Thunderbolt Lorch rounded off an impressive group stage performance by putting his name in lights with the opening goal as Egypt saw off DR Congo 1-0 to book their place in the last eight.

Lorch was the man behind the goal, as he made a mazy run through midfield before supplying an exquisite through ball to Amr Warda, whose 12-yard shot was saved but failed to keep the ball out of goal.

'Why would the Liverpool forward keep playing in the competitions?' asked the authorities.

Wardar had an effort at goal instead of a much-needed substitute for the general public.

The Pharaohs were nowhere to be seen, with Mohamed Salah particularly ineffective at the game.

The winger was handed a yellow card after a foul on Mohamed Amine Elhouni, and was held in check throughout.

Salah had previously scored in a friendly against Zimbabwe, but was unable to find the net against the Africans.

Papers were captivated by Salah's failure to convert his chances, with some criticising his performance.

Salah was reportedly in tears after the match, with the authorities warning that disciplinary action might be taken.

The loss means that Egypt will have to wait at least another year to compete in the Africa Cup of Nations, leaving fans heartbroken.
