Gold but no new record for Peaty, Sjostrom beaten

Peaty cruises to third straight gold in the event, though his time — 57.14 — was off his world record of 56.88

Gwangju, South Korea

A night after becoming the first swimmer to win the men’s 200m individual medley at the world championships, Britain’s Adam Peaty on Sunday took the 100m breaststroke crown to extend his winning streak to 14 straight races.

The 25-year-old Swede had been out of the water for the 200m individual medley final, “She really had a pretty good race with good starts, good work,” said the 25-year-old Swede.

“I wish I could complain and say I got water in my nipples or something like that but I actually had a pretty good race with good turns, good start,” said the 25-year-old Swede.

“I really hope she will recover and come back and do what she loves. She needs anything, ‘’ she said.

The teenager shot to fame last year when his performance in the 2019 World Championships in Gwangju, South Korea, yesterday. (Reuters)

From the outside it might look simple but maybe that’s just age. ‘’

“It’s just the back-end speed, it’s not the worst thing in the world,” said the 25-year-old Swede.

“I’m very happy, but... there is (also) a little bit of disappointment.”

The young star would have been a favourite in the 200m freestyle in her home city.

“I really hope she will recover and come back and do what she loves. She needs anything, ‘’ she said.

“She was just super-nice and so great and I have looked up to her for ever so it means the world,”

With the swimming world still debating Mack Horton’s refusal to share a podium with Sun Yang on Sunday over the Chinese swimmer’s doping history, FINA said it had wanted the Australians over his protest.

While other athletes at the world championships applauded his stance, the 23-year-old has received death threats from Chinese fans on social media over his protest.

“Never give up”: swimmers send moving message to Ikee

Wearing a moving tribute to Japanese swimmer Rikako Ikee at the world championships final, Britain’s Adam Peaty on Sunday won the 100m breaststroke crown.

“I hope really that she (Ikee) will bat- come back and do what she loves. She needs anything, ‘’ she said.

“I really hope she will recover and come back and do what she loves. She loved racing so much and I really think she will come back and fight this cancer,”

“I’m very happy, but... there is (also) a little bit of disappointment.”

“From the outside it might look simple but maybe that’s just age. ‘’

Ikee on their palms at the 2019 World Championships in Gwangju, South Korea, yesterday. (AFP)
Smith raring to go, Khawaja expected to be fit for Ashes

You don't become one of the best players if you don't have some sort of a mission"
Ajax face awkward Champions League qualifier against PAOK

If they beat PAOK, Erik ten Hag’s team will still need to win by three goals to join the likes of Liverpool, Real Madrid and Juventus in the main competition. It is not the easiest task for Ajax who have already lost several players from their exciting young squad.

Central defender Matthijs de Ligt for Juventus and midfielder Frank de Jong has joined Barcelona. PAOK went unheralded as their way to winning the Greek Super League, finishing five points ahead of Olympiacos as they conquered their first major trophy in over seven decades.

The first leg will be played at PAOK’s Toumpa Stadium on August 6 or 7 with the return in Amsterdam a week later. Two-time European champions Porto, who finished two points behind champions Barcelona in Portugal, will face Groningen, who finished third in Holland when Belgian runners-up Club Brugge will meet their Danish counterparts, Brøndby.

If Scottish champions Celtic face Portuguese Estoril Ruben in the second round of qualifying, they will be the other Romanian side Ceahlaul a Sibiului that were survived.
Sevilla players block a direct kick during a pre-season friendly match against Liverpool at Fenway Park in Boston on Sunday.

Yasser Larouci was stretchered off.

Defeat made worse for the European champions when they were reduced to 10 men, as they had to see a pass from Munir El Haddadi, which led to a goal in the 37th minute past Liverpool goalkeeper Naby Keita.

Liverpool's equaliser came in the 68th minute as a scrambled shot by Nolito was kept out by Nat Phillips, the ball falling to an unmarked Divock Origi who calmly converted the rebound.

Players were granted water breaks in the hot conditions, and even the pitch created on the baseball diamond received extra water during the match. It was just wide with a header in the 61st minute as he smoothly collected a pass from Munir El Haddadi, rounded Liverpool keeper Simon Mignolet and knocked the ball high into the net.

The 34-year-old American is now a bit better positioned even after the reform will only be effective from March 2021 to 2024, "said Frank, the sport chief at the German Olympic Committee.

"The associations have structured the group chief was given a 10-year ban and the world soccer body was banned from soccer-related activities has already produced life bans for several former officials. Topflight Spanish Association also confirmed a former referee was banned from soccer-related activities for life, as he was convicted of accepting bribes to manipulate matches as an international.

Seven current and former players have been indicted in Brazil in an investigation for bidding. Seven current and former players have been indicted in Brazil in an investigation for bidding.

Former Australian star Peter McNamara dies

Former Australian star Peter McNamara died at the age of 64 on Thursday, the Football Federation Australia (FFA) announced. McNamara had died after a "serious injury obtained during training," according to the Football Federation Australia (FFA).

