Agüero starts long farewell at Man City

Agüero has won four league titles, with a fifth looking almost certain this season

Sergio Agüero will soon leave Manchester City after 10 trophy-laden years as the club’s record goalscorer, with 257 goals in 384 games so far.

Aguero joined City from Atletico Madrid in 2011 and was chosen as one of the Premier League’s all-time greats, often in the blue of Man City for one coming to terms with the influx of new young players, which will be one of his main tasks in this next season.

City’s decision not to offer him a new contract follows his decision to leave the club after a coronavirus infection.

As a “class act” on and off the pitch. Aguero is ready to face his new challenge with everyone who loves the club and maybe even those who some day will pay him.

He left the Argentine became the club’s record goalscorer, with 257 goals in 384 games so far.

“Shut his righ in 10 years,” the Argentine wrote.

“Aguero has won four Premier League titles, with a fifth looking almost certain this season.”

Shaw admits letting Southgate down over exclusions

I can't stop thinking of the mistakes that I made in the past, especially with England.

ASHLEY SHAW, ENGLAND'S LEFT-BACK AND MANCHESTER UNITED DEFENDER, HAS ADMIRED LETTING ENGLAND MANAGER GARETH SOUTHGATE DOWN AFTER HE WAS LEFT OUT OF THE 2022 WORLD CUP QUALIFYING SQUAD.

Shaw, 25, who was left out of Southgate's England squad for the game against Poland last week, has admitted he has been thinking about his omission for the past month.

He said: "I can't stop thinking of the mistakes that I made in the past, especially with England. I pulled out of a lot of tournaments, I didn't play for my country when I could have been dealt with, " he said.

"Ole was really happy for me so he told me to be part of this squad. "I tried to keep in touch with him just to let him know that things had changed. He's told me, 'pulled out of the past. The past is the past and I need to look forward and focus on the future.'"

Shaw has four caps and last played for England at the end of last year before playing for his club side Manchester United in their last fixture.

"I've tried to keep in touch with him. I've never stopped thinking about my mistakes but it's been really hard. The past is the past and I need to look forward and focus on the future.""

Murray eyes greener pastures after tennis career is finished

Andy Murray has revealed he would like to swap the tennis court for a golf course when his tennis career is over — saying he’d be a caddie to a professional golfer.

The three-time Grand Slam champion is avidly following the tour and is keen to step away from the sport and see which one is better for him.

Murray’s sporting ambitions, which have been affected by knee injuries, have recently been in the spotlight.

However, Murray, who was out of action for most of 2020 due to the ongoing Miami Open after an early exit in the singles, has revealed he would like to retire after his tennis career is finished.

He said: “I’m not sure if I’ll play again, but I will be in the gym and stay as fit as possible. It’s important for me to keep training and keep my body healthy.”

Murray, who is now 33, said he would like to swap the tennis court for a golf course when his tennis career is over.

He said: “I’ve played some great tennis in my career and I’ve achieved some fantastic things, but I think I’m ready to move on to a new chapter in my life.”

Murray has won three Grand Slam titles and has made it to the Wimbledon final twice, but he has struggled with injuries in recent years.

He said: “I’ve had a few injuries over the years, but I’ve always been able to come back stronger. I want to see how much longer I can compete and see how much longer I can enjoy the game.”
