," Estwick said afterwards at Southampton.

"We've got to respect the past but this group of bowlers know that's not to find their own identity," he added.

"They are doing a good job of what the West Indies is about, with the wickets that we are getting. It's looking like a very high-scoring contest."

"Everybody was saying teams are going to make 360 or 380. We are going to make 360 or 380 with a smile on our face."

Estwick also said Jason Holder's team were conscious of how the much the West Indies meant to their supporters back home and in Britain as well.

"We are playing our way, we are playing the way that works for us."

"This is big for the Caribbean people," he insisted. "One thing we have been doing is to go out and put a smile on people's faces in the Caribbean."

"Obviously, essentially we are struggling a little bit so we want people to wake up in the morning, go out and then with a smile on their face, seeing West Indies playing good cricket."

"And also we want to help the people of London, who have had so much pressure, have had so much pressure without bowling a ball."

"We all have our aspirations. We want to inspire you."

Vettel was punished after coming back from the grass in front of Hamilton while under pressure in a manoeuvre regarded as dangerous by stewards — and the German's behaviour afterwards showed he was clearly angry.

"When the ball isn't exposed, you have to assume the race is over," he added.

On Vettel believing the penalty was unfair, Hamilton said:

"That's his opinion of course, I couldn't care less."

"I am so glad that a lot of Korean fans are here supporting me," she said.

"I am a bit nervous after the birdie on 12, but then stumbled with bogeys on 13 and 14."

Manchester United have made a £40mn bid for Crystal Palace’s Wan-Bissaka

By Dominic Ivena and John Egan

Manchester United have made an £40mn bid for Aaron Wan-Bissaka rejected by Crystal Palace. Sources close to Manchester United believe the Premier League leaders are prepared to take their offer, or to consider a loan deal with a view to a permanent move. Palace want more than £40mn for Wan-Bissaka and have rejected United’s offer, which would make him the most expensive defender in British football history.

The 23-year-old, originally a winger, is currently competing for the summer’s European Championship. United’s interest in Wan-Bissaka is believed to have been sparked by his performance against France in the semi-final of the tournament. Wan-Bissaka, who has impressed for Palace in recent weeks, is thought to have been targeted by United at the beginning of the month and immediately rejected the idea of moving to Old Trafford.

Wan-Bissaka is seen as a potential replacement for the 24-year-old Lisbon-born right-back, who United want to replace in the Champions League. United have been warned that Palace want more than £50mn for Wan-Bissaka, who is considered one of the best young defenders in the world. Palace want a significant amount for Wan-Bissaka, who is wanted by Manchester United, as well as other Premier League clubs. The £40mn bid is considered a significant improvement on the £30mn Palace were reported to have rejected last week.

EURO 2020 QUALIFYING

Germany seal routine win over Belarus while Italy crush Greece to go three points clear at the top of their group

Germany's Jérôme Roussillon celebrates with Fabian Delph after winning the Nations League third-place play off match against Switzerland.

Germany manager Joachim Löw still seems to have a point to prove on Saturday night when his team face Turkey in Euro 2020 qualifying action.

Germany have won all four of their games so far this campaign and are two points clear of France at the top of Group C, having played one game fewer than leaders France.

For example, in the second half we played as a young Germany team and we've got to make sure we really deliver on the pitch and deliver a performance.

Löw is keen to keep the pressure on, knowing that his team must capitalise on their five-point lead over France, who have been impressive performance today and were 7-0 winners over the Turks last year.

There's still a lot of work to do but the important thing is that we continued to improve and we will continue to improve and we will continue to improve.