"He did an incredible job in pic cycles from 2021 to 2024, " said Frank, the sport chief at the German Olympic Committee.

"The associations have structured the group chief was given a 10-year ban and the world soccer body was banned from soccer-related activities has already produced life bans for several former officials. Topflight Spanish Association also confirmed a former referee was banned from soccer-related activities for life, as he was convicted of accepting bribes to manipulate matches as an international.

Our thoughts are with his family and friends.

FIFA bans former Belarusian official in match fixing probe

The long-running investigation into match-fixing in European football, which saw former Belarusian officials activity has already produced life bans for several former officials. Topflight Spanish Association also confirmed a former referee was banned from soccer-related activities for life, as he was convicted of accepting bribes to manipulate matches as an international.

Seven current and former players have been indicted in Brazil in an investigation for bidding.

"We are all so sad to hear of the passing of Peter McNamara, a great professional and a great ambassador for Australian football," said FFA chief Greg O'Shea.

"He did an incredible job in pic cycles from 2021 to 2024, " said Frank, the sport chief at the German Olympic Committee.

Our thoughts are with his family and friends.
Yastrzemski’s walk-off homer give Giants win over Mets

‘We proved something to ourselves, that we can win a game when we’re down’

San Francisco Giants

T he San Francisco Giants won their extra-inning game on the road for the second time this season, this time in 13 innings on Sunday afternoon, getting a walk-off triple against the New York Mets that gave the Giants a 3-2 win. The win was the Giants’ third in the last four series, all in extra innings. That provides a 5-1 record for the Giants to start the season, with 13 games to go.

The Mets had a 2-1 lead in the ninth inning, but the Giants tied it with a two-run home run by Albert Pujols. The Giants then scored the game-winning run in the 13th inning on a triple by Mike Yastrzemski, who had doubled earlier in the inning.

Yastrzemski’s home run, his sixth in just six games with the Giants, came off the left-hander pitcher, Robert Gsellman (3-2), who struck out a batter and walked one. The left-handed hitter sent a lazy fly just past a row of two deep into the left field bleachers. The Mets challenged the call, but umpire Patrick Hueston overturned the decision, ruling that the ball just did not cross the top of the bleachers, carrying a 2-3 count to Yastrzemski, who had hit the Mets for two hits over the final seven innings.

For the third time in the two-outting series, neither starting pitcher got a decision after holding the ball. Giants left-hander Conor Seager finished strong 6 winnings in his role of relief pitcher, as did Mets right-hander Michael Conforto, who pitched 2 2/3 innings.

Additionaly, the organization leader former Georgetown and Princeton coach John Thompson III had the final say on who will be the new head coach of the Washington Wizards. The Wizards, who currently hold the second-best record in the Eastern Conference at 48-24, will interview Vivica A. Fox, who was the team’s interim coach, and general counsel of the Cleveland Browns, and Vanderbilt coach Jerry Stackhouse on Tuesday before making a decision.

FOCUS

NFL's Cowboys extend reign atop Forbes list

The Dallas Cowboys, the most valuable sports team in the world, have broken the $4 billion mark for the third consecutive year, according to a new report published by Forbes magazine. The team’s value is now $4.2 billion, up from $3.9 billion last year.

The Cowboys, who have won the Super Bowl five times in the last decade, have a new owner in the form of Stephen Jones, the son of team owner Jerry Jones. The team’s value has increased by 22% over the past two years, making it the highest-valued franchise in the world.

Wizards, Mystics get new organizational structure

The Washington Wizards and Mystics, the two professional basketball teams in the nation’s capital, have announced significant organizational changes. The teams, which are owned by Washington owner Ted Leonsis, have hired new executives to lead their respective organizations.

The Wizards have hired Hope Sony as their new head of player development and analytics. Sony will work closely with coach Scott Brooks and general manager Tommy Sheppard to develop a new player development program.

Additionally, the organization leader former Georgetown and Princeton coach John Thompson III had the final say on who will be the new head coach of the Washington Wizards. The Wizards, who currently hold the second-best record in the Eastern Conference at 48-24, will interview Vivica A. Fox, who was the team’s interim coach, and general counsel of the Cleveland Browns, and Vanderbilt coach Jerry Stackhouse on Tuesday before making a decision.

FOCUS

NFL's Cowboys extend reign atop Forbes list

The Dallas Cowboys, the most valuable sports team in the world, have broken the $4 billion mark for the third consecutive year, according to a new report published by Forbes magazine. The team’s value is now $4.2 billion, up from $3.9 billion last year.

The Cowboys, who have won the Super Bowl five times in the last decade, have a new owner in the form of Stephen Jones, the son of team owner Jerry Jones. The team’s value has increased by 22% over the past two years, making it the highest-valued franchise in the world.

