Scotland’s Hogg ‘hacked off’ at France’s title talk

Les Bles will lift their first trophy since 2010 if they win by more than 20 points against Scotland

By Sports Reporter

Scotland captain Stuart Hogg said it had been “annoying” to France talking about their title hopes before today. His No. 12 Louis Picamoles believes they will first have to win against Scotland before turning their attention to the Six Nations Grand Slam.

“Today we’re just going to have to show that we can win. We’ll show that we’re worth it, and we’ll prove that we’re the best team in Europe,” Hogg said. “And if we do that, the title can’t be far away.”

The visitors will be without No. 8 Fraser Maitland as they were limited to five substitutions during the game against Scotland. The Six Nations Grand Slam and the Six Nations Championship have been expanded to 2022, with the Grand Slam prize now worth £2m to the winning team.

“We’ve been waiting for it, “Picamoles said. “We have the best team in Europe in the Six Nations and we’re going to play against the best team. We’re going to try and bring the trophy home.”

Meanwhile Baer-Hoffmann, whose team lost 31-10 to Scotland in February, said: “We’re not going to get carried away. We’re going to try and win the match and take it from there.”

France head coach Gregor Townsend’s relationship with rugby was calling for a new-look rugby team with a fresh approach to the game.

“We’re preparing as normal for the match. It’s going to be a great game. It’s going to be a tight game. It’s going to be a hard-fought game. It’s going to be a physical game. It’s going to be a mental game. It’s going to be a physical and mental battle. It’s going to be a battle of wits. It’s going to be a battle of nerves.”

Townsend added.

New hopefuls for Aspire Academy 2021 entry line-up at Gold Camp

By Sports Reporter

Q asr Academy conducted the second round of its Talent Identification Programme yesterday at its premises. Known as the Development Programme, the assessment saw 40 young Qatar residents excited for a chance to join Aspire Academy. The event was attended by QREC Acting CEO Bader bin Mohamed al-Darwish and QREC Acting CEO Talal Al-Maniaa.

The assessment was held to see if the athletes have the required skills and ability to join Aspire Academy. The assessment included physical assessment during visits to government and independent schools in the Brussels Camp before the numbers are significantly whittled down in the second stage known as the Testing.

QREC Acting CEO Bader bin Mohamed al-Darwish yesterday that he is excited to see the outcome of the assessment, saying: “We have talent from 40 young Qatar residents who have submitted their applications to join our Academy and we are excited to see how they will perform during the assessment. We are looking for athletes who have the potential to join our Academy and we will provide them with the necessary training and support to help them reach their full potential.”

On the other hand, QREC Acting CEO Talal Al-Maniaa added: “We are looking for athletes who have the potential to join our Academy and we will provide them with the necessary training and support to help them reach their full potential. We are excited to see how they will perform during the assessment.”

The two-day Gold Camp was held at Aspire Academy on Tuesday and Wednesday to help train their sporting skills. One positive out of this was increased opportunities for Aspire coaches to see more of these small numbers of athletes, who are the new hopefuls for Aspire Academy. The assessment was conducted in a range of sports, including athletics, swimming, and football.

The assessment was conducted in a range of sports, including athletics, swimming, and football. The coaches were impressed with the number of athletes who joined the assessment and they were excited to see how they will perform in the next stage.

The next stage of the selection process will be the Testing, which will see the athletes undergo a range of physical and technical tests. The coaches will then assess the athletes’ performance and decide who will be invited to join Aspire Academy.
