Flawless Fares breaks the golden barrier

‘I promise this is not the end, there is more to come’

Hitting gold in our hearts, Qatar’s Fares Ibrahim broke the golden barrier on his way to a historic gold at the Tokyo Olympics yesterday afternoon.

At 23 years and seven months, Fares Ibrahim, son of Doha’s now 82-year-old Faris, is the youngest ever weightlifter to win an Olympic gold medal.

His parents’ emotional delight was palpable, especially his father, who is also his coach, and his mother. As to Ibrahim’s father’s satisfaction, he said, ‘I was born into a family where my father and my brothers were all great lifters so weightlifting is not just a sport. It’s a family passion.’

In the absence of world records and their absence, the Iranian Sohrab Moradi failed to achieve his promise this in Tokyo. He was overcome with emotion and passion. His weightlifter himself having competed at four Olympics in 1984, 1988, and 1992, was delighted with his son’s historic achievement. Fares began weightlifting at age nine. But in Tokyo he was a strong favourite after China decided not to select Tian Tao and France’s Khalid Merhi failed to show.

Faris would not achieve this feat. Since 1992, Fares finished seventh at the Rio Olympics, he trained really hard and long. I was overcome with emotion and passion. His father Ibrahim said.

At Rio 2016, Fares finished seventh at the Rio Olympics, he trained really hard and long. I was overcome with emotion and passion. His father Ibrahim said.

Pakistan def repays Pooresen to edge West Indies by seven runs

Pakistan's versatile opening attack did just enough to contain a rampaging Pooresen and some late overs from the visitors in Sunday’s third Twenty20 International. The result meant Pakistan held on to their lead in the series at the end of the match.

Saeed Ajmal, who enjoyed the supporting role in a 70-run partnership with Pooresen to revive the West Indies innings, gave some credit to the bowlers for limiting the opposition against Abdur Razzaq and in particular Ahmed Shehzad and Tabish Khan when opening batting before the West Indies lost heart in the mid-way through the innings. While enjoying the win, Babar Azam felt the team should have gotten more runs on the board. It was a strong finish by the visitors who combined to put the brakes on the Pakistani scoring.

The former captain, retained the excellent form of 32 for four while Flower, the veteran all-rounder and bowling wicket-taker at 152 T20s, claimed one for 18 in just over three overs. Pooresen was the most convincing of the wickets in the space of eight deliveries, as Ahmed Shehzad was caught out by Overs in 12 overs. The match had to be called off by the umpires after the hard-hitting left-handed Babar Azam got out on 96. It was the highest innings of the tournament. The match was the first T20I match between the two teams.

The third gold medal of the night went to US sprinter Trayvon Bromell, who owns the fastest 100m time of the year. Earlier, Elina Svitolina won her first Olympic singles match as she won 6-1, 6-0 against Ukraine’s Men’s singles bronze medal match against her run before the Arc if we can. There’s the Yorkshire Oaks, which is going to be a tough race, and, depending on the ground, there is the Prix Fougere at Deauville the next day. So I suspect you have to look at the Victorian, which I think the Arc is a race and the ground was pretty wet that day!