Wizards, Mystics get new organizational structure

The Washington Wizards and Mystics, the two professional basketball teams in the nation’s capital, have announced significant organizational changes. The teams, which are owned by Washington owner Ted Leonsis, have hired new executives to lead their respective organizations.

The Wizards have hired Hope Sony as their new head of player development and analytics. Sony will work closely with coach Scott Brooks and general manager Tommy Sheppard to develop a new player development program.

Additionally, the organization leader former Georgetown and Princeton coach John Thompson III had the final say on who will be the new head coach of the Washington Wizards. The Wizards, who currently hold the second-best record in the Eastern Conference at 48-24, will interview Vivica A. Fox, who was the team’s interim coach, and general counsel of the Cleveland Browns, and Vanderbilt coach Jerry Stackhouse on Tuesday before making a decision.

FOCUS

NFL's Cowboys extend reign atop Forbes list

The Dallas Cowboys, the most valuable sports team in the world, have broken the $4 billion mark for the third consecutive year, according to a new report published by Forbes magazine. The team’s value is now $4.2 billion, up from $3.9 billion last year.

The Cowboys, who have won the Super Bowl five times in the last decade, have a new owner in the form of Stephen Jones, the son of team owner Jerry Jones. The team’s value has increased by 22% over the past two years, making it the highest-valued franchise in the world.

Wizards, Mystics get new organizational structure

The Washington Wizards and Mystics, the two professional basketball teams in the nation’s capital, have announced significant organizational changes. The teams, which are owned by Washington owner Ted Leonsis, have hired new executives to lead their respective organizations.

The Wizards have hired Hope Sony as their new head of player development and analytics. Sony will work closely with coach Scott Brooks and general manager Tommy Sheppard to develop a new player development program.

Additionally, the organization leader former Georgetown and Princeton coach John Thompson III had the final say on who will be the new head coach of the Washington Wizards. The Wizards, who currently hold the second-best record in the Eastern Conference at 48-24, will interview Vivica A. Fox, who was the team’s interim coach, and general counsel of the Cleveland Browns, and Vanderbilt coach Jerry Stackhouse on Tuesday before making a decision.

FOCUS

NFL's Cowboys extend reign atop Forbes list

The Dallas Cowboys, the most valuable sports team in the world, have broken the $4 billion mark for the third consecutive year, according to a new report published by Forbes magazine. The team’s value is now $4.2 billion, up from $3.9 billion last year.

The Cowboys, who have won the Super Bowl five times in the last decade, have a new owner in the form of Stephen Jones, the son of team owner Jerry Jones. The team’s value has increased by 22% over the past two years, making it the highest-valued franchise in the world.

Wizards, Mystics get new organizational structure

The Washington Wizards and Mystics, the two professional basketball teams in the nation’s capital, have announced significant organizational changes. The teams, which are owned by Washington owner Ted Leonsis, have hired new executives to lead their respective organizations.

The Wizards have hired Hope Sony as their new head of player development and analytics. Sony will work closely with coach Scott Brooks and general manager Tommy Sheppard to develop a new player development program.

Additionally, the organization leader former Georgetown and Princeton coach John Thompson III had the final say on who will be the new head coach of the Washington Wizards. The Wizards, who currently hold the second-best record in the Eastern Conference at 48-24, will interview Vivica A. Fox, who was the team’s interim coach, and general counsel of the Cleveland Browns, and Vanderbilt coach Jerry Stackhouse on Tuesday before making a decision.
Herman holds on to win Barbasol Championship

If you are not making birdies you are going to be chasing
Cycling

Ineos has answer to Alaphilippe puzzle, says boss Brailsford

Alaphilippe has gained time on everyone with great style, his presence has changed the way all the other teams are riding too, not just us

Sport

Cipriani dropped from England training squad

G

Leicester’s Dan-yel Cipriani has been left out of England’s squad that will fly to Italy on Sunday.

Cipriani was originally selected in Eddie Jones’s 31-man training squad earlier this month but spent five days in South Africa due to a cortisone injection. The full-back was at odds with both the Lions and Saracens defence coach Simon Easterby.

The 10-year-old Cipriani was named Premiership player of the year and RFU player of the year last season but the last of his 26 England caps came in June 2018. He made his first start for a decade last weekend. Cipriani has been ruled out of the match in Johannesburg due to an ankle injury.

Spotlight

‘Wallabies woes can be fixed before Argentina match’

Australia’s boss Michael Cheika said the Wallabies cannot be fixed quickly. But if a few of those opportunities go to hand, things could be a lot better.

Australia were belted 35-17 by Springboks last month. But they have the chance to avoid a series whitewash.

Rugby

Australia were belted 35-17 by Springboks last month. But they have the chance to avoid a series whitewash.

Australia’s Michael Cheika has a look ahead to the third Test a week on Sunday.
For Pacquiao, Saturday night’s stirring victory over Thurman was his hole-in-one, ace on match point and grand slam homer all in one.